UN ACCEPTS US PLAN TO DISARM

Allies Hope To Start POW Trade In 10 Days, Ask Reds To Recount

Communists Mum On UN Request To List Ill, Wounded

BULLETIN

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Thursday, April 9 (AP)—The Communists today offered to exchange 100 disabled war prisoners daily. That would mean the 600 they have promised to return—including probably not more than 125 Americans — would be exchanged within a span of six days.

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, April 9 (AP)—The Allies today hoped to begin exchanging sick and wounded within 10 days after urging the Reds to return more than the handful they offered Wednesday—only 600, probably fewer than 125 of them Americans.

The Communists gave no hint that they would heed the request for a more liberal classification of sick and wounded, although the Allies were giving them 5,800 Korean and Chinese prisoners. Allied authorities remained hopeful they would get more than the 600.

Negotiators were due to meet for the fourth time in as many days in the Panmunjom conference hut at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Wednesday, EST).

Date, Number To Be Set

The exact date of the exchange and the number to be traded daily were still to be fixed.

The total number to be traded was disclosed by the Reds and the U. N. Command Wednesday during talks lasting 66 minutes. No names were listed, but both liaison groups pushed steadily toward full agreement.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel termed the total number of 450 South Koreans and 150 Americans, British, French and other ailing captives to be returned "incredibly small."

Daniel reserved the right to challenge the figure later and asked the Communists to make a more "liberal interpretation" of captives eligible for repatriation. But the Red liaison chief, Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, gave no assurance this would be done.

Probably 100 U. S. Wounded

Despite the Allied disappointment, there was no perceptible slackening in the pace set by the liaison groups in working out an agreement.

"I have no reason at the present time to believe that they (Communists) are not acting in good faith," Daniel said.

Of the 12,000 prisoners which the Reds listed 16 months ago as in their possession, 3,000 were Americans and 1,000 from the British Commonwealth and other non-Korean forces.

By this ratio, the U. S. sick and wounded should number between 100 and 125.

ROKs Recapture Point From Reds

SEOUL, Thursday, April 9 (AP)—South Koreans recaptured a hotly contested outpost in Central Korea Wednesday night. U. S. Marines and Belgian infantrymen hurled back two company-sized thrusts by Chinese Communists elsewhere along the front.

Aside from these three actions, fighting slackened along the 155-mile battle front, the Eighth Army said.

In the air, U. S. Thunderjets destroyed 13 buildings and touched off two secondary blasts in a Red supply area in Western Korea, the Fifth Air Force reported.

The battle at 2,000-foot high outpost "Texas"—named by Allied correspondents—climaxed four days of steady fighting between the Chinese and infantrymen of the South Korean Third Division on the Central Front.

(The Defense Department in Washington reported 1,039 new battle casualties in a week, including 158 killed. This raised the total of U. S. dead, wounded and missing to 132,967. The figures reflected recent bitter fighting by Marines at Bunker Hill and U. S. Seventh Division troops at Old Baldy. It was the highest weekly casualty report since last November.)

Gene Tierney Divorced

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (INS) — Actress Gene Tierney obtained her final divorce decree today from Dress Designer Oleg Cassini. The actress, who is in Europe, obtained the decree on basis of affidavits stating that there had been no reconciliation.

Proposed Treaty Law Won't Work, Nash Tells Solons

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Citing the Panmunjom armistice negotiations as an example, a defense official testified today a requirement that Congress approve all executive agreements "just wouldn't work."

The witness, before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, was Frank C. Nash, assistant secretary of defense.

He opposed a proposed constitutional amendment which would require both Senate and House approval to make an executive agreement effective. The amendment also would require separate action by both the Senate and House before any provision of a treaty could become binding internal law in this country.

Nash said such restrictions would "seriously interfere with essential military operations, both in peace and in war."

Of the armistice negotiations to end the Korean fighting, he said he had watched the Joint Chiefs of Staff try to work out day-to-day instructions for Gen. Mark Clark, Far Eastern commander, and commented:

"How you could have anticipatory legislation except on the broadest terms and have us be able to do a good job at Panmunjom is beyond my understanding."

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), who sponsored the amendment along with 63 other senators, has said it is designed to prevent any treaty or executive agreement from depriving American citizens of any constitutional right.

But Nash said Army, Navy and Air Force specialists agree that, as drawn, it would "restrict the power of the president to act in moments of serious emergency where speed and decision are essential for the safety of this country."

Income Tax Boss Blasts Leniency

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — T. Coleman Andrews, Internal Revenue Commissioner, today denounced as "a national disgrace" lenient sentences he said the courts often mete out to federal tax law violators.

Andrews let fly at a public hearing before a Senate appropriations subcommittee, where he announced plans for vigorous crackdowns on tax evaders in the face of what he termed "stupendous odds."

Some of these odds, he said, lie in handling of tax cases in the courts.

Earlier, Andrews disclosed that the Revenue Bureau has been writing off as uncollectible between 50 and 55 million dollars a year in income and other taxes over the last three years.

His testimony led the subcommittee chairman, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) to call for a detailed accounting of tax write-offs or reductions of $5,000 or more. Andrews promised to have it ready in about three weeks.

Atomic Field To Be Opened To Industry

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The government is getting ready to modify its 10-year-old, 12 billion dollar atomic energy monopoly and invite private enterprise into the field of nuclear power.

The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed that today in a cautiously worded comment by an official spokesman. His remarks, together with information from other sources, indicated:

1. The AEC, after several years of study, has adopted a policy intended "to create a wider opportunity for private investment" in building and operating atomic plants to produce electric power.

2. The recommendations have received the approval of President Eisenhower, who immediately upon taking office last January listed peacetime use of atomic energy as a goal of his administration.

3. Details of the program will be passed along to the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee soon. Hearings by that committee may produce legislation to amend tight restrictions in the present Atomic Energy Act which handicap "wider opportunity" for private enterprise.

Officials said this would not mean that industry would plunge immediately into full-scale development of atomic power or that the government would abandon all interest, except for atomic weapons. Instead, it may take years before anything except individual ventures into the field will come about. Estimates that big-scale operations by private industry may not be possible before 1965 still hold.

No advocate of atomic power contends it will drive conventional power—oil, coal, hydroelectric—out of the field for a great many years. Instead, nuclear power is viewed as a supplement to those sources, to attain growing importance as the natural resources dwindle. Some estimates are that by 1975 supplies of petroleum in the world will begin to shrink to the point where they must be utilized only for mobile power plants—automobiles, planes (unless nuclear power for aircraft proves feasible for small as well as large aircraft).

Adenauer Offers Hospital Unit For UN Forces

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today offered to send a German hospital unit to aid free world forces fighting Communists in Korea—as a "humble contribution . . . from the heart."

The visiting German leader told a National Press Club luncheon he had made the offer to President Eisenhower "as a token of gratitude and as a token of our sympathy with you."

At the same time, Adenauer said there are "practical possibilities" of unifying his homeland, divided since World War II by opposing camps of the Communists and democracies.

Unity will come, he said, when the Western Defense Alliance demonstrates to Russia it will continue to grow stronger and will not crack as predicted by the late Premier Stalin and by his successor, Malenkov.

Chief Sitting Bull's Bones 'Stolen' By South Dakotans

MOBRIDGE, S. D., April 8 (AP)—Sixty-three years after the famed Indian leader's death, the bones of Sitting Bull got a fast ride across state lines today from an old to a new burial ground.

North Dakota, within whose borders the medicine man's body had lain for years in an often-neglected grave, was quick to cry "foul", and threaten legal action.

But a group of South Dakotans, who said they acted on behalf of Sitting Bull's descendents in removing the remains without official North Dakota sanction, said South Dakota would honor the Indian's resting place as North Dakota had failed to.

Swiftly they took the bones, largely decomposed, 30 miles south by truck to a previously-prepared grave on the Grand River, Sitting Bull's early home.

While North Dakotans threatened legal action over violation of exhumation laws, the South Dakota faction pointed out that the body was still on the reservation.

It appeared that so far as federal authorities were concerned, there it could remain.

Charles Spencer, superintendent of the Standing Rock Reservation, watched the disinterment without interfering. Armed with a Department of Interior telegram saying that the resting place of Sitting Bull's remains was up to his heirs, Spencer commented:

"I think the Indians have the right to say where their relatives' remains shall be buried."

Army System Is Blamed For Ammo Tieup

Byrd Says Red Tape Snafu "Colossal"

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Senators investigating ammunition shortages in Korea turned up evidence today of mountainous red tape in the Pentagon—red tape which Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called "the most colossal and terrible thing I've every known."

Former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett told a Senate armed forces subcommittee ammunition shortages in Korea have been critical at times and the Army as a whole is responsible for a "sorry showing."

Neither Lovett nor W. J. McNeil, a holdover from the Truman administration as assistant secretary and financial officer for the defense department, would point a finger of blame at any one individual or group.

Byrd brought out by questioning McNeil that a single order for ammunition passes through 42 separate agencies and must be cleared by more than 200 persons before it even becomes a contract. The papers travel an estimated 10,000 miles over a nine-months period.

McNeil said until the subcommittee investigation started, actual deliveries of ammunition to Korea were delayed for 15 more months after contracts were let.

Red and angry, Byrd stormed that this was folly and was "incomprehensible."

"Everybody admits it's gross inefficiency," he declared, "but nobody is responsible."

Lovett said the blame must be assigned "to the Army as a whole." McNeil blamed "the system." They agreed that lack of funds was not an important factor.

"Sometime," Byrd said, "we've got to find out who is responsible."

The senator then offered a resolution that the subcommittee demand from the Pentagon the names and positions of all persons, past or present, who have handled ammunition contracts.

The subcommittee took the unusual step of adopting the resolution then and there, in public session.

McNeil said the Army has submitted two sets of figures on appropriations and production for Korean ammunition, and the department so far has been unable to reconcile "either of these two statements." They were 500 million dollars apart in listing the amount of unobligated funds on hand for ammunition.

Mau Mau Leader Given Jail Term

KAPENGURIA, Kenya, April 8 (AP)—Jomo (Burning Spear) Kenyatta was found guilty today on charges of organizing the terrorist Mau Mau society. He was sentenced to seven years in prison at hard labor.

Mau Mau is made up mostly of Kikukyu tribesmen who have taken a blood oath to drive the white man out of this agriculturally rich British East African colony. Murder and torture have been among its devices.

Kenyatta, a man of mystery in Kenya with Russian connections, was sentenced also to three years for being a member of Mau Mau. But the sentences run concurrently.

Five other Africans were convicted with him of aiding Mau Mau or being members. They also received seven year sentences.

Committee Would Keep Rent Control

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee today accepted President Eisenhower's recommendation for extension of all federal rent controls now in effect through Sept. 30, 1953.

Completing action on a general economics controls bill, the committee also voted to give the President power to freeze prices, wages and rent for 90 days in a war crisis.

The vote on extension of all federal rent controls was a surprise despite the President's recommendation for a five month extension.

Previously several committee members had indicated that the rent lids in non-critical areas would be allowed to die on the scheduled date, April 30. These controls cover about 4,300,000 housing units in 1,400 cities over the country.

Cherry Blossom Princesses

Lobbyists Fight Arms Fund Slash, Senator Asserts

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's prestige apparently is being called into play to head off "military lobbyists" arguing against slashes in defense spending—and to rule out any contests among his own advisers over a critical question of defense production policy.

A senator said today the President is convinced that lobbyists are putting pressure on Congress to prevent substantial cuts in the 46 billion dollar military spending program projected by former President Truman for the year beginning July 1.

This senator, asking not to be quoted by name, said Eisenhower has advised Congress members to ignore "military lobbyists" because the President himself will take responsibility for cutting armed service outlays to the lowest level that is safe for the nation.

Administration officials have been talking of a two to four billion dollar reduction.

Meanwhile, the possibility of a conflict over the nature of the defense production base—the starting point for the flow of weapons in any future war—appeared to have eased.

Secretary of Defense Wilson raised the possibility of such a conflict with a reported plan to spend less on the expansion of munitions plants and production capacity—and to put more emphasis on actual production of weapons.

Wife May Sue Her Spouse For Rape, Judge Declares

CHICAGO, April 8 (INS)—Circuit Judge Julius Miner ruled today that a wife has the right to seek damages for rape committed by her estranged husband.

The judge made the ruling in denying a motion by Walter Dubickas, seeking to quash a $50,000 damage suit filed by his wife, Margaret, 39, on charges that he raped her Feb. 1.

Mrs. Dubickas has had a separate maintenance suit pending since fall of 1952.

In denying Dubickas' motion seeking dismissal of the damage suit, Judge Miner asserted:

"Refusal to cohabit may be regarded as grounds for divorce but physical force is untenable."

Mrs. Roosevelt Plans Speech In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is scheduled to appear here Sunday night at Ford's Theater in an address sponsored by the United Nations Association of Maryland.

Her appearance here co-incides with the eighth anniversary of the death of her husband, the late President Roosevelt.

'Red Fleet' Scuttled

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP)—The Soviet Navy newspaper Red Fleet has discontinued publication. It has been merged with the former Army newspaper Red Star, which will now cover both naval and army affairs.

Israel Tones Down Protest Against USSR

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Israel today was reported watering down her planned assault in the U. N. against Soviet anti-Semitism in the light of recent events in Moscow.

Israeli sources said the delegation still was working over a new approach to the subject, touching but lightly on the waves of anti-Semitism which reportedly swept through the Iron Curtain countries until only very recently.

The sources said the Israeli delegation would remain flexible to the changing situation, which took a dramatic turn last week with the announcement that the Kremlin was releasing 15 doctors—some of them Jewish—accused of a murder plot against top Soviet leaders.

That announcement, declaring the charges were completely false and were based on "improper" investigation methods, appeared to signal a reversal of the Soviet campaign accusing "international Zionists and Wall Street Jewish circles" of directing espionage, sabotage and murder in the Communist world.

In Tel Aviv the Israeli government said it was ready to negotiate a resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia, which were broken off after the bombing of the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv.

Prior to those events, Israel had given advance notice she would bring alleged Soviet anti-Semitism before the United Nations.

Girl, Unable To Wed Sailor, Tries Suicide

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 8 (INS) — A policeman stopped Margaret Hollin, 17, as she was preparing to leap today from the 209-foot-high Gold Star Memorial Bridge because her parents refused to allow her to marry a sailor.

Miss Hollin was carrying a note addressed to a sailor whom police refused to identify. Police said that the note declared Miss Hollin's family refused to allow her to marry him.

Liquor Dealer Has Sixth Brush With Bandit, Loses

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP)—You'd think after 12 years word would get around and holdup men would give Max Cooper's liquor store a wide berth. But they keep coming back.

Six times within the last 12 years, the 60-year-old, gray-haired Cooper has fought off gunmen intent on robbing him. On two occasions, Cooper has been wounded in resulting gun battles. Once his wife was wounded.

Until today, the thugs have never gotten away with anything.

This morning, Cooper told police, a Negro, about 25, entered his store and asked for a bottle of wine. Ten minutes later, the same man returned while Cooper was loading a beer cooler and stuck a hard object in his back.

"Stand still, or I'll kill you," Cooper said the man threatened. Then the bandit ordered him into a back room, scooped $90 out of the cash register and fled.

Cooper grabbed his .32 caliber revolver and ran after the robber, firing three shots at the fleeing man. Cooper said the bandit paused and returned fire once, shooting through his pocket.

Cooper's brushes with thugs read like this:

November 4, 1940—Routed two men from his tavern with five shots but was wounded in the upper arm.

March 1, 1951—Routed trio with three shots in duel that wounded his wife, Frieda, in the back and himself in the arm.

UN Commission Dismayed By US Balk On Covenant

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 8 (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Human Rights Commission expressed regret and dismay today over the American decision not to ratify covenants on human rights. The United States promptly sought to reassure them.

Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, U. S. delegate, told the commission that rather than having a reduced interest in human rights, her government wanted to advise and achieve them through broad action programs.

She spoke after the Indian delegate, Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay, had declared the American announcement "takes the bottom out of the work of this commission" and other delegates protested that it would jeopardize future progress.

The commission has been trying since 1948 to complete international covenants guaranteeing to citizens of countries ratifying them such basic rights as freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of religion, voting privileges and the like.

Mrs. Lord read a message from President Eisenhower saying that the commission's work was assuming "greater importance and meaning," but there was a "need for a new approach to the development of a human rights conscience in all areas of the world."

Then she stated clearly the United States position that "in the present stage of international relations it would not ratify the covenants."

In a message read to the commission yesterday by Mrs. Lord, U. S. Secretary of State Dulles suggested technical assistance programs and campaigns to raise standards of living as important alternative approaches.

Red Ship For Coronation

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP)—The British Embassy announced today that the Soviet Union will send the cruiser Sverdlov to participate in Queen Elizabeth II's coronation naval review June 15.

Vishinsky Asks West To Meet Reds Halfway

Gross Says Russia Delays Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—A picture of amiability, Andrei Y. Vishinsky invited the West today to meet the Soviet Union halfway in a new "tunnel of friendship." The U. N. Assembly listened attentively, then approved an American-backed plan of work for the Disarmament Commission.

The Assembly voted 52-5 (Soviet bloc) for the plan of work. The Assembly rejected, 33-10, a move by the Soviet Chief delegate to knock out a section reaffirming past U. N. decisions on arms limitation.

Vishinsky won a minor victory, however, when the United States and Britain and the majority accepted without a vote a Russian amendment removing a section praising the 12-nation Disarmament Commission for its work. The U.S. and Britain said they did not think that point worth quibbling about.

Vishinsky Amiable

The commission, which includes the U. S. and the Soviet Union, was asked to resume work and report progress not later than Sept. 1.

Vishinsky, in his new-model attempt to win friends, had no hard words for anyone. His attitude amazed delegates who remembered him as a grim assailant of the United States on almost every count.

U. S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross said the Russians were trying to "turn back the clock" and scuttle important accomplishments. But he said the United States welcomes any sign that the new Soviet leadership is interested in constructive negotiations.

Urges "Calm Spirit"

Vishinsky apparently had that in mind when he wound up his appeal for his proposal. He told Gross from the rostrum:

"You keep talking about deeds—well, has there not been a whole host of deeds (from Moscow)? . . . you ask for deeds—where are yours?

"If we dig the tunnel of friendship from both sides, we are likely to meet earlier. The phrase 'wait and see' has been used—but you can't 'wait and see' at one end. We would like to clear the groundwork for agreed decisions."

Vishinsky urged a "calm spirit so the U. N. can go forward."

TO PROBE GERM WAR CHARGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—The U. N. Political Committee late today voted to set up an impartial international commission to investigate Red charges that U. S. troops waged germ warfare in Korea.

The U. S. demanded the investigation, spokesmen said, in order to demonstrate that the accusations are a complete lie.

The vote in the 60-nation group was 52-5 (Soviet bloc) with three abstentions. The abstainers were Indonesia, Burma and India, who thought Communist China should have been consulted.

6 Die In London Subway Crash

LONDON, April 8 (INS) — Two packed subway trains collided in an East London tunnel early tonight, killing at least six persons and injuring more than a score. Many others were feared dead.

Rescue workers worked with oxyacetylene torches under floodlights to reach many others trapped in the tangled wreckage, about 100 yards from the above-ground Stratford station.

Debris filled the tunnel, forcing the rescue teams to drive wedges between sides of the tunnel and the wrecked cars to clear a path.

The trains were going in the same direction on the busy central line from Epping to Stratford when one rammed into the rear of the other.

Twenty-one persons were treated for minor injuries at a nearby hospital.

Author Wants Divorce

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS) — The New York Journal American reported today that Kathleen Winsor, author of the novel "Forever Amber," leaves for Mexico before the end of the week, to obtain a divorce from her third husband, Attorney Arnold Krakower.

Weather Forecast

MOBRIDGE, S. D., April 8 (AP)—Sixty-three years after the famed Indian leader's death, the bones of Sitting Bull got a fast ride across state lines today from an old to a new burial ground.

North Dakota, within whose borders the medicine man's body had lain for years in an often-neglected grave, was quick to cry "foul", and threaten legal action.

But a group of South Dakotans, who said they acted on behalf of Sitting Bull's descendents in removing the remains without official North Dakota sanction, said South Dakota would honor the Indian's resting place as North Dakota had failed to.

Swiftly they took the bones, largely decomposed, 30 miles south by truck to a previously-prepared grave on the Grand River, Sitting Bull's early home.

While North Dakotans threatened legal action over violation of exhumation laws, the South Dakota faction pointed out that the body was still on the reservation.

It appeared that so far as federal authorities were concerned, there it could remain.

Charles Spencer, superintendent of the Standing Rock Reservation, watched the disinterment without interfering. Armed with a Department of Interior telegram saying that the resting place of Sitting Bull's remains was up to his heirs, Spencer commented:

"I think the Indians have the right to say where their relatives' remains shall be buried."

Army System Is Blamed For Ammo Tieup

Byrd Says Red Tape Snafu "Colossal"

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Senators investigating ammunition shortages in Korea turned up evidence today of mountainous red tape in the Pentagon—red tape which Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called "the most colossal and terrible thing I've every known."

Former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett told a Senate armed forces subcommittee ammunition shortages in Korea have been critical at times and the Army as a whole is responsible for a "sorry showing."

Neither Lovett nor W. J. McNeil, a holdover from the Truman administration as assistant secretary and financial officer for the defense department, would point a finger of blame at any one individual or group.

Byrd brought out by questioning McNeil that a single order for ammunition passes through 42 separate agencies and must be cleared by more than 200 persons before it even becomes a contract. The papers travel an estimated 10,000 miles over a nine-months period.

McNeil said until the subcommittee investigation started, actual deliveries of ammunition to Korea were delayed for 15 more months after contracts were let.

Red and angry, Byrd stormed that this was folly and was "incomprehensible."

"Everybody admits it's gross inefficiency," he declared, "but nobody is responsible."

Lovett said the blame must be assigned "to the Army as a whole." McNeil blamed "the system." They agreed that lack of funds was not an important factor.

"Sometime," Byrd said, "we've got to find out who is responsible."

The senator then offered a resolution that the subcommittee demand from the Pentagon the names and positions of all persons, past or present, who have handled ammunition contracts.

The subcommittee took the unusual step of adopting the resolution then and there, in public session.

McNeil said the Army has submitted two sets of figures on appropriations and production for Korean ammunition, and the department so far has been unable to reconcile "either of these two statements." They were 500 million dollars apart in listing the amount of unobligated funds on hand for ammunition.

Mau Mau Leader Given Jail Term

KAPENGURIA, Kenya, April 8 (AP)—Jomo (Burning Spear) Kenyatta was found guilty today on charges of organizing the terrorist Mau Mau society. He was sentenced to seven years in prison at hard labor.

Mau Mau is made up mostly of Kikukyu tribesmen who have taken a blood oath to drive the white man out of this agriculturally rich British East African colony. Murder and torture have been among its devices.

Kenyatta, a man of mystery in Kenya with Russian connections, was sentenced also to three years for being a member of Mau Mau. But the sentences run concurrently.

Five other Africans were convicted with him of aiding Mau Mau or being members. They also received seven year sentences.

Committee Would Keep Rent Control

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee today accepted President Eisenhower's recommendation for extension of all federal rent controls now in effect through Sept. 30, 1953.

Completing action on a general economics controls bill, the committee also voted to give the President power to freeze prices, wages and rent for 90 days in a war crisis.

The vote on extension of all federal rent controls was a surprise despite the President's recommendation for a five month extension.

Previously several committee members had indicated that the rent lids in non-critical areas would be allowed to die on the scheduled date, April 30. These controls cover about 4,300,000 housing units in 1,400 cities over the country.

Cherry Blossom Princesses

Lobbyists Fight Arms Fund Slash, Senator Asserts

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's prestige apparently is being called into play to head off "military lobbyists" arguing against slashes in defense spending—and to rule out any contests among his own advisers over a critical question of defense production policy.

A senator said today the President is convinced that lobbyists are putting pressure on Congress to prevent substantial cuts in the 46 billion dollar military spending program projected by former President Truman for the year beginning July 1.

This senator, asking not to be quoted by name, said Eisenhower has advised Congress members to ignore "military lobbyists" because the President himself will take responsibility for cutting armed service outlays to the lowest level that is safe for the nation.

Administration officials have been talking of a two to four billion dollar reduction.

Meanwhile, the possibility of a conflict over the nature of the defense production base—the starting point for the flow of weapons in any future war—appeared to have eased.

Secretary of Defense Wilson raised the possibility of such a conflict with a reported plan to spend less on the expansion of munitions plants and production capacity—and to put more emphasis on actual production of weapons.

Wife May Sue Her Spouse For Rape, Judge Declares

CHICAGO, April 8 (INS)—Circuit Judge Julius Miner ruled today that a wife has the right to seek damages for rape committed by her estranged husband.

The judge made the ruling in denying a motion by Walter Dubickas, seeking to quash a $50,000 damage suit filed by his wife, Margaret, 39, on charges that he raped her Feb. 1.

Mrs. Dubickas has had a separate maintenance suit pending since fall of 1952.

In denying Dubickas' motion seeking dismissal of the damage suit, Judge Miner asserted:

Mrs. Roosevelt Plans Speech In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is scheduled to appear here Sunday night at Ford's Theater in an address sponsored by the United Nations Association of Maryland.

Her appearance here co-incides with the eighth anniversary of the death of her husband, the late President Roosevelt.

'Red Fleet' Scuttled

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP)—The Soviet Navy newspaper Red Fleet has discontinued publication. It has been merged with the former Army newspaper Red Star, which will now cover both naval and army affairs.

Israel Tones Down Protest Against USSR

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Israel today was reported watering down her planned assault in the U. N. against Soviet anti-Semitism in the light of recent events in Moscow.

Israeli sources said the delegation still was working over a new approach to the subject, touching but lightly on the waves of anti-Semitism which reportedly swept through the Iron Curtain countries until only very recently.

The sources said the Israeli delegation would remain flexible to the changing situation, which took a dramatic turn last week with the announcement that the Kremlin was releasing 15 doctors—some of them Jewish—accused of a murder plot against top Soviet leaders.

That announcement, declaring the charges were completely false and were based on "improper" investigation methods, appeared to signal a reversal of the Soviet campaign accusing "international Zionists and Wall Street Jewish circles" of directing espionage, sabotage and murder in the Communist world.

In Tel Aviv the Israeli government said it was ready to negotiate a resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia, which were broken off after the bombing of the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv.

Prior to those events, Israel had given advance notice she would bring alleged Soviet anti-Semitism before the United Nations.

Girl, Unable To Wed Sailor, Tries Suicide

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 8 (INS) — A policeman stopped Margaret Hollin, 17, as she was preparing to leap today from the 209-foot-high Gold Star Memorial Bridge because her parents refused to allow her to marry a sailor.

Miss Hollin was carrying a note addressed to a sailor whom police refused to identify. Police said that the note declared Miss Hollin's family refused to allow her to marry him.

UN Commission Dismayed By US Balk On Covenant

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 8 (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Human Rights Commission expressed regret and dismay today over the American decision not to ratify covenants on human rights. The United States promptly sought to reassure them.

Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, U. S. delegate, told the commission that rather than having a reduced interest in human rights, her government wanted to advise and achieve them through broad action programs.

She spoke after the Indian delegate, Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyay, had declared the American announcement "takes the bottom out of the work of this commission" and other delegates protested that it would jeopardize future progress.

The commission has been trying since 1948 to complete international covenants guaranteeing to citizens of countries ratifying them such basic rights as freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of religion, voting privileges and the like.

Mrs. Lord read a message from President Eisenhower saying that the commission's work was assuming "greater importance and meaning," but there was a "need for a new approach to the development of a human rights conscience in all areas of the world."

Then she stated clearly the United States position that "in the present stage of international relations it would not ratify the covenants."

In a message read to the commission yesterday by Mrs. Lord, U. S. Secretary of State Dulles suggested technical assistance programs and campaigns to raise standards of living as important alternative approaches.

Red Ship For Coronation

MOSCOW, April 8 (AP)—The British Embassy announced today that the Soviet Union will send the cruiser Sverdlov to participate in Queen Elizabeth II's coronation naval review June 15.

Liquor Dealer Has Sixth Brush With Bandit, Loses

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP)—You'd think after 12 years word would get around and holdup men would give Max Cooper's liquor store a wide berth. But they keep coming back.

Six times within the last 12 years, the 60-year-old, gray-haired Cooper has fought off gunmen intent on robbing him. On two occasions, Cooper has been wounded in resulting gun battles. Once his wife was wounded.

Until today, the thugs have never gotten away with anything.

This morning, Cooper told police, a Negro, about 25, entered his store and asked for a bottle of wine. Ten minutes later, the same man returned while Cooper was loading a beer cooler and stuck a hard object in his back.

"Stand still, or I'll kill you," Cooper said the man threatened. Then the bandit ordered him into a back room, scooped $90 out of the cash register and fled.

Cooper grabbed his .32 caliber revolver and ran after the robber, firing three shots at the fleeing man. Cooper said the bandit paused and returned fire once, shooting through his pocket.

Cooper's brushes with thugs read like this:

November 4, 1940—Routed two men from his tavern with five shots but was wounded in the upper arm.

March 1, 1951—Routed trio with three shots in duel that wounded his wife, Frieda, in the back and himself in the arm.

Gross Says Russia Delays Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—A picture of amiability, Andrei Y. Vishinsky invited the West today to meet the Soviet Union halfway in a new "tunnel of friendship." The U. N. Assembly listened attentively, then approved an American-backed plan of work for the Disarmament Commission.

The Assembly voted 52-5 (Soviet bloc) for the plan of work. The Assembly rejected, 33-10, a move by the Soviet Chief delegate to knock out a section reaffirming past U. N. decisions on arms limitation.

Vishinsky won a minor victory, however, when the United States and Britain and the majority accepted without a vote a Russian amendment removing a section praising the 12-nation Disarmament Commission for its work. The U.S. and Britain said they did not think that point worth quibbling about.

Vishinsky Amiable

The commission, which includes the U. S. and the Soviet Union, was asked to resume work and report progress not later than Sept. 1.

Vishinsky, in his new-model attempt to win friends, had no hard words for anyone. His attitude amazed delegates who remembered him as a grim assailant of the United States on almost every count.

U. S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross said the Russians were trying to "turn back the clock" and scuttle important accomplishments. But he said the United States welcomes any sign that the new Soviet leadership is interested in constructive negotiations.

Urges "Calm Spirit"

Vishinsky apparently had that in mind when he wound up his appeal for his proposal. He told Gross from the rostrum:

"You keep talking about deeds—well, has there not been a whole host of deeds (from Moscow)? . . . you ask for deeds—where are yours?

"If we dig the tunnel of friendship from both sides, we are likely to meet earlier. The phrase 'wait and see' has been used—but you can't 'wait and see' at one end. We would like to clear the groundwork for agreed decisions."

Vishinsky urged a "calm spirit so the U. N. can go forward."

TO PROBE GERM WAR CHARGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—The U. N. Political Committee late today voted to set up an impartial international commission to investigate Red charges that U. S. troops waged germ warfare in Korea.

The U. S. demanded the investigation, spokesmen said, in order to demonstrate that the accusations are a complete lie.

The vote in the 60-nation group was 52-5 (Soviet bloc) with three abstentions. The abstainers were Indonesia, Burma and India, who thought Communist China should have been consulted.

6 Die In London Subway Crash

LONDON, April 8 (INS) — Two packed subway trains collided in an East London tunnel early tonight, killing at least six persons and injuring more than a score. Many others were feared dead.

Rescue workers worked with oxyacetylene torches under floodlights to reach many others trapped in the tangled wreckage, about 100 yards from the above-ground Stratford station.

Debris filled the tunnel, forcing the rescue teams to drive wedges between sides of the tunnel and the wrecked cars to clear a path.

The trains were going in the same direction on the busy central line from Epping to Stratford when one rammed into the rear of the other.

Twenty-one persons were treated for minor injuries at a nearby hospital.

Author Wants Divorce

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS) — The New York Journal American reported today that Kathleen Winsor, author of the novel "Forever Amber," leaves for Mexico before the end of the week, to obtain a divorce from her third husband, Attorney Arnold Krakower.

Nearly 400 State Officials Okayed By Md. Senators

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8 (AP)—Nearly 400 state and local jobholders were confirmed by the State Senate before the Legislature adjourned this week.

Many already are in office and had been nominated for new terms by Gov. McKeldin.

They start new stretches ranging from two to nine years this May and June.

Senate sources reported only one of the Governor's appointments to state office caused a quarrel in closed-door meetings that led to confirmation. That involved Charles E. Delosier of Ellicott City, a familiar Statehouse figure, for another term on the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Delosier, a friend of House Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th), has served several terms as secretary of the board which licenses funeral directors and embalmers. The job pays $3,500 a year.

Argument over his reappointment pushed the Senate into another hush-hush meeting at 6 a.m. yesterday, just before adjournment. When the votes were counted only two were against Delosier. Five or six senators passed, but the others supported him.

An earlier clash over the naming of Dr. James Frenkil to the medical board of the State Industrial Accident Commission dissolved in the late days of the session.

Frenkil was confirmed with little ado to replace Dr. Nathan B. Herman, who had been endorsed by the deans of Johns Hopkins and Maryland Medical Schools and the State Medical and Chirurgical Faculty.

Both Herman, who had headed the board which decides compensation claims resulting from diseases contracted at work, and Frenkil are Baltimore physicians. The chairmanship pays $2,500 a year.

Senate records showed all the Governor's nominations were confirmed except four. Three were as Baltimore County magistrates: David W. Womer, Edgemere; Philip Bennett, Rosedale and Milton C. Merryman, White Marsh.

The fourth, to the Anne Arundel County liquor board, was rejected earlier in the session and was quickly substituted.

Thorpe Gets Part

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (INS)—Buddy Thorpe, actor-son of the late famed athlete Jim Thorpe, today was signed for a prizefighter role in the film, "The Joe Louis Story."

SIMIAN JAILBIRD—A little spider monkey ponders the strange ways of man at a Los Angeles animal shelter. She was minding her own business, walking along heavily-travelled Pasadena Parkway, when a girl found her, turned her over to the law, and got her "jailed." Pedestrians, she learned, are banned on the parkway. Police are trying to find her owner.

Prisoner Dies In Jail Fire

MT. HOPE, W. Va., April 8 (AP)—One man died and another almost suffocated in a fire early today at the Mt. Hope city jail.

Mayor Bernard Rocke declined to discuss details of the fire and Chief of Police Tom Twaddle said he had been instructed to make no statements.

An inquest was called to investigate the death of Frank Bennett, 34, of Abraham in the adjoining county.

An Oak Hill hospital reported Kessler S. Adams of Meadow Creek, W. Va. was under treatment for near suffocation and in serious condition.

Magistrate R. O. Godsey said Bennett and Adkins were arrested for drunkenness about midnight and put in the jail.

Members of Bennett's family—he has a wife, two sons and two daughters—said they had not been notified officially of his death.

Butler Proposes Tax Deferment

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — A bill offered today by Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) would defer capital gains taxes for persons involuntarily disposing of securities to qualify for a government job.

Butler said the legislation was suggested by "the dilemma which impeded the immediate confirmation" of Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

At the time Senate confirmation of Wilson was being debated, Butler recalled he proposed an exception to the tax law to apply to all "who might be confronted with a comparable situation upon entering the government service."

"This exception would permit such persons to dispose of controversial stocks and void the tax on capital gains.

Luxembourg Royal Wedding Attracts Europe's Nobility

LUXEMBOURG, Luxembourg, April 8 (AP)—This gay capital bulged with blue blood from eleven nations tonight on the eve of a royal wedding which will unite Prince Jean of Luxembourg and Princess Josephine Charlotte, the sister of Belgium's King Baudouin.

The vanguard of an expected 70,000 visitors jammed the picturesque city's narrow streets, lit by thousands of many colored lamps and bedecked with flags and flowers.

Thousands of cheering spectators got their first big thrill of the gala festivities this afternoon when the attractve blonde bride arrived by special royal train from Belgium.

She was escorted by the slim dark-haired groom who will one day become the Grand Duke of Luxembourg and ruler over a tiny but rich realm of 300,000 people and valuable coal, steel and iron industries.

Prince Jean, 32, met his bride's train at the Luxembourg border, kissed her soundly, then rode with her into the city which will become her home. He wore a military uniform.

They will be married tomorrow morning in a ceremony which adds another link to the close ties already binding neighboring Belgium and Luxembourg.

Three kings, three queens, forty princes and princesses, plus a score of lesser nobilities came here for the wedding.

Oyster shells and cuttlefish bones were used by the ancient Romans as a "cure" for wounds and ulcers.

Thousands of cheering spectators got their first big thrill of the gala festivities this afternoon when the attractve blonde bride arrived by special royal train from Belgium.

She was escorted by the slim dark-haired groom who will one day become the Grand Duke of Luxembourg and ruler over a tiny but rich realm of 300,000 people and valuable coal, steel and iron industries.

Prince Jean, 32, met his bride's train at the Luxembourg border, kissed her soundly, then rode with her into the city which will become her home. He wore a military uniform.

They will be married tomorrow morning in a ceremony which adds another link to the close ties already binding neighboring Belgium and Luxembourg.

Three kings, three queens, forty princes and princesses, plus a score of lesser nobilities came here for the wedding.

Red China And The UN

The proper place for truce talks is in Korea, probably at Panmunjom again, representatives of nations with troops fighting under the United Nations command in Korea have let it be known. These nations, it is understood, would resist any attempt to have Red Chinese and North Korean truce envoys called to UN sessions in New York.

Nothing much came of Red Chinese appearances before the UN in 1950. A nine-man delegation appeared at Lake Success in November and December of that year—by invitation—to press the Red Chinese charges of "armed aggression" by the United States against Formosa. Mao's diplomats refused (technically), to discuss Korea because hostilities there were listed on the Security Council agenda as a Red attack. But the Red spokesman, Wu Hsiu-chuan made frequent allusions to Korea.

On departure Wu repeated charges that a UN cease-fire plan for Korea was "nothing but a trickery and a plot." The UN General Assembly had adopted the U.S.-sponsored resolution calling for a cease-fire five days earlier, despite a Soviet veto in the Security Council.

Even if a truce is negotiated in Korea, Red Chinese membership in the United Nations will remain a question for negotiation in any general peace settlement. Previous talks at Panmunjom had produced an agreement (February 19, 1952) that the United Nations would not be bound to negotiate on admission of Red China to the UN in any eventual peace conference. But under an "et cetera" clause of the agreement the Reds remained free to bring the question up again.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on April 1, 1953, declared that "restitution of the rights of the Chinese and Korean peoples in the UN is one of the most urgent questions . . ." Lincoln White, press officer of the U. S. State Department, replied the following day, "No matter what Molotov says, we are not going to let anybody shoot their way into the United Nations."

White was echoing a remark of Warren Austin, former U. S. representative to the UN, made on January 24, 1951, in debate on a resolution, later adopted by the assembly, branding China an aggressor in Korea. The U. S. Senate and House two years ago adopted a resolution stating that it was their sense "that the Communist Chinese government should not be admitted to membership in the United Nations as the representative of China."

The phrasing of Austin's remark was repeated by Secretary of Defense Marshall in the Senate MacArthur hearings on May 10, 1951. Marshall said that the United States should use its Security Council veto to keep Red China out of the UN.

Secretary of State Acheson said at a news conference on May 16, 1951, that it would "louse up" the issue to regard Red China's admission as something to be vetoed. Acheson said the question of which faction shall represent China is not vetoable under UN rules, but should be decided by a majority of UN members. However, testifying later at the same hearings, Acheson said that the United States was prepared to ask the International Court of Justice whether a veto of Red membership would be legal.

Adenauer And The Saar

When 77-year old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany talks with U. S high officials in Washington this week, the conversation may well be concerned less with a European defense army than with the Saar Valley. After all, the lower house of the West German Parliament voted on March 19 to ratify the European Defense Community treaty (and the peace "contract" with Germany)

But French ratification remains highly doubtful. Premier Mayer promised the French Assembly on taking over the government recently—and he repeated in Washington on March 27—that France wouldn't accept the European army project until the Saar issue had been settled. New talks between France and Germany on the Saar are scheduled for the middle of May.

What the French insist on is that the coal-rich Saar Valley be included in their economic and currency systems. To this end, France insists also on political automoy ("Europeanization") of the Saar. The Bonn republic, pointing out that the Saarlanders are traditionally German in culture and sympathies, objects to the Saar being made an involuntary French satellite.

Indeed, West Germany adhered to the Schumann Plan only on condition that the present autonomous Saar state not be one of the signatories. But Paris points out that if the Saar resources are linked to those of Germany, French heavy industry will be outclassed by German in war potential.

The joint French-American communique issued in Washington on March 28 said: "The importance of a settlement of the question of the Saar was recognized. The French delegation explained in detail the reasons which, in its view, justify and render necessary a Franco-German agreement on such a settlement prior to ratification of the European Defense Community treaty."

Germ Warfare Charges

The Russians will have soon a new opportunity to show, or to try to show, that they are sincere in their present conciliatory attitude. The opportunity will come in the United Nations Political and Security Committee. This body is expected to take up this week a U. S. resolution for impartial investigation of the Russian-Chinese charges that this country used germ warfare in Korea.

A similar resolution in the Security Council was vetoed by Russia. The present resolution allows Vishinsky to reverse himself on the issue, or at least to be much less blatant than in the past about the germ warfare accusations. Those accusations became even more hysterical after this country offered to submit them to investigation and produced evidence to refute them.

The bugs and bacilli of which pictures were printed in the Chinese press in 1952 were proved to be species not harmful to man. In fact, even if they had been disease carriers, they would have been rendered harmless by winter cold or by air pressure on being dropped from high altitude planes.

Western countries would be more vulnerable to biological attack than would be countries like Korea or even the Soviet Union, where only a small percentage of the population lives in large cities. Contamination of the water supply, also poisoning of the air from planes, would be particularly hard on a highly concentrated urban population.

The United States is probably better prepared than any other nation against epidemics of a kind now known. Germ warfare might well have most serious impacts, not so much in causing deaths, as in disrupting military production and reducing the supplies of edible food.

How To Keep Well

Go Limp For Relaxation

Few of us know how to relax. Right now, many readers of this article are holding the paper tightly and straining the eyes to see. The brow is furrowed, the teeth are clenched, and the muscles of the hands, arms, shoulders, and abdomen are tenser than usual. To appreciate the difference, try to relax the facial muscles and hold the paper loosely. This is known as differential relaxation and enables a person to perform one task while the remainder of the body is resting. The knack is not easy to acquire, yet once mastered will increase body efficiency. Energy is wasted by tensing unused muscles which contributes to over-all fatigue.

Differential relaxation can be practiced when eating, golfing, or playing bridge or billiards. While driving to work in the morning, I frequently catch myself holding on to the steering wheel with all my might even tho the traffic is light. When there are many cars on the road, tension is worse and driving, exhausting. Actually, the steering wheel is not that heavy or hard to turn. On the other hand, relaxing should make a better driver. The same applies to reading; relaxation adds not only to the enjoyment and comprehension but also forestalls fatigue and increases the work output.

The present tempo of living is so stepped up that more relaxation is essential for our mental and physical health. The mid-day nap should be revived for our busy working people because it encourages general relaxation. It is not necessary to sleep in these intervals, provided the individual lies flat on the back with the eyes closed and the mind clear. Concentration is required to master the technic; it is best done by relaxing one part of the body first and then another until every muscle is limp.

General relaxation also is good for those who suffer from various disorders such as spastic bowel, muscle pains, and speech and nervous disorders. Relaxation helps in high blood pressure and insomnia also. It would be difficult to relax the muscles of the arms and legs without relaxing the remainder of the body. Tension headache is caused by painful contractions of the muscles of the scalp; relief will follow resting quietly in a comfortable bed or chair. Learning to relax may prevent this type of headache entirely.

The same can be said of breath-disturbances resulting from a "lump in the throat" or a "choking sensation." Tightness or pressure of the throat muscles is responsible for this form of distress and many sufferers are cured after training in relaxation. Victims of abdominal cramping brought on by irritable or spastic bowel benefit in like manner. This common condition is caused by fatigue, anxiety, overwork, and failure to relax and is helped by resting at least one-half hour before meals and eliminating tension.

Books have been written on how to fall asleep but the majority of these plans are concerned basically with relaxation. Sleep occurs only when the body processes are slowed and sensations are diminished completely. Some resort to sedatives for this purpose, but natural sleep is encouraged by acquiring the art of relaxation thru the will to do so.

HAPSBURG DISEASE

W. P. writes: Can women be afflicted with the Hapsburg bleeding disease?

REPLY

Yes, according to a group of Dallas, Tex., blood specialists, provided the defect is inherited from both parents. In women the blood disturbance is less severe but there is no reason why it should not be called hemophilia.

KENNY PACKS

H. T. writes: Have physicians ever scientifically evaluated the Kenny treatment in polio?

REPLY

The results seem to indicate that early treatment with hot packs decreases the incidence of spinal curvature and the need for operation.

TRACHOMA

P. S. writes: Does trachoma ever occur in America?

REPLY

Yes, but not as frequently as in the past. This eye disease is now confined largely to Indians in the southwest and to a few mountainous areas in other states. Trachoma responds to treatment with the sulfonamides, penicillin, and terramycin.

UNWANTED EFFECTS

W. C. writes: What is meant by side reactions of a drug?

REPLY

These are symptoms produced by the drug which sometimes makes the cure worse than the disease. Some of our antibiotics, for example, are helpful in combating infection but at the same time they irritate the intestines and cause diarrhea. Too much quinine is followed by ringing of the ears and certain vitamins may lead to nausea.

Secretary Of Commerce Weeks Doesn't Practice Economy He Preaches; Veep Barkley Plans To Run For Kentucky Governorship In 1955

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Commerce Weeks has done a lot of talking about economy, but he doesn't always practice what he preaches. For example, he has left $38,000 in the budget to pay for personal government planes to fly him around the country.

In fact, he just got back from a weekend flight to Palm Beach, Fla., in his plush government airliner. It cost the taxpayers $1,600 for the plane expense alone. Yet Weeks could have bought a round-trip ticket on a commercial airline for $129.95. Just what government business he had at the Palm Beach winter resort is not known and is not commented on at the Commerce Department.

Weeks has scheduled 250 hours for himself in the Commerce Department's special airliner during the next fiscal year. He has also scheduled another 75 hours in the smaller Beechcraft and 25 hours in chartered planes.

He has also allowed approximately $235,500 worth of flying time for his top aides, mostly in the Commerce Department's plush airliner, which costs $125 an hour to operate. In fact, Weeks has ordered that the big plane "be limited to high-level administrative or special demonstration flights."

The Veep Runs Again

Alben Barkley, once vice president but always the "veep," is definitely planning to run for governor of Kentucky in 1955. He doesn't want to go back to the U. S. Senate, partly because the Democrats would immediately elect him their floor leader even though he'd be a "freshman." But the governorship of Kentucky does appeal to him. It wouldn't require too much work, he'd win it easily, and finally it represents the only political race he ever lost.

Back in 1925, when the veep was a congressman, he ran for the Democratic nomination for governor and lost by 52,000 votes. Barkley has never forgotten this. He campaigned in favor of prohibition in the nation's bourbon center, but even so Barkley couldn't quite understand his defeat.

"We Kentuckians," he says, "used to vote dry but drink wet."

In 1935, Barkley was as "dry" as Mr. Volstead. Despite this he lost.

In 1955 he'll be a "wet" and expects to win.

Taft's Leadership

How much senator Taft has now become the congressional spokesman and mediator for the Eisenhower administration is indicated by the inside story of the election of GOP Congressman Sterling Cole of New York as chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

For three months the chairmanship of this key committee had been deadlocked between Cole and Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, both Republicans.

But Hickenlooper voted against Ambassador Chip Bohlen as envoy to Moscow, thus aligning himself with the anti-Eisenhower isolationists. Taft led the fight for Bohlen, while Congressman Cole is an ardent Eisenhower champion in the House. Thus Hickenlooper diminished what-ever pull he might have had with the Eisenhowerites.

Simultaneously, two powerful congressmen—Speaker Joe Martin and ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn—called on Taft.

They argued that the long deadlock between Cole and Hickenlooper over the atomic chairmanship was becoming ridiculous, that Cole was due the chairmanship, that the Senate had monopolized this key post since the atomic committee was first established.

Taft agreed, passed down word to withdraw support from Hickenlooper.

The Iowa senator can deny that the Bohlen issue had anything to do with his ditching, but it's significant that Taft didn't step into the atomic deadlock until after Hickenlooper had rebuffed his leadership in the Bohlen fight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who Risks Our Sons' Lives?

General James A. Van Fleet's testimony opens the way to a great crime—the crime of keeping our sons in Korea, after victory was possible, by deliberately withholding the munitions required for a real war and victory. Van Fleet's testimony before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee indicates that the State Department assumed the responsibility for the conduct of war, which is none of its business. Furthermore, Van Fleet said that he could twice have won victories, but was stopped by General Ridgway.

Incidentally, I heard General Ridgway speak as critically of the conduct of the Korean War and of the munitions shortage. It is likely that what General Van Fleet complains about is not General Ridgway's fault any more than it was General MacArthur's fault. It is due to the oblique, mazelike, confused and not understandable expenditure of American lives by the oh! so nice people in the State Department. They did not want an American victory in Korea. What they did want in Korea was never made clear to the American people or to the commanders of our troops in that theater.

This is not the usual interdepartmental quarrel. Three great American generals, MacArthur, Ridgway and Van Fleet, have called attention to something that transcends the immediate issue of the Korean War — namely that American policy withheld victory from our arms; that American citizens, our own sons, were risked unduly and carelessly, and that more than 23,000 of them have been expended in that war despite the possibility of victory. There has always been a possibility of victory since January 12, 1951, when MacArthur showed the way. The hearings before the Russell Committee, which already seem to have been forgotten, clearly established that the Joint Chiefs of Staff believed that a victory could be achieved but that General George Marshall disagreed with them.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith is performing a great public service in delving deeply into the conditions under which our sons fight in Korea. In the end, her committee ought to study the philosophy behind the conduct of this war; who is responsible for the decision to avoid victory; who kept our sons there without adequate coverage. There must have been a decision taken somewhere by someone which became the determining factor in this war. Why was that decision made?

Even if a full peace is made with Soviet Russia, the course of the Korean War should be examined in detail in the interest of the future of this country. Small minds, hidden in little jobs, never elected to office by the American people, lost in the melange of a large bureaucracy, gather the data and lay the basis for decisions. Suddenly something emerges that is tragic, that results in the death of Americans or a loss of national prestige, and nobody seems to be responsible.

But a free society cannot exist without fixed responsibility and without the assurance that no one is employed in our government whose interests are strongest in favor of some other government. Today the fashion is to condemn those who are pro-Russian, just as at another period it was wrong to be pro-German or pro-Japanese. Actually, every American official, in whatever position, ought to be pro-American, planning and working solely for the benefit of his own country. In World War I, the hyphenated American was despised. Public opinion was not so wrong in its judgment then.

The difficulty has been that in our State Department and in the Pentagon there has been too great a tendency to measure American conduct by British necessities, or by the effect of American conduct upon the Indians or the Chinese or some other people.

The result is that the United States has not been able to formulate its own policies, but has improvised as a reflex to the policies of other countries. This has been particularly true with regard to Russian or British policies. The Russians seized the initiative immediately after Stalingrad and have held it since. The United States has not taken the initiative in a matter of foreign policy since Roosevelt's Quarantine Speech in 1937. Thereafter, our policy has been a response to the challenges from other countries to our great damage throughout the world. When little Burma can flout us, we are weak, indeed. It ought not to be that way.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Shall the American people have the same right as do the people of Great Britain or France or Canada or Australia to vote on whether a treaty negotiated by the executive branch of the government shall be approved or rejected by all their elected representatives in the national legislature?

This is the real issue arising out of the proposal of Senator Bricker that the federal Constitution be amended to prevent treaties from superseding the laws of the land unless both houses approve by majority vote.

While Secretary of State Dulles in a speech last year endorsed the principle, which is also sponsored by the American Bar Association and 64 senators, he now takes the position that the matter should be studied further by a national commission.

U. S. Lacks Flexibility

The idea of further study is a sound one because it is apparent that the safeguards which Secretary Dulles says can be given during the Eisenhower administration—namely, that no treaties will be negotiated which affect domestic rights and problems plainly national rather than international—do not offer a permanent solution. Some of the very points made by the secretary, to the effect that the executive must be free to act quickly in making agreements with foreign governments, especially in emergencies, are really arguments for an entirely different setup than is available at present under our Constitution. For what Britain and Canada have—and America doesn't—is flexibility.

The spectacle of a President negotiating an agreement such as the Versailles Treaty in 1919, which embodied the covenant of the League of Nations, and then seeing the American Senate refuse to ratify it is one that has affected adversely the course of world history. This may have contributed substantially to the conditions of disunity which made it possible for Hitler to risk a world war.

What Senator Bricker and his colleagues propose, however, does not go far enough. It is an attempt to reach by indirection that which might better be tackled directly. For the real goal is maximum flexibility for the executive in negotiating agreements but with the stipulation that the Congress shall be given an opportunity to ratify or reject every agreement made by the executive, which is at present the privilge and right of the legislatures in the principal parliamentary governments of the world. In recent years the tendency of the American executive has been to circumvent Senate ratification by making "agreements" and failing to submit them to the Senate as treaties. Certainly the famous Yalta agreements were treaties, but they have never been submitted to the Senate for ratification o rrjection.

A system that gives one party control of both the executive and legislative branches and makes such a party subject to the check of the people at any time—and not at fixed four-year-periods—would prevent a deadlock between the two branches of the government. It would also insure that the executive, in making any treaty or agreement, would have to take into account whether a two-thirds majority would ratify such a treaty or agreement. There would be no repetition of the episode in 1920, when the Senate was controlled by one political party and the White House by another political party.

Could Remove Administration

A two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress for ratification of a treaty would be a better system than at present, which provides only for a two-thirds vote of the Senate. Executive agreements would not have to be ratified but would be subject to challenge by the minority, and no vote on them would have to be taken if the majority so decided. Likewise, if an administration could be removed on a two-thirds vote, recording a "lack of confidence," it could result either in a new legislature or a new executive and the people's interests would be better protected than at present in the event that it was desired to surrender certain portions of sovereignty as treaties sometimes require.

It wouldn't make any difference then whether a treaty was or was not "the supreme law of the land" because, if Congress wanted to approve a treaty which affected domestic matters, it could do so by a two-thirds vote of both houses, anyway. Where such vital and fundamental questions emerge as might subtract from domestic rights, a two-thirds vote of both houses is a much better safeguard than two-thirds of one house would be.

Raising the issue of how to prevent treaties from giving away basic rights protected by the Constitution is a timely development because it must inevitably focus attention on how inflexible and obsolete our present arrangement is for the conduct of foreign relations. The discussion will tend to emphasize how much more democratic a representative system is when the party in power is made responsible to the people directly and at all times.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

How Much For Defense?

WASHINGTON

Ever since the inauguration, a tense effort to make up its own collective mind about the greatest issue which confronts it has been going on within the administration. This issue is, quite simply, whether to give first priority to the national security or to a balanced budget.

The issue really began to come to a head early in March. At about that time, Budget Director Joseph Dodge and the administration's other financial experts had to admit to themselves that there was no way to balance the budget, either in the forthcoming fiscal year or the year after, without very sharp reductions in defense or foreign aid spending. Therefore Dodge proposed to the National Security Council a kind of exercise in budget-cutting. Dodge's idea was to order specific plans for heavy cut-backs, and then to have a good hard look at the results. The National Security Council approved Dodge's proposal.

Accordingly, Dodge tentatively ordered cuts of 13 per cent in regular government operations; 25 per cent in foreign aid in fiscal 1954 and 50 per cent in fiscal 1955; and nine per cent in defense in fiscal 1954 and 25 per cent in fiscal 1955. These cuts would save about $8 billion in defense and foreign spending in 1954, and upwards of $15 billion in 1955. Together with reductions in regular departments, this would have just about done the budget-balancing trick.

Other Problems Arise

While Dodge, Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey and others have been wrestling with the budget problem, however, various skeletons in the White House closet were being unearthed. There was, for example, the neglected problem of the American air defense, which could not be disregarded without the most hair-raising risks. There was the related problem of civil defense, which had never really been faced up to at all.

On the foreign front, there were the requirements of the new Eisenhower foreign policy, especially in Asia. A serious effort to bring the war in Indo-China to an end, which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles wisely advocated, would cost money. So would the effort to strengthen Formosa. So it seemed above all, would a serious attempt to break the deadlock in Korea. Wherever they looked, in short, the new administration leaders found problems involving grave threats to the security of the United States, which it would require a great effort to correct. As soon as it seemed that a reduction of spending of national security could be made at one point, the need for spending as much or more at another point became evident.

In this painful dilemma, the weary officials who had been wrestling with the problem decided that a fresh approach was needed. Accordingly, "the seven wise men" — prominent business men for the most part—were recruited to review the whole matter, and to try to find some way out of the dilemma. These seven outsiders joined the regular members of the National Security Council for a full day's session on Tuesday of last week.

Crucial Issue Remains

Partly as a result of this meeting, and also as a result of a brilliant presentation made to the NSC by Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen, the administration has reached one firm decision. Foreign aid, it has been decided, can be cut below the figure in the Truman budget, but cannot safely be cut by the very heavy margin envisaged in the Dodge order. Yet the really crucial issue remains the rate of defense spending and on this score, the outcome remains in doubt, and the anguished effort of the Eisenhower administration to make up its own mind still goes on.

The tendency to give budget-balancing absolute priority has been gradually and continually weakened by the realities of the strategic situation of the United States have sunk in. But the tendency still is to argue that it is first necessary to "get control of spending" by heavy cutbacks. Then it is said if serious gaps in the national defense become clearly apparent, these gaps can later be filled.

Among those who reportedly hold this view are Dodge and Humphrey; whose jobs make the budget their first concern; and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson. Yet Wilson is said to be less optimistic about really major economies, as he delves deeper into the terrible complexities of the defense problem. And others, including Stassen and Dulles, are warning against really damaging cuts.

A decision must be made soon—Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft has been promised the outlines of the administration defense program by early May. President Eisenhower has said that he will make the final decision, but will of course rely heavily on the advice of his subordinates. And among these, a sort of knife-edged balance between the desire to economize and the desire to give first place to the national security, has apparently been achieved.

Into this situation of delicate balance the Soviet peace offensive has suddenly been injected. Administration spokesmen swear that it will not affect the final decision. But if the fighting in Korea does end, it will require remarkable firmness of purpose if this new element in the equation is not to tip the balance all the way over towards economy.

Red China And The UN

The proper place for truce talks is in Korea, probably at Panmunjom again, representatives of nations with troops fighting under the United Nations command in Korea have let it be known. These nations, it is understood, would resist any attempt to have Red Chinese and North Korean truce envoys called to UN sessions in New York.

Nothing much came of Red Chinese appearances before the UN in 1950. A nine-man delegation appeared at Lake Success in November and December of that year—by invitation—to press the Red Chinese charges of "armed aggression" by the United States against Formosa. Mao's diplomats refused (technically), to discuss Korea because hostilities there were listed on the Security Council agenda as a Red attack. But the Red spokesman, Wu Hsiu-chuan made frequent allusions to Korea.

On departure Wu repeated charges that a UN cease-fire plan for Korea was "nothing but a trickery and a plot." The UN General Assembly had adopted the U.S.-sponsored resolution calling for a cease-fire five days earlier, despite a Soviet veto in the Security Council.

Even if a truce is negotiated in Korea, Red Chinese membership in the United Nations will remain a question for negotiation in any general peace settlement. Previous talks at Panmunjom had produced an agreement (February 19, 1952) that the United Nations would not be bound to negotiate on admission of Red China to the UN in any eventual peace conference. But under an "et cetera" clause of the agreement the Reds remained free to bring the question up again.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on April 1, 1953, declared that "restitution of the rights of the Chinese and Korean peoples in the UN is one of the most urgent questions . . ." Lincoln White, press officer of the U. S. State Department, replied the following day, "No matter what Molotov says, we are not going to let anybody shoot their way into the United Nations."

White was echoing a remark of Warren Austin, former U. S. representative to the UN, made on January 24, 1951, in debate on a resolution, later adopted by the assembly, branding China an aggressor in Korea. The U. S. Senate and House two years ago adopted a resolution stating that it was their sense "that the Communist Chinese government should not be admitted to membership in the United Nations as the representative of China."

The phrasing of Austin's remark was repeated by Secretary of Defense Marshall in the Senate MacArthur hearings on May 10, 1951. Marshall said that the United States should use its Security Council veto to keep Red China out of the UN.

Secretary of State Acheson said at a news conference on May 16, 1951, that it would "louse up" the issue to regard Red China's admission as something to be vetoed. Acheson said that question of which faction shall represent China is not vetoable under UN rules, but should be decided by a majority of UN members. However, testifying later at the same hearings, Acheson said that the United States was prepared to ask the International Court of Justice whether a veto of Red membership would be legal.

Adenauer And The Saar

When 77-year old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany talks with U. S high officials in Washington this week, the conversation may well be concerned less with a European defense army than with the Saar Valley. After all, the lower house of the West German Parliament voted on March 19 to ratify the European Defense Community treaty (and the peace "contract" with Germany)

But French ratification remains highly doubtful. Premier Mayer promised the French Assembly on taking over the government recently—and he repeated in Washington on March 27—that France wouldn't accept the European army project until the Saar issue had been settled. New talks between France and Germany on the Saar are scheduled for the middle of May.

What the French insist on is that the coal-rich Saar Valley be included in their economic and currency systems. To this end, France insists also on political automoy ("Europeanization") of the Saar. The Bonn republic, pointing out that the Saarlanders are traditionally German in culture and sympathies, objects to the Saar being made an involuntary French satellite.

Indeed, West Germany adhered to the Schumann Plan only on condition that the present autonomous Saar state not be one of the signatories. But Paris points out that if the Saar resources are linked to those of Germany, French heavy industry will be outclassed by German in war potential.

The joint French-American communique issued in Washington on March 28 said: "The importance of a settlement of the question of the Saar was recognized. The French delegation explained in detail the reasons which, in its view, justify and render necessary a Franco-German agreement on such a settlement prior to ratification of the European Defense Community treaty."

Germ Warfare Charges

The Russians will have soon a new opportunity to show, or to try to show, that they are sincere in their present conciliatory attitude. The opportunity will come in the United Nations Political and Security Committee. This body is expected to take up this week a U. S. resolution for impartial investigation of the Russian-Chinese charges that this country used germ warfare in Korea.

A similar resolution in the Security Council was vetoed by Russia. The present resolution allows Vishinsky to reverse himself on the issue, or at least to be much less blatant than in the past about the germ warfare accusations. Those accusations became even more hysterical after this country offered to submit them to investigation and produced evidence to refute them.

The bugs and bacilli of which pictures were printed in the Chinese press in 1952 were proved to be species not harmful to man. In fact, even if they had been disease carriers, they would have been rendered harmless by winter cold or by air pressure on being dropped from high altitude planes.

Western countries would be more vulnerable to biological attack than would be countries like Korea or even the Soviet Union, where only a small percentage of the population lives in large cities. Contamination of the water supply, also poisoning of the air from planes, would be particularly hard on a highly concentrated urban population.

The United States is probably better prepared than any other nation against epidemics of a kind now known. Germ warfare might well have most serious impacts, not so much in causing deaths, as in disrupting military production and reducing the supplies of edible food.

Go Limp For Relaxation

Few of us know how to relax. Right now, many readers of this article are holding the paper tightly and straining the eyes to see. The brow is furrowed, the teeth are clenched, and the muscles of the hands, arms, shoulders, and abdomen are tenser than usual. To appreciate the difference, try to relax the facial muscles and hold the paper loosely. This is known as differential relaxation and enables a person to perform one task while the remainder of the body is resting. The knack is not easy to acquire, yet once mastered will increase body efficiency. Energy is wasted by tensing unused muscles which contributes to over-all fatigue.

Differential relaxation can be practiced when eating, golfing, or playing bridge or billiards. While driving to work in the morning, I frequently catch myself holding on to the steering wheel with all my might even tho the traffic is light. When there are many cars on the road, tension is worse and driving, exhausting. Actually, the steering wheel is not that heavy or hard to turn. On the other hand, relaxing should make a better driver. The same applies to reading; relaxation adds not only to the enjoyment and comprehension but also forestalls fatigue and increases the work output.

The present tempo of living is so stepped up that more relaxation is essential for our mental and physical health. The mid-day nap should be revived for our busy working people because it encourages general relaxation. It is not necessary to sleep in these intervals, provided the individual lies flat on the back with the eyes closed and the mind clear. Concentration is required to master the technic; it is best done by relaxing one part of the body first and then another until every muscle is limp.

General relaxation also is good for those who suffer from various disorders such as spastic bowel, muscle pains, and speech and nervous disorders. Relaxation helps in high blood pressure and insomnia also. It would be difficult to relax the muscles of the arms and legs without relaxing the remainder of the body. Tension headache is caused by painful contractions of the muscles of the scalp; relief will follow resting quietly in a comfortable bed or chair. Learning to relax may prevent this type of headache entirely.

The same can be said of breath-disturbances resulting from a "lump in the throat" or a "choking sensation." Tightness or pressure of the throat muscles is responsible for this form of distress and many sufferers are cured after training in relaxation. Victims of abdominal cramping brought on by irritable or spastic bowel benefit in like manner. This common condition is caused by fatigue, anxiety, overwork, and failure to relax and is helped by resting at least one-half hour before meals and eliminating tension.

Books have been written on how to fall asleep but the majority of these plans are concerned basically with relaxation. Sleep occurs only when the body processes are slowed and sensations are diminished completely. Some resort to sedatives for this purpose, but natural sleep is encouraged by acquiring the art of relaxation thru the will to do so.

HAPSBURG DISEASE

W. P. writes: Can women be afflicted with the Hapsburg bleeding disease?

REPLY

Yes, according to a group of Dallas, Tex., blood specialists, provided the defect is inherited from both parents. In women the blood disturbance is less severe but there is no reason why it should not be called hemophilia.

KENNY PACKS

H. T. writes: Have physicians ever scientifically evaluated the Kenny treatment in polio?

REPLY

The results seem to indicate that early treatment with hot packs decreases the incidence of spinal curvature and the need for operation.

TRACHOMA

P. S. writes: Does trachoma ever occur in America?

REPLY

Yes, but not as frequently as in the past. This eye disease is now confined largely to Indians in the southwest and to a few mountainous areas in other states. Trachoma responds to treatment with the sulfonamides, penicillin, and terramycin.

UNWANTED EFFECTS

W. C. writes: What is meant by side reactions of a drug?

REPLY

These are symptoms produced by the drug which sometimes makes the cure worse than the disease. Some of our antibiotics, for example, are helpful in combating infection but at the same time they irritate the intestines and cause diarrhea. Too much quinine is followed by ringing of the ears and certain vitamins may lead to nausea.

Secretary Of Commerce Weeks Doesn't Practice Economy He Preaches; Veep Barkley Plans To Run For Kentucky Governorship In 1955

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Commerce Weeks has done a lot of talking about economy, but he doesn't always practice what he preaches. For example, he has left $38,000 in the budget to pay for personal government planes to fly him around the country.

In fact, he just got back from a weekend flight to Palm Beach, Fla., in his plush government airliner. It cost the taxpayers $1,600 for the plane expense alone. Yet Weeks could have bought a round-trip ticket on a commercial airline for $129.95. Just what government business he had at the Palm Beach winter resort is not known and is not commented on at the Commerce Department.

Weeks has scheduled 250 hours for himself in the Commerce Department's special airliner during the next fiscal year. He has also scheduled another 75 hours in the smaller Beechcraft and 25 hours in chartered planes.

He has also allowed approximately $235,500 worth of flying time for his top aides, mostly in the Commerce Department's plush airliner, which costs $125 an hour to operate. In fact, Weeks has ordered that the big plane "be limited to high-level administrative or special demonstration flights."

The Veep Runs Again

Alben Barkley, once vice president but always the "veep," is definitely planning to run for governor of Kentucky in 1955. He doesn't want to go back to the U. S. Senate, partly because the Democrats would immediately elect him their floor leader even though he'd be a "freshman." But the governorship of Kentucky does appeal to him. It wouldn't require too much work, he'd win it easily, and finally it represents the only political race he ever lost.

Back in 1925, when the veep was a congressman, he ran for the Democratic nomination for governor and lost by 52,000 votes. Barkley has never forgotten this. He campaigned in favor of prohibition in the nation's bourbon center, but even so Barkley couldn't quite understand his defeat.

"We Kentuckians," he says, "used to vote dry but drink wet."

In 1935, Barkley was as "dry" as Mr. Volstead. Despite this he lost.

In 1955 he'll be a "wet" and expects to win.

Taft's Leadership

How much senator Taft has now become the congressional spokesman and mediator for the Eisenhower administration is indicated by the inside story of the election of GOP Congressman Sterling Cole of New York as chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

For three months the chairmanship of this key committee had been deadlocked between Cole and Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, both Republicans.

But Hickenlooper voted against Ambassador Chip Bohlen as envoy to Moscow, thus aligning himself with the anti-Eisenhower isolationists. Taft led the fight for Bohlen, while Congressman Cole is an ardent Eisenhower champion in the House. Thus Hickenlooper diminished what-ever pull he might have had with the Eisenhowerites.

Simultaneously, two powerful congressmen—Speaker Joe Martin and ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn—called on Taft.

They argued that the long deadlock between Cole and Hickenlooper over the atomic chairmanship was becoming ridiculous, that Cole was due the chairmanship, that the Senate had monopolized this key post since the atomic committee was first established.

Taft agreed, passed down word to withdraw support from Hickenlooper.

The Iowa senator can deny that the Bohlen issue had anything to do with his ditching, but it's significant that Taft didn't step into the atomic deadlock until after Hickenlooper had rebuffed his leadership in the Bohlen fight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Who Risks Our Sons' Lives?

General James A. Van Fleet's testimony opens the way to a great crime—the crime of keeping our sons in Korea, after victory was possible, by deliberately withholding the munitions required for a real war and victory. Van Fleet's testimony before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee indicates that the State Department assumed the responsibility for the conduct of war, which is none of its business. Furthermore, Van Fleet said that he could twice have won victories, but was stopped by General Ridgway.

Incidentally, I heard General Ridgway speak as critically of the conduct of the Korean War and of the munitions shortage. It is likely that what General Van Fleet complains about is not General Ridgway's fault any more than it was General MacArthur's fault. It is due to the oblique, mazelike, confused and not understandable expenditure of American lives by the oh! so nice people in the State Department. They did not want an American victory in Korea. What they did want in Korea was never made clear to the American people or to the commanders of our troops in that theater.

This is not the usual interdepartmental quarrel. Three great American generals, MacArthur, Ridgway and Van Fleet, have called attention to something that transcends the immediate issue of the Korean War — namely that American policy withheld victory from our arms; that American citizens, our own sons, were risked unduly and carelessly, and that more than 23,000 of them have been expended in that war despite the possibility of victory. There has always been a possibility of victory since January 12, 1951, when MacArthur showed the way. The hearings before the Russell Committee, which already seem to have been forgotten, clearly established that the Joint Chiefs of Staff believed that a victory could be achieved but that General George Marshall disagreed with them.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith is performing a great public service in delving deeply into the conditions under which our sons fight in Korea. In the end, her committee ought to study the philosophy behind the conduct of this war; who is responsible for the decision to avoid victory; who kept our sons there without adequate coverage. There must have been a decision taken somewhere by someone which became the determining factor in this war. Why was that decision made?

Even if a full peace is made with Soviet Russia, the course of the Korean War should be examined in detail in the interest of the future of this country. Small minds, hidden in little jobs, never elected to office by the American people, lost in the melange of a large bureaucracy, gather the data and lay the basis for decisions. Suddenly something emerges that is tragic, that results in the death of Americans or a loss of national prestige, and nobody seems to be responsible.

But a free society cannot exist without fixed responsibility and without the assurance that no one is employed in our government whose interests are strongest in favor of some other government. Today the fashion is to condemn those who are pro-Russian, just as at another period it was wrong to be pro-German or pro-Japanese. Actually, every American official, in whatever position, ought to be pro-American, planning and working solely for the benefit of his own country. In World War I, the hyphenated American was despised. Public opinion was not so wrong in its judgment then.

The difficulty has been that in our State Department and in the Pentagon there has been too great a tendency to measure American conduct by British necessities, or by the effect of American conduct upon the Indians or the Chinese or some other people.

The result is that the United States has not been able to formulate its own policies, but has improvised as a reflex to the policies of other countries. This has been particularly true with regard to Russian or British policies. The Russians seized the initiative immediately after Stalingrad and have held it since. The United States has not taken the initiative in a matter of foreign policy since Roosevelt's Quarantine Speech in 1937. Thereafter, our policy has been a response to the challenges from other countries to our great damage throughout the world. When little Burma can flout us, we are weak, indeed. It ought not to be that way.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Shall the American people have the same right as do the people of Great Britain or France or Canada or Australia to vote on whether a treaty negotiated by the executive branch of the government shall be approved or rejected by all their elected representatives in the national legislature?

This is the real issue arising out of the proposal of Senator Bricker that the federal Constitution be amended to prevent treaties from superseding the laws of the land unless both houses approve by majority vote.

While Secretary of State Dulles in a speech last year endorsed the principle, which is also sponsored by the American Bar Association and 64 senators, he now takes the position that the matter should be studied further by a national commission.

U. S. Lacks Flexibility

The idea of further study is a sound one because it is apparent that the safeguards which Secretary Dulles says can be given during the Eisenhower administration—namely, that no treaties will be negotiated which affect domestic rights and problems plainly national rather than international—do not offer a permanent solution. Some of the very points made by the secretary, to the effect that the executive must be free to act quickly in making agreements with foreign governments, especially in emergencies, are really arguments for an entirely different setup than is available at present under our Constitution. For what Britain and Canada have—and America doesn't—is flexibility.

The spectacle of a President negotiating an agreement such as the Versailles Treaty in 1919, which embodied the covenant of the League of Nations, and then seeing the American Senate refuse to ratify it is one that has affected adversely the course of world history. This may have contributed substantially to the conditions of disunity which made it possible for Hitler to risk a world war.

What Senator Bricker and his colleagues propose, however, does not go far enough. It is an attempt to reach by indirection that which might better be tackled directly. For the real goal is maximum flexibility for the executive in negotiating agreements but with the stipulation that the Congress shall be given an opportunity to ratify or reject every agreement made by the executive, which is at present the privilge and right of the legislatures in the principal parliamentary governments of the world. In recent years the tendency of the American executive has been to circumvent Senate ratification by making "agreements" and failing to submit them to the Senate as treaties. Certainly the famous Yalta agreements were treaties, but they have never been submitted to the Senate for ratification o rrjection.

A system that gives one party control of both the executive and legislative branches and makes such a party subject to the check of the people at any time—and not at fixed four-year-periods—would prevent a deadlock between the two branches of the government. It would also insure that the executive, in making any treaty or agreement, would have to take into account whether a two-thirds majority would ratify such a treaty or agreement. There would be no repetition of the episode in 1920, when the Senate was controlled by one political party and the White House by another political party.

Could Remove Administration

A two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress for ratification of a treaty would be a better system than at present, which provides only for a two-thirds vote of the Senate. Executive agreements would not have to be ratified but would be subject to challenge by the minority, and no vote on them would have to be taken if the majority so decided. Likewise, if an administration could be removed on a two-thirds vote, recording a "lack of confidence," it could result either in a new legislature or a new executive and the people's interests would be better protected than at present in the event that it was desired to surrender certain portions of sovereignty as treaties sometimes require.

It wouldn't make any difference then whether a treaty was or was not "the supreme law of the land" because, if Congress wanted to approve a treaty which affected domestic matters, it could do so by a two-thirds vote of both houses, anyway. Where such vital and fundamental questions emerge as might subtract from domestic rights, a two-thirds vote of both houses is a much better safeguard than two-thirds of one house would be.

Raising the issue of how to prevent treaties from giving away basic rights protected by the Constitution is a timely development because it must inevitably focus attention on how inflexible and obsolete our present arrangement is for the conduct of foreign relations. The discussion will tend to emphasize how much more democratic a representative system is when the party in power is made responsible to the people directly and at all times.

How Much For Defense?

WASHINGTON

Ever since the inauguration, a tense effort to make up its own collective mind about the greatest issue which confronts it has been going on within the administration. This issue is, quite simply, whether to give first priority to the national security or to a balanced budget.

The issue really began to come to a head early in March. At about that time, Budget Director Joseph Dodge and the administration's other financial experts had to admit to themselves that there was no way to balance the budget, either in the forthcoming fiscal year or the year after, without very sharp reductions in defense or foreign aid spending. Therefore Dodge proposed to the National Security Council a kind of exercise in budget-cutting. Dodge's idea was to order specific plans for heavy cut-backs, and then to have a good hard look at the results. The National Security Council approved Dodge's proposal.

Accordingly, Dodge tentatively ordered cuts of 13 per cent in regular government operations; 25 per cent in foreign aid in fiscal 1954 and 50 per cent in fiscal 1955; and nine per cent in defense in fiscal 1954 and 25 per cent in fiscal 1955. These cuts would save about $8 billion in defense and foreign spending in 1954, and upwards of $15 billion in 1955. Together with reductions in regular departments, this would have just about done the budget-balancing trick.

Other Problems Arise

While Dodge, Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey and others have been wrestling with the budget problem, however, various skeletons in the White House closet were being unearthed. There was, for example, the neglected problem of the American air defense, which could not be disregarded without the most hair-raising risks. There was the related problem of civil defense, which had never really been faced up to at all.

On the foreign front, there were the requirements of the new Eisenhower foreign policy, especially in Asia. A serious effort to bring the war in Indo-China to an end, which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles wisely advocated, would cost money. So would the effort to strengthen Formosa. So it seemed above all, would a serious attempt to break the deadlock in Korea. Wherever they looked, in short, the new administration leaders found problems involving grave threats to the security of the United States, which it would require a great effort to correct. As soon as it seemed that a reduction of spending of national security could be made at one point, the need for spending as much or more at another point became evident.

In this painful dilemma, the weary officials who had been wrestling with the problem decided that a fresh approach was needed. Accordingly, "the seven wise men" — prominent business men for the most part—were recruited to review the whole matter, and to try to find some way out of the dilemma. These seven outsiders joined the regular members of the National Security Council for a full day's session on Tuesday of last week.

Crucial Issue Remains

Partly as a result of this meeting, and also as a result of a brilliant presentation made to the NSC by Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen, the administration has reached one firm decision. Foreign aid, it has been decided, can be cut below the figure in the Truman budget, but cannot safely be cut by the very heavy margin envisaged in the Dodge order. Yet the really crucial issue remains the rate of defense spending and on this score, the outcome remains in doubt, and the anguished effort of the Eisenhower administration to make up its own mind still goes on.

The tendency to give budget-balancing absolute priority has been gradually and continually weakened by the realities of the strategic situation of the United States have sunk in. But the tendency still is to argue that it is first necessary to "get control of spending" by heavy cutbacks. Then it is said if serious gaps in the national defense become clearly apparent, these gaps can later be filled.

Among those who reportedly hold this view are Dodge and Humphrey; whose jobs make the budget their first concern; and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson. Yet Wilson is said to be less optimistic about really major economies, as he delves deeper into the terrible complexities of the defense problem. And others, including Stassen and Dulles, are warning against really damaging cuts.

A decision must be made soon—Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft has been promised the outlines of the administration defense program by early May. President Eisenhower has said that he will make the final decision, but will of course rely heavily on the advice of his subordinates. And among these, a sort of knife-edged balance between the desire to economize and the desire to give first place to the national security, has apparently been achieved.

Into this situation of delicate balance the Soviet peace offensive has suddenly been injected. Administration spokesmen swear that it will not affect the final decision. But if the fighting in Korea does end, it will require remarkable firmness of purpose if this new element in the equation is not to tip the balance all the way over towards economy.

Mary K. Nierman Names May 11 As Date For Wedding

To Be Bride Of Donald L. Smith

Miss Mary Kathryn Nierman, fiancee of Donald Leo Smith, has selected May 11 for the date of their marriage.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at a nuptial mass at 10:30 o'clock, in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Mrs. Paul Reissig, Winchester, Va., is to be her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Smith, Baltimore, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Anna Marie Kelly, city; and Miss Angela Condon, Washington. Gregory Beyer, Baltimore, is serving as Mr. Smith's best man, while Paul Reissig, Winchester; and Robert Nierman, Pittsburgh, brother of the bride, are the ushers.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Nierman, 14 South Chase Street, the bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and of St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, class of 1951. She is a member of the nursing staff of Memorial Hospital.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Smith, 3522 Forest Hill Road, Baltimore. A graduate of Loyola High School and Loyola College, class of 1951, he was employed as a chemist at the Edgewood Army Chemical Center, Edgewood and now is stationed at the Naval Officers Candidate School, Newport, R. I.

Miss Nierman was honor guest at two miscellaneous showers and prenuptial parties last week.

Mrs. Reissig was hostess for a shower at her home in Winchester. She used a white and yellow color scheme in her decorations with a sprinkling can and shower of streamers suspended above the gifts. The same color scheme was repeated in the tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Among the 11 guests attending were Mrs. Nierman and Miss Kelly from here.

Mrs. Henry Connelly and Miss Jean Smith entertained with a shower at the former's home in Baltimore. The bridal motif was carried out in the all white decorations, with a white bridal bell and shower of streamers attached to the presents. The cake and table decorations also were in white. Mrs. Catherine Smith presided at the punch bowl. Thirty-five guests attended.

WED 58 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. William A. Riley observed their 58th wedding anniversary with a family dinner, Easter Sunday at their home, Winmer Street. The former Miss Agnes Murphy and Mr. Riley were married April 2, 1895, at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Mollie Rosenmerkle, Shriver Avenue. The couple has three children, Mrs. Freida M. Hyde, Mrs. J. F. Taylor and Labon H. Riley, Miami, Fla.; They have three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Carrie Johns Heads Davis Society

Officers were elected and plans discussed for a penny supper at the meeting of the WSCS of Davis Memorial Church, yesterday. The meeting began with a luncheon yesterday at the home of Mrs. S. A. Knippenberg. Mrs. Rosella Irons and Mrs. Zella Irons were cohostesses.

Mrs. Carrie Johns was elected president; Mrs. Rella Fresh, vice president; Mrs. Nellie Abbott, recording secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Schwimminger, assistant; Mrs. James Shank, treasurer and Mrs. Fresh, assistant.

Mary K. Nierman Names May 11 As Date For Wedding

To Be Bride Of Donald L. Smith

Miss Mary Kathryn Nierman, fiancee of Donald Leo Smith, has selected May 11 for the date of their marriage.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at a nuptial mass at 10:30 o'clock, in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Mrs. Paul Reissig, Winchester, Va., is to be her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Smith, Baltimore, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Anna Marie Kelly, city; and Miss Angela Condon, Washington. Gregory Beyer, Baltimore, is serving as Mr. Smith's best man, while Paul Reissig, Winchester; and Robert Nierman, Pittsburgh, brother of the bride, are the ushers.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Nierman, 14 South Chase Street, the bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and of St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, class of 1951. She is a member of the nursing staff of Memorial Hospital.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Smith, 3522 Forest Hill Road, Baltimore. A graduate of Loyola High School and Loyola College, class of 1951, he was employed as a chemist at the Edgewood Army Chemical Center, Edgewood and now is stationed at the Naval Officers Candidate School, Newport, R. I.

Miss Nierman was honor guest at two miscellaneous showers and prenuptial parties last week.

Mrs. Reissig was hostess for a shower at her home in Winchester. She used a white and yellow color scheme in her decorations with a sprinkling can and shower of streamers suspended above the gifts. The same color scheme was repeated in the tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Among the 11 guests attending were Mrs. Nierman and Miss Kelly from here.

Mrs. Henry Connelly and Miss Jean Smith entertained with a shower at the former's home in Baltimore. The bridal motif was carried out in the all white decorations, with a white bridal bell and shower of streamers attached to the presents. The cake and table decorations also were in white. Mrs. Catherine Smith presided at the punch bowl. Thirty-five guests attended.

Here are the do's and don'ts every teenager needs to know if she wants to have a slick, smooth hair-do!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The transition from pigtails to a slick, teen hair-do can be mighty rugged for the lass who does not know how to handle her tresses. But a smooth passage is assured to all who know the do's and don'ts.

You can test your knowledge of hair beauty tricks on the list of do's and don't that follows. If you come out a winner on all points—and practice what you therefore have proved you know is right—you can gloat over the fact that you are one step ahead of your lesser-informed sisters!

Cutting And Shaping

A major don't has to do with hair cutting. Don't attempt to cut and shape your own hair with household scissors. If you do you are bound to end up with an unmanageable, stubborn bunch of stubble. A new instrument makes home cutting, tapering and trimming of locks possible. But without one, don't tamper with the shape and cut of your hair. It is much better to let an expert style and cut your locks, trimming it only when necessary and setting it yourself as often as its appearance dictates.

And don't be lured into a permanent just because you think it will end setting problems. But do set your hair at least twice weekly, permanent or no.

Pretty Practices

Don't let your bobbie pins show. They are sure to give a nailed-down-lid effect. When a pin must be used where it will show, use a bobbie of gilt, silver or tortoise, available at dime stores for a mere pittance. But while one can be decorative, remember two's a crowd!

Don't shove your hair behind your ears to keep it out of your face or you are sure to have a skinned look and stick-out ears. Do use combs or clips for this purpose and you'll achieve a softer, more flattering effect.

By making just these few tips yours can be sure of attractive tresses. Watch for tomorrow's column and you will learn how to make them the prettiest in town!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: Prettiest teen hair-do.

Ellerslie Fire Hall To Open Tomorrow

The new fire hall of Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company will be opened tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Construction was begun October 23, 1952 and the building is of concrete block with a brick front. All labor was volunteer. The building is valued at $25,000 and measures 65 by 40 feet.

The top floor of the two story structure houses the stage, dressing room, kitchen and confectionery and a main auditorium which seats 300.

In the basement is a small meeting room, storage space for two fire trucks and the heating plant.

The fire company was organized on November 8, 1946. The first truck was purchased from the City of Cumberland February 23, 1947.

There are 45 members. Officers are Levi Faulkner, president; A. B. Stahlman, vice-president; Harry Johnson, secretary; C. O. Albright, financial secretary; Carl Leydig, treasurer, and Ambrose Miller, chaplain.

The Ladies Auxiliary in the company was organized in 1948 and has a membership of 21.

See, Virts Given Praise For Work

The two blind members of the Maryland House of Delegates have been lauded for their work in the General Assembly.

A resolution to that effect was presented in the House by Del. Milanicz (D-Baltimore City) in honor of Del. Charles M. See of this county and Del. C. Clifton Virts of Frederick County.

The resolution adopted unanimously commended the two men for their "courage and fortitude in surmounting the physical handicap of blindness and their stirring example to their follow delegates."

Mrs. Georgielea S. See, wife of the chairman of the Allegany County delegation, serves as reader and clerk of the two delegates.

Company Will Open Liberty St. Store

The Cumberland Electric Company, 137 Virginia Avenue, will open a midtown display and sales store today for the convenience of residents of the West Side and North End.

William M. "Mac" Dailey, president and manager of the company, one of the largest and oldest appliance houses in the state outside of Baltimore, said the store will be located at 11 South Liberty Street. The new store will be under the management of the Virginia Avenue headquarters, which has been in operation at that location 31 years, Dailey added.

Miss Wanda Hott will be in charge of salesmen and office personnel, Dailey stated.

Dailey explained that the service department for appliances would be handled at the South End store.

B&O Is Defendant In $100,000 Suit

An injury reportedly suffered in Cumberland is subject of one of two suits totaling $100,000 filed against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Uniontown, Pa., under the Federal Employers' Liability Act.

Louis M. Forsythe of Dawson, Pa., and Fred (Bud) Truninger of Uniontown, took the actions in U. S. District Court.

Forsythe claims he was severely injured when the caboose in which he was resting at Cumberland was bumped by a train shifted on a siding. He received spinal and other injuries.

Truninger contends that as a B&O brakeman he was badly hurt in the Smithfield (Pa.) yards. He sustained a fractured left wrist and other parts of his arm when a hand brake slipped.

Larboard is an obsolete naval term for the left side of a vessel looking forward.

Railroaders Face Cut In Wages

Cumberland area railroad workers stand to take a three-cent an hour wage cut because their union contracts are pegged to the government's cost of living index.

The exact number to be affected here could not be learned yesterday but William H. Morris of Baltimore, state representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, estimated 10,000 operating employes in Maryland would feel the slash.

Another 30,000 non-operating employes, he said, will lose two cents an hour.

This will be offset, Morris pointed out, by a four-cent increase railroad people got last month when arbitrator decided they were entitled to it because of increased productivity.

About 4,000 General Motors employes in Baltimore will take a cut of one cent an hour because the cost of living index has gone.

They are employed at the Fisher Body and Chevrolet assembly plants there and are represented by two locals of the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

Sleeth Pleads Guilty To State Charge

Elvin Kaye Sleeth, 21, of Baltimore, was given a suspended fine of $10.75 Tuesday in Trial Magistrates Court after he pleaded guilty to a state motor charge resulting from a collision last Friday at Baltimore and Mechanic Streets.

Sleeth assumed blame for his car hitting the station wagon of DeSales Francis McDade, 31, of 316 Baltimore Avenue, who was acquitted on a similar count.

One of the vehicles hit a corner of the Metro Clothing Store, causing about $310 damage to the building. Total damage was set at $1,100.

Advent Of Spring Revives Washington's DST Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elsewhere the courageous jonquil, the chirping robin, the clucking hen are considered sure signs of spring.

But in Washington there's a sign even more certain than the celebrated cherry blossoms. That's the sound from Capitol Hill of this nation's legislators talking about daylight saving time.

The Senate has passed a bill to give Washington daylight saving time this summer, like other cities on the northeastern seaboard. As soon as the House returns from its Easter vacation it will consider the same subject.

Then we'll know that spring is really here.

Few subjects bring out the congressman in congressmen like a debate over whether Washington's clocks should be turned ahead an hour in the summer.

In the course of arguing over it, the Bible, Shakespeare and Robert Louis Stevenson have been quoted profusely.

Congress also has gravely considered the cow, and her nocturnal habits.

Looking back over old copies of the Congressional Record you run across such statement as this:

Rep. O'Hara (R-Minn), a leader in the non-daylight saving bloc: "Daylight saving time is a delusion and a fantasy."

Or, from the 1948 debate, this by the late Sen. Overton (D-La):

"Now standard time is God's time, the time that was set from the very creation of the world . . .

"Mr. President, this bill is radical, irreligious, iconoclastic, infidelic, agnostic, blasphemous. We should follow God's time."

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va) has told the House time-tampering is rough on farmers, that they have to get up too early as it is, and that it is almost impossible to explain daylight saving time to a cow, especially at three o'clock in the morning. Smith should know. He's a dairyman.

Those supporting fast time claim Washingtonians want it and therefore should have it.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) has insisted the annual debate proves Congress should quit trying to run Washington, and that home rule should be given those who live here. "They can't even change the name of a street," Miller said, "without coming to Congress."

Local Woman Involved In Frederick Crash

A Cumberland woman's "trembling knee" caused more than $1,000 property damage to four automobiles in a chain-collision Sunday in Frederick. Two persons were hurt.

Mrs. Mary E. Blackshear, 100-block North Mechanic Street, told authorities the trembling made it impossible for her to apply sufficient pressure to brakes to avoid the multiple crash.

Police said Mrs. Blackshear was driving the fourth car in an eastbound lane backed up by a stop light on North Market Street at the Square. A state motor charge was filed against her.

Luther Zimmercan, of Baltimore, third in the collision line, and his wife sustained lacerations and concusions. His vehicle was rammed against another vehicle sandwiched by an unidentified car.

Zone Appeals Board Will Meet Tonight

The Board of Zoning Appeals meets today at 8 p. m. in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The application of Graham Gray, Midland, to manufacture hair tonic in the rear of 132 Polk Street will be aired. The property is located on a "Residential C" district and was formerly occupied by a new and used furniture store.

WVU Alumni Plans Meeting Tonight

The "Mountaineer Night" program arranged for this evening at 7:30 at Central YMCA by Potomac Chapter of the West Virginia University Alumni Association is open to all former West Virginia students and their friends, William Criswell, chapter president, announced yesterday.

In addition to short talks by Art Lewis, Mountaineer football coach, and Robert "Red" Brown, basketball coach, the program will include movies of West Virginia's 16-0 football victory over Pitt last fall.

Scholastic football and basketball coaches of the Cumberand tri-state area are invited to attend along with seniors on their squads.

City Licenses Deadline Is Set For May 1

City licenses are due or renewable May 1, City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said yesterday.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation doing business without the permits are subject to a fine of from $5 to $100.

Pool room licenses must be applied for before April 15 and this carries a penalty of from $25 to $100 for operating without a permit.

Election Is Planned By Rubber Workers

A vice president of the Maryland and District of Columbia CIO Council will be elected from Local 26, United Rubber Workers, at a membership meeting of the union Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in Rubber Workers Hall, 152-154 North Mechanic Street.

Chairman of Division 6 at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will also be elected, according to William G. Rice, president.

The executive board will meet in the union hall today at 7 p. m., Rice said.

Frenzel Will Is Admitted To Probate

The will of George C. Frenzel, of Barton, was admitted to probate Tuesday in Ohphans Court.

Railroaders Face Cut In Wages

Cumberland area railroad workers stand to take a three-cent an hour wage cut because their union contracts are pegged to the government's cost of living index.

The exact number to be affected here could not be learned yesterday but William H. Morris of Baltimore, state representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, estimated 10,000 operating employes in Maryland would feel the slash.

Another 30,000 non-operating employes, he said, will lose two cents an hour.

This will be offset, Morris pointed out, by a four-cent increase railroad people got last month when arbitrator decided they were entitled to it because of increased productivity.

About 4,000 General Motors employes in Baltimore will take a cut of one cent an hour because the cost of living index has gone.

They are employed at the Fisher Body and Chevrolet assembly plants there and are represented by two locals of the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

Sleeth Pleads Guilty To State Charge

Elvin Kaye Sleeth, 21, of Baltimore, was given a suspended fine of $10.75 Tuesday in Trial Magistrates Court after he pleaded guilty to a state motor charge resulting from a collision last Friday at Baltimore and Mechanic Streets.

Sleeth assumed blame for his car hitting the station wagon of DeSales Francis McDade, 31, of 316 Baltimore Avenue, who was acquitted on a similar count.

One of the vehicles hit a corner of the Metro Clothing Store, causing about $310 damage to the building. Total damage was set at $1,100.

Advent Of Spring Revives Washington's DST Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elsewhere the courageous jonquil, the chirping robin, the clucking hen are considered sure signs of spring.

But in Washington there's a sign even more certain than the celebrated cherry blossoms. That's the sound from Capitol Hill of this nation's legislators talking about daylight saving time.

The Senate has passed a bill to give Washington daylight saving time this summer, like other cities on the northeastern seaboard. As soon as the House returns from its Easter vacation it will consider the same subject.

Then we'll know that spring is really here.

Few subjects bring out the congressman in congressmen like a debate over whether Washington's clocks should be turned ahead an hour in the summer.

In the course of arguing over it, the Bible, Shakespeare and Robert Louis Stevenson have been quoted profusely.

Congress also has gravely considered the cow, and her nocturnal habits.

Looking back over old copies of the Congressional Record you run across such statement as this:

Rep. O'Hara (R-Minn), a leader in the non-daylight saving bloc: "Daylight saving time is a delusion and a fantasy."

Or, from the 1948 debate, this by the late Sen. Overton (D-La):

"Now standard time is God's time, the time that was set from the very creation of the world . . .

"Mr. President, this bill is radical, irreligious, iconoclastic, infidelic, agnostic, blasphemous. We should follow God's time."

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va) has told the House time-tampering is rough on farmers, that they have to get up too early as it is, and that it is almost impossible to explain daylight saving time to a cow, especially at three o'clock in the morning. Smith should know. He's a dairyman.

Those supporting fast time claim Washingtonians want it and therefore should have it.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) has insisted the annual debate proves Congress should quit trying to run Washington, and that home rule should be given those who live here. "They can't even change the name of a street," Miller said, "without coming to Congress."

Local Woman Involved In Frederick Crash

A Cumberland woman's "trembling knee" caused more than $1,000 property damage to four automobiles in a chain-collision Sunday in Frederick. Two persons were hurt.

Mrs. Mary E. Blackshear, 100-block North Mechanic Street, told authorities the trembling made it impossible for her to apply sufficient pressure to brakes to avoid the multiple crash.

Police said Mrs. Blackshear was driving the fourth car in an eastbound lane backed up by a stop light on North Market Street at the Square. A state motor charge was filed against her.

Luther Zimmercan, of Baltimore, third in the collision line, and his wife sustained lacerations and concusions. His vehicle was rammed against another vehicle sandwiched by an unidentified car.

Zone Appeals Board Will Meet Tonight

The Board of Zoning Appeals meets today at 8 p. m. in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The application of Graham Gray, Midland, to manufacture hair tonic in the rear of 132 Polk Street will be aired. The property is located on a "Residential C" district and was formerly occupied by a new and used furniture store.

WVU Alumni Plans Meeting Tonight

The "Mountaineer Night" program arranged for this evening at 7:30 at Central YMCA by Potomac Chapter of the West Virginia University Alumni Association is open to all former West Virginia students and their friends, William Criswell, chapter president, announced yesterday.

In addition to short talks by Art Lewis, Mountaineer football coach, and Robert "Red" Brown, basketball coach, the program will include movies of West Virginia's 16-0 football victory over Pitt last fall.

Scholastic football and basketball coaches of the Cumberand tri-state area are invited to attend along with seniors on their squads.

City Licenses Deadline Is Set For May 1

City licenses are due or renewable May 1, City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said yesterday.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation doing business without the permits are subject to a fine of from $5 to $100.

Pool room licenses must be applied for before April 15 and this carries a penalty of from $25 to $100 for operating without a permit.

Election Is Planned By Rubber Workers

A vice president of the Maryland and District of Columbia CIO Council will be elected from Local 26, United Rubber Workers, at a membership meeting of the union Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in Rubber Workers Hall, 152-154 North Mechanic Street.

Chairman of Division 6 at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will also be elected, according to William G. Rice, president.

The executive board will meet in the union hall today at 7 p. m., Rice said.

Frenzel Will Is Admitted To Probate

The will of George C. Frenzel, of Barton, was admitted to probate Tuesday in Ohphans Court.

River Group Cites Progress On Mine Water Problem

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin has reported that it has made considerable headway with the acid mine water problem of the Cumberland area of the basin.

Edwin R. Cotton, director of the commission, made the statement when appearing before the subcommittee of the House of Representatives Committee on Appropriations.

He said the commission has made progress in determining causes and methods of counteracting this acid mine water.

Asked to explain acid mine water, Cotton said:

"When a mine is opened up and the air and water and sulphur combine, you get sulphuric acid. That acid combines with the drainage and drippings from the mine and enters the streams as a dilute solution of sulphuric acid.

"A concentration of it is enough to kill all fish life and make the water unfit for home or industrial use," Cotton explained.

Cotton also said the Potomac River is becoming more and more polluted in the vicinity of Washington by new sources of sewage and industrial wastes there.

His statements, given in connection with a request for a Federal contribution of $5,000, were made public by Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif.), subcommittee chairman.

Cotton said that since the United States Public Health Service plans to carry on a nation-wide program for pollution abatement, "certainly the nation's Capital should be cleaned up as an example of what everybody else should do!"

He said that, to the contrary, and in spite of $5,000,000 spent by the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland for additional treatment facilities during the past five years, "one of our worst problems is the pollution of the Potomac in the Washington area."

Along the river as a whole the industrial waste load has been cut 37 percent and the sanitary load by half. Here, however, because of increasing population, "the stream has been continually degrading in quality."

The District, Cotton pointed out, "has a plan to spend about $13,000,000 altogether, of which it has spent about $4,000,000 in the past three years, to provide a secondary sewage treatment plant."

Some Fish Left

That plant, when completed, "will take care of the problem, insofar as the District is concerned, for some time." He warned, however, that further steps would be needed later because of population increases.

Rep. Otto Krueger (R-N. D.) asked Cotton whether there were any fish left in the Potomac River.

A few "in certain sections," he answered.

"These parties you see fishing all the time do not catch anything?"

"Down in the Washington area, we do not have any fish," Cotton replied, "except carp, catfish and the scavenger species."

He added that many fish are caught where Rock Creek enters the Potomac, because "an overflow sewer discharges there, and the fish feed off the sewage."

The Interstate Commission works in an advisory capacity with the various sanitary bodies in the Potomac area. Its budget for fiscal 1954 is $35,000. Since 1949 the federal government has contributed $5,000 each year.

The remainder—$30,000—is to be contributed next year by D. C. ($9,000), Maryland ($7,500), Virginia ($6,000), West Virginia ($4,500) and Pennsylvania ($3,000).

Army Band Plays German Anthem For Adenauer

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The music of the German anthem—"Deutschland Uber Alles"—sounded today in Arlington National Cemetery where many veterans of the wars with Germany are buried.

It was played by the U. S. Army Band as a salute to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer who went to the cemetery to place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Germans in Adenauer's party explained that the tune is now called the "Deutschland Lied" and has different words than it had formerly. But the classic melody of Joseph Haydn was played for Adenauer just as it was for Hitler and the old German emperors.

Army Doctor Freed In Support Case

LOS ANGELES, April 8 (AP)—The Army pulled one of its doctors out of jail today, saying he was too badly needed at Ft. MacArthur hospital to serve a term for falling behind in support payments of Actress Claire James' son.

At the request of the Army, a Superior Court commissioner released Capt. Peter L. Hoffman of the Medical Corps, the actress' ex-husband. He had been sent to jail yesterday when Miss James contended he was $1,350 in arrears in payments for her 17-months-old son.

In a bitter court battle, Dr. Hoffman was adjudged the baby's father, although he contended the baby was not his.

City Warmest In Western Md. During Winter

Cumberland during the past winter remained the "Florida" of Western Maryland, according to records kept in the Sixth District of the State Roads Commission.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer, has released his compilation of winter weather conditions that showed that Cumberland enjoyed the least amount of snow of any community in the area.

West of here, Oakland had a total of 81.5 inches of snow while Accident had 83 inches. Frostburg had 56.25 inches while Cumberland had 26.3 inches.

East of here in Washington County there was more snow than in Cumberland, 41.5 inches at Hagerstown and 40 inches at Hancock.

The most snow for any one month in the three counties was 28 inches at Accident during January.

However, 33 storms were recorded in Allegany County; 31 in Garrett, and 13 in Washington County during the winter.

The most storms in any one month in the district, oddly enough, were the ten during March in Allegany County.

In this county there were two storms in October and November each; five in December; six in January and eight in February.

Garrett County had two storms each in October and November; eight in December; seven in January; eight in February and four in March.

Washington County did not have any snow in October and had one storm in November; three each in December and January; two in February and four in March.

Snowfall records at four points follow:

MONTH	Cmbd	Fbg	Oak'd	Hgtn
October		1.25	1
November	1.4	2.5	3.4	3
December	2.1	13.5	19.50	6
January	9.4	9.5	28.	13
February	3.8	13.5	13.25	6.5
March	9.6	16.	16.25	13
	26.3	56.25	81.5	41.5

Chaires explained that these are State Roads Commission records and in some instances vary with some Weather Bureau stations.

Va. Phone Subscribers May Get Rate Boost

CHARLOTTESVILLE, April 7 (AP)—A rate boost for phone subscribers of the Virginia Telephone and Telegraph Company in Virginia and West Virginia became a prospect today in the wake of a wage settlement between union workers and the company.

Vice President D. T. Swanson said the union demands were "severe" and a request for rate increases must be filed as soon as possible.

A threatened strike by some 300 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) was averted when the company's fourth wage proposal was accepted by the union yesterday.

Precise details of the agreement were not disclosed.

Washington Street Resurfaced

Workmen for the Cumberland Contracting Company are shown as they laid a new blacktop surface on a short stretch of Washington Street in front of the Court House. The new surface has been laid only from Prospect Square to Smallwood Street, a distance of slightly more than one block. The work was completed yesterday.

noted. "But the roof just took flight."

Custer reasoned that wind velocity as well as atmospheric pressure probably had something to do with it.

In a conventional airplane, the ship is pulled through the air to obtain its lift. In a jet plane it is actually pushed. In a helicopter the wing is spun around to gain lift.

Behind Wings

In the channel wing device the propellers are behind the wings and are centered above a half-barrel-like loop which is the channel.

"Atmospheric pressure at sea level is 14.7 pounds per square inch, or in excess of 2,000 pounds per square foot," Custer said in explaining his theory.

"If the pressure on the upper side of the aircraft wing is relieved by velocity changes, a lift results in proportion to the difference in pressure," he said.

From his viewpoint, this reverses the conventional thinking in terms of air speed (of the wing) to planning and thinking in terms of speed of air.

It is a recognized aerodynamic principle that if air is moving over a square foot of wing area at a velocity of 100 miles per hour, there will be a reaction or lift of 25 pounds per square foot.

Under the same rule, it is constant that as the velocity is doubled, say to 200 miles per hour, the lift ratio is quadrupled, or, in this case, to 100 pounds per square foot.

This means that an air velocity flow at 800 miles per hour creates a lift of approximately 1,600 pounds per square foot.

"In the Channel Wing," Custer explains, "such lifts are attained by generating air flows and utilizing the resulting forces while the ship remains at rest."

Production Model

Arrangements were made to build a production model of the ship in its latest model, known as CCW-5. Custer said it is being built in a California airplane plant and he plans to go there Monday to arrange for test flights.

At that time Custer hopes to show that his plane will:

1. Be able to take off within a few feet of space similar to that capability of a helicopter.
2. Be able to hover over one position while airborne.
3. Attain forward speeds in excess of those of conventional aircraft.
4. Slow down, hover and land vertically under full control.
5. Substantially increase payloads, flight range and endurance over that of any other ship.

If these tests are successful, Custer said he is prepared to begin construction of a plant for production and will manufacture the planes in the east. He prefers to be in this area because his home is in Hagerstown, and it was there his idea was born and the plane first became airborne. His son, Harold Ray Custer, was one of the first to pilot the channel wing and Walter J. Davidson, also of Hagerstown, works with Custer as project engineer.

Davidson was a World War II pilot for both the Royal Air Force and the United States Army Air Force and has flown the Atlantic and Pacific more than 60 times.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Bruno in fleur-de-lis version

Springtime Vests

FASHION: This is a big year for the imaginative vest. No longer confined to plaid or suit-matching patterns, this spring's waistcoats are branching into new designs. Latest version of the fancy vest is the embroidered fleur-de-lis pattern worn by smartly dressed John Bruno (left), New York restaurateur. It has a plain gray silk background and military buttons.

Clothes Care: If you're getting ready to put winter clothes away, see first that they're thoroughly clean. Try to put most clothing in sealed garment bags; wool hose and sweaters will go in sealed jars or cans. . . . It's better to fold and wrap heavy overcoats, with moth repellent included, than to let them hang over the summer. Heavy coats can stretch out of shape. . . . And have shirts washed soft before storing. Starch attracts insects, especially silver fish.

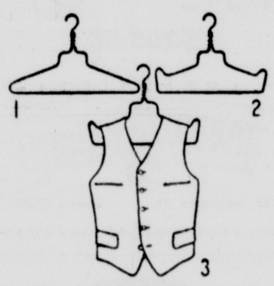
Handy Hints: Fill your bathtub with a couple of inches of cold water before running hot water—to avoid steaming up the bathroom. . . . If fish have been out of water for some time, you can scale them easier if they're first dipped in boiling water. . . . If a cork is too large, do not trim the outside. Instead, cut a wedge from the middle and edges will still fit snugly.

New Ideas: Bar glasses, with space on glass and special pencil to check off requested drink and mark guest's name. . . . A 7½-inch fishing gadget that combines nine tools in one, and hooks onto your belt. . . . The "Sportsman" old-time shaving mug, embossed in gold with the owner's name. . . . The one-size-fits-everybody sock, formerly only in plain colors, now is available in Argyle and clock patterns.

Announcement: National Father's Day Committee is offering a $100 U. S. bond to the father with the largest number of twin children, twin grandchildren and twin great-grandchildren. Send entries to this column before May 1.

Odd Items: World's most remarkable pawnshop may be found in a fashionable section of Paris. Run by the Paris Municipal Council, it often aids titled, wealthy people who need quick funds. . . . A recent survey says that 70 per cent of the pipes sold in this country are bought by women. . . . There are 28 towns in the United States by the name of Eureka.

Hanger Note: A reader complains that his vests and buttoned sleeveless sweaters will not stay on regular hangers, and often end up on the floor. He sent this suggestion for reshaping a hanger to hold such things securely. Take regular wire hanger (see drawing, 1) and bend notches upward at either end (2). There is no way then for the vest to slide past (3). For the ladies—this device will also keep your sleeveless dresses in place.



Pass the Cigars: This week to—Maurice Herzog, author of the best seller "Annapurna," who made a true-life conquest of a Himalayan mountain into one of the most thrilling yarns you've ever read.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

Letters have come lately from people who feel that "payroll padding" in one way or another is still going on in the executive departments of the government.

There is concern that the "housecleaning" and lowering of payroll expenses has been insufficient in the first 70 days of the new administration. On the other hand, people living in Maryland who have lost their government jobs because of economy drives have been seeking help to restore them through my office.

This problem is faced by every member of Congress, and the solution is not easy. But the fact remains that successful government economizing is a two-way street. When the nation votes for economy and reduced payrolls, those who have the misfortune to be displaced should make every effort to find employment outside the government.

That is the only way we can back up the pledge of economy.

There will be an appointment made soon to the job of acting postmaster in Ednor. I hope any interested men or women will inquire through my office in the House Office Building, Washington, D. C., for information about it.

The postmaster general, in order to provide better and more economical service, may consider combining the fourth class post offices at Ednor, Ashton, Olney and Sandy Spring into one second class office, probably in the Sandy Spring business section. But before I discuss this with postal officials, I would like to have opinions from readers who live in the area.

Elsewhere in Maryland . . . I have submitted a resolution, which, if acted upon favorably by the Public Works committee, will permit the Army Engineers to find out if additional work at the Savage River Dam would help solve the water purification problem for Westernport . . . Acting on suggestions from Frederick, I am checking up on the TV interference problem there . . . Congressman Miller of Maryland's First District has introduced a very fine bill to give voting and other privileges to those who live on federal lands within the Free State.

Legislation last week . . . I have introduced a bill to permit District of Columbia judges to retire after 20 years' service, at 70 if they've served more than 10 years, or if they become disabled . . . And I cast my vote in favor of the "tidelands" bill.

Next week I shall explain in this column my stand on the bill, and point out some of the misinformation that has been given to the public about it.

The city of Jerusalem has seen more than 20 sieges and Assyrians, Persians, Macedonians, Arabs, Turks, Crusaders and the British have beaten against its walls. But after every disaster Jerusalem has risen from its ruins.

Bruno in fleur-de-lis version

Springtime Vests

FASHION: This is a big year for the imaginative vest. No longer confined to plaid or suit-matching patterns, this spring's waistcoats are branching into new designs. Latest version of the fancy vest is the embroidered fleur-de-lis pattern worn by smartly dressed John Bruno (left), New York restaurateur. It has a plain gray silk background and military buttons.

Clothes Care: If you're getting ready to put winter clothes away, see first that they're thoroughly clean. Try to put most clothing in sealed garment bags; wool hose and sweaters will go in sealed jars or cans. . . . It's better to fold and wrap heavy overcoats, with moth repellent included, than to let them hang over the summer. Heavy coats can stretch out of shape. . . . And have shirts washed soft before storing. Starch attracts insects, especially silver fish.

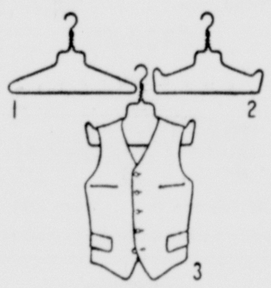
Handy Hints: Fill your bathtub with a couple of inches of cold water before running hot water—to avoid steaming up the bathroom. . . . If fish have been out of water for some time, you can scale them easier if they're first dipped in boiling water. . . . If a cork is too large, do not trim the outside. Instead, cut a wedge from the middle and edges will still fit snugly.

New Ideas: Bar glasses, with space on glass and special pencil to check off requested drink and mark guest's name. . . . A 7½-inch fishing gadget that combines nine tools in one, and hooks onto your belt. . . . The "Sportsman" old-time shaving mug, embossed in gold with the owner's name. . . . The one-size-fits-everybody sock, formerly only in plain colors, now is available in Argyle and clock patterns.

Announcement: National Father's Day Committee is offering a $100 U. S. bond to the father with the largest number of twin children, twin grandchildren and twin great-grandchildren. Send entries to this column before May 1.

Odd Items: World's most remarkable pawnshop may be found in a fashionable section of Paris. Run by the Paris Municipal Council, it often aids titled, wealthy people who need quick funds. . . . A recent survey says that 70 per cent of the pipes sold in this country are bought by women. . . . There are 28 towns in the United States by the name of Eureka.

Hanger Note: A reader complains that his vests and buttoned sleeveless sweaters will not stay on regular hangers, and often end up on the floor. He sent this suggestion for reshaping a hanger to hold such things securely. Take regular wire hanger (see drawing, 1) and bend notches upward at either end (2). There is no way then for the vest to slide past (3). For the ladies—this device will also keep your sleeveless dresses in place.



Pass the Cigars: This week to—Maurice Herzog, author of the best seller "Annapurna," who made a true-life conquest of a Himalayan mountain into one of the most thrilling yarns you've ever read.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

Letters have come lately from people who feel that "payroll padding" in one way or another is still going on in the executive departments of the government.

There is concern that the "housecleaning" and lowering of payroll expenses has been insufficient in the first 70 days of the new administration. On the other hand, people living in Maryland who have lost their government jobs because of economy drives have been seeking help to restore them through my office.

This problem is faced by every member of Congress, and the solution is not easy. But the fact remains that successful government economizing is a two-way street. When the nation votes for economy and reduced payrolls, those who have the misfortune to be displaced should make every effort to find employment outside the government.

That is the only way we can back up the pledge of economy.

There will be an appointment made soon to the job of acting postmaster in Ednor. I hope any interested men or women will inquire through my office in the House Office Building, Washington, D. C., for information about it.

The postmaster general, in order to provide better and more economical service, may consider combining the fourth class post offices at Ednor, Ashton, Olney and Sandy Spring into one second class office, probably in the Sandy Spring business section. But before I discuss this with postal officials, I would like to have opinions from readers who live in the area.

Elsewhere in Maryland . . . I have submitted a resolution, which, if acted upon favorably by the Public Works committee, will permit the Army Engineers to find out if additional work at the Savage River Dam would help solve the water purification problem for Westernport . . . Acting on suggestions from Frederick, I am checking up on the TV interference problem there . . . Congressman Miller of Maryland's First District has introduced a very fine bill to give voting and other privileges to those who live on federal lands within the Free State.

Legislation last week . . . I have introduced a bill to permit District of Columbia judges to retire after 20 years' service, at 70 if they've served more than 10 years, or if they become disabled . . . And I cast my vote in favor of the "tidelands" bill.

Next week I shall explain in this column my stand on the bill, and point out some of the misinformation that has been given to the public about it.

The city of Jerusalem has seen more than 20 sieges and Assyrians, Persians, Macedonians, Arabs, Turks, Crusaders and the British have beaten against its walls. But after every disaster Jerusalem has risen from its ruins.

Freedom Village Has Clean Linen, Stateside Music

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea — (INS)—The wounded will come home to white sheets and soft music, if they come.

"Home" is a long way from America, 8,000 miles from San Francisco's Golden Gate, but the clean white sheets on the hospital cots, the neat new messhalls, the white clad doctors and nurses and the loudspeakers playing popular American music create an illusion.

The impact of these sights and sounds on returning American prisoners can only be imagined. Some of the men who may return have lived in Communist prison camps since July of 1950, almost three years.

Today the long hospital tents were ready. White sheets glistened on the long rows of hospital cots. Red crosses shone brightly in the sun on the green roofs.

There was more color in this mercy valley than in most places in barren and shell-wracked Korea. The Marine sentries wore white helmets.

And a note of gaiety was sounded from the fences, where loudspeakers broadcast American dance music.

New clothing was stored in Freedom Village where four separate processing lines have been set up to rush the returned prisoners through clearance.

Most are expected to be rushed to evacuation hospitals near Seoul, or to the two hospital ships awaiting at nearby Inchon.

Those who require immediate surgery, however, will be carried on stretchers to the 45th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital which is set up with 13 doctors and 13 nurses in attendance.

Sgt. Frederick Jerrior of (52 Charles Street) Reading, Mass., will log in the prisoners who must receive immediate treatment.

The hospital appeared ready to receive its charges, but Sgt. Edward Crame of Neenah, Wis., and Pvt. Anthony Dagostino of (701 Bushwick Street) Brooklyn, N. Y., bustled about like impatient housewives expecting company to put the finishing touches on the preparations.

Near the hospital are the cleared spaces on which Army and Marine helicopters will land to pick up the sick and wounded for the quick trip back to bigger and more permanent hospital facilities.

Less than a mile from the hospital are the railroad tracks on which a hospital train awaits and the terminus for an ambulance convoy.

New Chemical, Flashing Light Used In Cure Of Schizophrenics

CHICAGO —(INS)— A chemical tablet and a flashing light were reported to bring dramatic improvement to apparently hopeless victims of schizophrenia, the "split personality" insanity that afflicts a quarter-million young Americans.

Scientists said the new treatment some day may replace electric shock therapy for insanity because it is much gentler and may be equally effective.

Dr. Carl C. Pfeiffer of the University of Illinois said he helped 37 schizophrenics by giving them a new chemical—semicarbazide—and then showing them a rapidly flickering light.

The chemical drives the patient's brain waves into an epileptic pattern. The stimulation of a neon light—flashing on and off 20 times a second—sends additional rythmic signals to the brain and completes the job.

After a few minutes of watching the light in a darkened room, Dr. Pfeiffer explained, the patients suffer convulsions resembling epileptic seizures—and the convulsions, in some unknown way, ease the insanity.

After a month of twice-weekly treatments, four patients who had been insane for two years were discharged from Manteno, Ill., hospital and three more were ready to return home. Another eight showed marked improvement and all the remaining 22 showed some gain.

The results were especially impressive because all the patients had failed to respond to other forms of treatment, including electric shock and drug-induced convulsions. Schizophrenics who have been hospitalized for more than two years—as these patients were—do not often recover completely.

Dr. Pfeiffer's report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology emphasized that the chemical-and-light treatment is much easier on the patients than electric brain shocks.

Semicarbazide has never before been used in medical treatment, Dr. Pfeiffer said, but it has a famous chemical cousin.

It is closely related to isoniazid—the tuberculosis-fighting "wonder drug." Isoniazid, which also affects the brain in high doses, was coupled with the flashing lights in some experiments, the scientist reported, but semicarbazide proved to be much more effective.

The patients take one-gram tablets of the chemical twice a day. At breakfast on "treatment days"—just before they are exposed to the flickering light—they get an extra-large five-gram dose.

Occasionally, the report warned, the new treatment causes nausea, vomiting and weight loss.

The population of Alaska in 1867 when the United States acquired it from Russia was estimated at 30,000 persons.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

You know when Ike said he was going to play footsies with Congress some of those birds let their toenails grow.

Ike had better intentions than a fireman with two hats.

He thought he could end the running warfare between Congress and the White House. He didn't know some of the GOP Senators were so tough they demanded cross-town transfers when they were walking.

Pretty soon Ike discovered he was buttering burnt toast.

The GOP Congressmen had been fighting the White House since 1932. And you shouldn't take an old dog out of the woods.

Ike thought everything was going to be as merry as a couple of grigs. But his first appointment was nixxed like a sneeze in a barber chair. It was a shorter honeymoon than an atomic kiss.

Congress and the White House are like Moran and Mack. Moran played a corrugated obligato on a ten-cent whistle. When he got through Mack said, "if that was good I wouldn't like it."

Fund Drive Underway By District Firemen

North Branch District 16 Volunteer Fire Company and its auxiliary are conducting a campaign to defray the costs of installing a new pump on their fire truck in Washington. The cost is $2,000, along with additional lights and other equipment.

Delbert R. Valentine, secretary, said the pump is the latest model for fighting fires and its approved by Underwriters.

When the installation is completed and the truck is finally approved by the Underwriters, it will bring a reduction in fire insurance rates to homes and property within a four-mile radius of the fire hall at North Branch.

AWOL Sailor, GI Get Jail Terms

Two AWOL servicemen were committed Tuesday to Allegany County Jail for 25 days following trial in Frostburg on misdemeanor charges.

Held are Robert Green, of Cumberland, a sailor, and David Green, of Eckhart, a soldier. Both were incarcerated in default of $25 fines levied by Magistrate Fred Crowe.

Authorities said the pair was arrested early Tuesday on Park Avenue in Frostburg with James E. Woods, of Ridgeley, who also was fined $25. They will be turned over to military police upon completion of their terms.

Semicarbazide has never before been used in medical treatment, Dr. Pfeiffer said, but it has a famous chemical cousin.

It is closely related to isoniazid —the tuberculosis-fighting "wonder drug." Isoniazid, which also affects the brain in high doses, was coupled with the flashing lights in some experiments, the scientist reported, but semicarbazide proved to be much more effective.

The patients take one-gram tablets of the chemical twice a day. At breakfast on "treatment days" —just before they are exposed to the flickering light—they get an extra-large five-gram dose.

Occasionally, the report warned, the new treatment causes nausea, vomiting and weight loss.

The population of Alaska in 1867 when the United States acquired it from Russia was estimated at 30,000 persons.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Distributed By INS)

You know when Ike said he was going to play footsies with Congress some of those birds let their toenails grow.

Ike had better intentions than a fireman with two hats.

He thought he could end the running warfare between Congress and the White House. He didn't know some of the GOP Senators were so tough they demanded cross-town transfers when they were walking.

Pretty soon Ike discovered he was buttering burnt toast.

The GOP Congressmen had been fighting the White House since 1932. And you shouldn't take an old dog out of the woods.

Ike thought everything was going to be as merry as a couple of grigs. But his first appointment was nixxed like a sneeze in a barber chair. It was a shorter honeymoon than an atomic kiss.

Congress and the White House are like Moran and Mack. Moran played a corrugated obligato on a ten-cent whistle. When he got through Mack said, "if that was good I wouldn't like it."

Fund Drive Underway By District Firemen

North Branch District 16 Volunteer Fire Company and its auxiliary are conducting a campaign to defray the costs of installing a new pump on their fire truck in Washington. The cost is $2,000, along with additional lights and other equipment.

Delbert R. Valentine, secretary, said the pump is the latest model for fighting fires and its approved by Underwriters.

When the installation is completed and the truck is finally approved by the Underwriters, it will bring a reduction in fire insurance rates to homes and property within a four-mile radius of the fire hall at North Branch.

AWOL Sailor, GI Get Jail Terms

Two AWOL servicemen were committed Tuesday to Allegany County Jail for 25 days following trial in Frostburg on misdemeanor charges.

Held are Robert Green, of Cumberland, a sailor, and David Green, of Eckhart, a soldier. Both were incarcerated in default of $25 fines levied by Magistrate Fred Crowe.

Authorities said the pair was arrested early Tuesday on Park Avenue in Frostburg with James E. Woods, of Ridgeley, who also was fined $25. They will be turned over to military police upon completion of their terms.

Frostburg's Hot Stove League Will Operate

Loop To Name Club Managers Next Monday

Officers Are Elected; League In Its Second Year; Braves Champs

Frostburg will operate a four-team Hot Stove Baseball League for the second year this season, it was decided at a meeting held at the City Hall building in the Mountain City.

Officers for the circuit for boys from 12 to 15 years were elected at the meeting for the coming season. They are Gny Mallow, president and Richard Hewitt, secretary-treasurer.

Committees Are Named

However, Hewitt wishes to resign the post he held last year also and a new secretary-treasurer will be named to replace him at the next meeting of the circuit Monday, April 13 at City Hall.

Named to the executive board of the league are Fred Crowe, Ken Lowery, Harvey McGregor, Dan Wilson, Gerald Groves, Hugh Nolan, Henry Bottman, Cliff Fearer, Harry Fuller, Arthur Thomas, Gus Harris and Bill Kerr.

Other committees appointed at the meeting were the finance player pool, rules and grounds committees. The finance group will be composed of the league officers and the executive board.

Harvey McGregor is chairman of the player pool committee and Gerald Morgan and Ken Lowery will assist him. The rules committee is Ray Conners, chairman, and Dale Coleman and Jerry Davis. The grounds committee is Harry Fuller, Jerry Groves and Guy Mallow.

Prior to the meeting at which plans for the coming season were begun it had been feared the Frostburg Hot Stove League might not operate this year because of inability to secure managers to run the four teams.

Braves Are Champions

However a pool of 10 managers has been made available and the officers and executive board will select four pilots from this list as the next meeting.

Those expressing willingness to lead the teams are Ray Conners, who piloted the league champion Braves last season, Dale Coleman, Robert Keister, Roy Pepper, Seth Adams, Cleo Duncan, Ken Pollock, Glen Wilson, Gene Wilson and George Walker.

The four teams in the league are the defending champion Braves, the Cards, Cubs and Tigers.

A new commissioner of the circuit will be named at the next meeting by the president to replace Cliff Fearer who held the post last year.

Moorefield, Romney Game Reset Today

Halted by rainy weather on Tuesday, the tossers of Moorefield High School and Romney High School will make another attempt to launch their Potomac Valley Conference campaign today at Romney at 2 p. m.

Joe Ely and Rodger Parker are slated to work the points for Coach "Dick" McElwee's Pioneers. Randall Raines or Bobby Wilson will serve up the benders for Coach Johnny Paugh's aggregation with Donnie Thomas working on the receiving end.

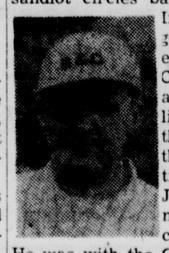
Remember this young lefthander?

He was quite a pitcher in local sandlot circles back in the 1920s.



In fact, he was so good that he earned a job with the Cumberland Colts and served as relief pitcher for the Dobbins in the Middle Atlantic League when Johnny Byrnes managed the local aggregation. He was with the Colts two seasons and his catchers were Benny Artigiani and Eddie Siegal. Artigiani, incidentally, is now scouting for the New York Yankees.

This portsider also pitched for the Clarksburg Generals in the Middle Atlantic League when "Moose" Marshall piloted the West Virginia team.

A native of Cumberland, the lad pictured here, started his diamond career with the North Cumberland Pirates in 1922 when he was 16. His batterymate in those days was Henry Schupfer. He also played with Rose Hill, St. Patrick's and St. Mary's.

In the 1930s he was the pitching ace of B. & O. Railroad teams managed by "Buddy" Preaskorn and was on the firing line for Potomac Edison teams managed by the late Joe Buskey.

For nine years, 1923 to 1932, he clerked in the B. & O. master mechanic's office here. That's when Ed Menshaw was master mechanic at the local shops.

What's his name?

He is Robert J. "Lefty" Appel, now extra driver and ticket agent for Blue Ridge Bus Lines. He started driving city buses for P.E. in 1932 and was transferred to Blue Ridge in 1940. Sam Rainey, his former batterymate, is also a driver on the western division of Blue Ridge Lines and "Lefty" Joe Decker, former P. E. pitcher, is ticket agent here.

Spencer Is Injured

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 8 (AP)—The New York Giants withstood a four-run rally by the Cleveland Indians in the ninth inning to squeeze out an 11-10 victory over the American Leaguers today.

Rookie Daryl Spencer of the Giants was a casualty of a Mike Garcia pitch which struck him in the head in the first inning. Spencer will be out for two weeks as the result of the slight fracture of the left cheek bone and cuts on the upper and lower lip that required nine stitches. He had been slated to start the season at third base for New York.

Mangrum Shoots Tune-Up 63 For Masters Tourney

Becomes Favorite, Affair Opens Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8 (AP)—Lean Lloyd Mangrum, the dapper mustached Texan who uses Niles, Ill., as his golfing address, shot an almost unbelievable 63 in practice over the Augusta National Course today to establish himself as favorite in the 17th Masters tournament, starting tomorrow.

The field of 73 hand-picked golfers is the largest ever to play in the Masters. The previous record entry was 72 in 1934, the first year of the tournament was played.

With this record field, the proposal of a separate division for the old masters in the tournament gathered headway today. The veterans, automatically eligible for the tournament because of past triumphs, hardly figure to play the kind of golf Mangrum showed today.

Fred Corcoran, promotional director for the Professional Golfers Association, and a few others are plugging the idea of a two-division setup. One would include the top stars of present day tournament golf. The other would take in the oldsters who helped bring the game to its current state of prosperity.

In addition to such "regulars" at the Masters as Sarazen, PGA President Horton Smith, Byron Nelson and Chick Evans, the field this year includes Olin Dutra, 1934 National Open champion; Sam Parks, Jr., who amazed the golf world by winning the same title in 1935, and all but two of the winners of the 16 previous Masters tournaments.

Title Is At Stake In Shuffle Match At Amvets' Home

The championship of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League is at stake tonight when Stadium Inn and the Cumberland Amvets conclude their six-game series at the Amvets Home at 8:30 o'clock.

These teams opened their series at Frostburg Tuesday night and the Amvets won by the margin of four points, 64-60. Stadium Inn won the second and third games, 27-23 and 23-15 while the Amvets piled up a 16-point lead in the opener, 26-10.

The championship is determined on total points in six games.

Hamner Steals Show

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP)—Shortstop Granny Hamner put on a show for his hometown folks here today as he led the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in an interleague exhibition ball game.

It was the National Leaguers' fifth straight victory over the Bostonians.

Hamner accounted for both Phillie runs by belting homers, one over the center field wall in the second inning and the other over the wall in right in the fifth.

41 West Virginia Counties To Have 3-Day Deer Season

Any Sex Made Fair Game Nov. 30-Dec. 2

CHARLESTON, April 8. (AP)—Hunting seasons for 1953 generally the same or longer than those of a year ago were established by the Conservation Commission today.

A three-day season of Nov. 30-Dec. 2 was established for deer in all or portions of 41 West Virginia counties.

A one-day season on Nov. 30 was set only in McDowell, Mercer, Wyoming and that portion of Raleigh County east of U. S. Rt. 19-21 and State Rt. 16. A year ago, there was a one-day season in all or parts of 24 counties.

The commission made deer of any sex or age fair game, for the third consecutive year. A season bag limit of one deer also was established again.

The three-day deer season was established in these counties:

Barbour, Braxton, Berkeley, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Fayette north of U. S. 60; Gilmer, Grant Greenbrier except west of U. S. 50 and south of U. S. 60; Hampshire, Hancock, Hardy, Harrison, Jackson, Kanawha north of the Kanawha River; Mineral, Mononglia, Monroe east of U. S. 219; Morgan, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Preston, Putnam east of the Kanawha River; Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Tucker, Tyler, Upshur, Webster, Wetzel, Wirt and Wood.

Laffango Wins Experimental Cap

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — The Trio Stable's Laffango won the $22,600 Experimental Free Handicap today in a close finish at Jamaica race track, as the favored Ben Whitaker's Tahitian King finished out of the money.

Eight eligibles for the Kentucky Derby, including Laffango, were in the field of 13 three-year-olds in the six furlong race being run for the 14th time.

Jockey Nick Shuk, who came up from Bowie, Md., rode Laffango, a bay son of Errard, and the time was a good 1:11 2/5 on a track called fast but still a bit damp from yesterday's rain.

Ullery Hurls No-Hit Game

CAPON BRIDGE, W. Va., April 8 — Wendall Ullery, Capon Bridge righthander, hurled a no-hitter against the West Virginia School for Deaf tossers in the opening game of the season for both nines as Coach Cliff Towles aggregation blasted the visitors 36 to 1 in a Potomac Valley Conference baseball game here today.

Ullery was scored upon in the sixth inning when his teammates committed several errors behind him. The tall righthander fanned 18.

Ullery also paced his team at the plate with four hits. Saville and Wilson each had three bingles in the 18-hit assault on the Romney pitchers. The score:

First Major Game Assured Sellout

MILWAUKEE, April 8 (AP)—This town went baseball nuts today as the Milwaukee Braves came home for the first time.

An estimated 60,000 persons, some of them in Indian headdresses and all of them screaming, lined a five-mile parade route through the downtown district to welcome the National League team which until 21 days ago belonged to Boston.

"This is the greatest thing I ever saw," beamed Manager Charley Grimm, peering from a parlor car window as the Braves' train pulled in from Chicago.

The trainshed was jammed with several thousand persons, including two brass bands. A battalion of models in tight white sweaters with Indian bonnets atop their curls lined both sides of a long red carpet which stretched from the tracks through the trainshed and depot out into the street in front.

Lou Perini, Braves owner, was among the first to greet Grimm as he led his players off the train.

"Isn't this wonderful, Charley, isn't this wonderful?" Perini grinned.

Outside the depot, packed into the street and overflowing a block-square park, were an estimated 10,000 fans all yelling at the tops of their voices.

The players, each escorted by a pretty model, climbed into convertibles for the parade. Early on the route, before the long line of cars reached "Braves Drive," the newly renamed main downtown street, a truckload of real Indians and a cavalcade of horsemen wearing Indian garb, pulled into the caravan.

At a downtown hotel, terminus of the parade, the players pressed through the crowded lobby into a parlor where a huge Christmas tree was decorated with miniature baseballs and bats. Beneath it were piled gifts from businessmen—clocks, billfolds, lighters, fountain pen sets, golf balls and the like. Each man received a full complement.

A sellout of 36,011 is assured for the National League opener next Tuesday with the St. Louis Cardinals.

WVU Cage, Football Mentors Here Today

Robert N. "Red" Brown, cage coach, and Art "Pappy" Lewis, football mentor at West Virginia University will attend the Potomac Chapter of WVU Alumni Association's "Mountaineer Night" program tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Demons To Practice

The Frostburg Demons of the Bi-State Baseball League will practice Saturday and Sunday at 2 p. m. at Frostburg Community Ball Park. Manager Lou Baker said a brief meeting will be held before Saturday's session at 1:30 p. m.

Game Postponed

The scheduled baseball game between Terra Alta High School and Southern High at Oakland yesterday was postponed until 3:30 p. m. today because of wet grounds, Coach Carl Wilson of Oakland reported last night.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8 (AP)—Lean Lloyd Mangrum, the dapper mustached Texan who uses Niles, Ill., as his golfing address, shot an almost unbelievable 63 in practice over the Augusta National Course today to establish himself as favorite in the 17th Masters tournament, starting tomorrow.

The field of 73 hand-picked golfers is the largest ever to play in the Masters. The previous record entry was 72 in 1934, the first year of the tournament was played.

With this record field, the proposal of a separate division for the old masters in the tournament gathered headway today. The veterans, automatically eligible for the tournament because of past triumphs, hardly figure to play the kind of golf Mangrum showed today.

Fred Corcoran, promotional director for the Professional Golfers Association, and a few others are plugging the idea of a two-division setup. One would include the top stars of present day tournament golf. The other would take in the oldsters who helped bring the game to its current state of prosperity.

In addition to such "regulars" at the Masters as Sarazen, PGA President Horton Smith, Byron Nelson and Chick Evans, the field this year includes Olin Dutra, 1934 National Open champion; Sam Parks, Jr., who amazed the golf world by winning the same title in 1935, and all but two of the winners of the 16 previous Masters tournaments.

Title Is At Stake In Shuffle Match At Amvets' Home

The championship of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League is at stake tonight when Stadium Inn and the Cumberland Amvets conclude their six-game series at the Amvets Home at 8:30 o'clock.

These teams opened their series at Frostburg Tuesday night and the Amvets won by the margin of four points, 64-60. Stadium Inn won the second and third games, 27-23 and 23-15 while the Amvets piled up a 16-point lead in the opener, 26-10.

The championship is determined on total points in six games.

Hamner Steals Show

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP)—Shortstop Granny Hamner put on a show for his hometown folks here today as he led the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in an interleague exhibition ball game.

It was the National Leaguers' fifth straight victory over the Bostonians.

Hamner accounted for both Phillie runs by belting homers, one over the center field wall in the second inning and the other over the wall in right in the fifth.

41 West Virginia Counties To Have 3-Day Deer Season

Any Sex Made Fair Game Nov. 30-Dec. 2

CHARLESTON, April 8 (AP)—Hunting seasons for 1953 generally the same or longer than those of a year ago were established by the Conservation Commission today.

A three-day season of Nov. 30-Dec. 2 was established for deer in all or portions of 41 West Virginia counties.

A one-day season on Nov. 30 was set only in McDowell, Mercer, Wyoming and that portion of Raleigh County east of U. S. Rt. 19-21 and State Rt. 16. A year ago, there was a one-day season in all or parts of 24 counties.

The commission made deer of any sex or age fair game, for the third consecutive year. A season bag limit of one deer also was established again.

The three-day deer season was established in these counties:

Barbour, Braxton, Berkeley, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Fayette north of U. S. 60; Gilmer, Grant Greenbrier except west of U. S. 50 and south of U. S. 60; Hampshire, Hancock, Hardy, Harrison, Jackson, Kanawha north of the Kanawha River; Mineral, Monongalia, Monroe east of U. S. 219; Morgan, Nicholas, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Preston, Putnam east of the Kanawha River; Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Tucker, Tyler, Upshur, Webster, Wetzel, Wirt and Wood.

Laffango Wins Experimental Cap

Eight eligibles for the Kentucky Derby, including Laffango, were in the field of 13 three-year-olds in the six furlong race being run for the 14th time.

Jockey Nick Shuk, who came up from Bowie, Md., rode Laffango, a bay son of Errard, and the time was a good 1;11 2/5 on a track called fast but still a bit damp from yesterday's rain.

Ullery Hurls No-Hit Game

CAPON BRIDGE, W. Va., April 8 — Wendall Ullery, Capon Bridge righthander, hurled a no-hitter against the West Virginia School for Deaf tossers in the opening game of the season for both nines as Coach Cliff Towles aggregation blasted the visitors 36 to 1 in a Potomac Valley Conference baseball game here today.

Ullery was scored upon in the sixth inning when his teammates committed several errors behind him. The tall righthander fanned 18.

Ullery also paced his team at the plate with four hits. Saville and Wilson each had three bingles in the 18-hit assault on the Romney pitchers. The score:

ROMNEY	000	001	0— 1 0 6

Demons To Practice

The Frostburg Demons of the Bi-State Baseball League will practice Saturday and Sunday at 2 p. m. at Frostburg Community Ball Park. Manager Lou Baker said a brief meeting will be held before Saturday's session at 1:30 p. m.

Game Postponed

The scheduled baseball game between Terra Alta High School and Southern High at Oakland yesterday was postponed until 3:30 p. m. today because of wet grounds, Coach Carl Wilson of Oakland reported last night.

First Major Game Assured Sellout

MILWAUKEE, April 8 (AP)—This town went baseball nuts today as the Milwaukee Braves came home for the first time.

An estimated 60,000 persons, some of them in Indian headdresses and all of them screaming, lined a five-mile parade route through the downtown district to welcome the National League team which until 21 days ago belonged to Boston.

"This is the greatest thing I ever saw," beamed Manager Charley Grimm, peering from a parlor car window as the Braves' train pulled in from Chicago.

The trainshed was jammed with several thousand persons, including two brass bands. A battalion of models in tight white sweaters with Indian bonnets atop their curls lined both sides of a long red carpet which stretched from the tracks through the trainshed and depot out into the street in front.

Lou Perini, Braves owner, was among the first to greet Grimm as he led his players off the train.

"Isn't this wonderful, Charley, isn't this wonderful?" Perini grinned.

Outside the depot, packed into the street and overflowing a block-square park, were an estimated 10,000 fans all yelling at the tops of their voices.

The players, each escorted by a pretty model, climbed into convertibles for the parade. Early on the route, before the long line of cars reached "Braves Drive," the newly renamed main downtown street, a truckload of real Indians and a cavalcade of horsemen wearing Indian garb, pulled into the caravan.

At a downtown hotel, terminus of the parade, the players pressed through the crowded lobby into a parlor where a huge Christmas tree was decorated with miniature baseballs and bats. Beneath it were piled gifts from businessmen—clocks, billfolds, lighters, fountain pen sets, golf balls and the like. Each man received a full complement.

A sellout of 36,011 is assured for the National League opener next Tuesday with the St. Louis Cardinals.

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS)—This was at Jamaica and the ancient clocker and we stood along the rail watching the work-outs, and as always we were amazed that he could name every horse he saw, including the new two-year olds.

How could he identify them without colors or numbers. He grunted: "Same way you tell two different people apart. Faces, conformation, markings, way of moving all different. No two alike."

Suddenly he nudged us: "Look at that Skoal. He's getting ready to move." A little later he glanced at his stop watch and whistled.

"Colts' real sharp," he said. "Three panels in 34 flat. Watch him first time out."

(We remembered and last Saturday he romped home in the fifth—a six furlong dash—in 1:11 3/5 and paid $36.10).

We commented that we had seen a young woman training horses at Aqueduct track one day and he grinned: "Yep, know who you mean. Suzanne Zinser. College kid. Trains for the Kono Stable. Knows her stuff, too.

"Looks like the distaff side's taking over, don't it? But we've always had women in racing but not so many as now."

"Years ago Elizabeth Dangerfield used to manage the stud farm for old Sam Riddle and her main care was Man O' War. Never saw any man knew more about hosses than she did.

"Joan Walsh works horses for her dad, Mickey, and Mrs. Harris Brown works them for her husband. Trains 'em, too. It takes plenty of strength and guts to handle some of those hard-headed hosses.

"Liz Whitney used to train 'em and ride 'em before she got so broad in the beam. Mary Hirsch—that's Max's daughter—used to work 'em for Max.

"And there was a Gal—Lila Phillips—used to work 'em for her dad. Believe she's out in Missouri now studying to be a vet.

We commented on the fact that the owners of some of the biggest stables of the turf are women.

"Sure," he agreed. "Why not? They got dough and some of them really know horses. Usually easy to work for, too."

Suddenly he threw back his head and roared. We asked him what he was laughing at and he said:

"Just happened to think about Elizabeth Arden Graham. That woman has had more than 30 different trainers. Won't let any boy whip her horses and she used to come out with some of her beauty salves to rub on the hosses' legs. But she has had some fine stock and her Jet Pilot won the Kentucky Derby a few years ago."

Moose To Practice

Loyal Order of Moose softball team of the Rocking Chair League will hold a practice session at Campobello at 5:30 today, Manager Jimmy Angellatta said last night.

Many women owners will be shooting for the Derby this year including Isabel Sloane, Mrs. Ada Rice, Mrs. C. S. Payson, Vera Bragg and Mrs. E Dupont Weir.

"But," said the ancient, "if Native Dancer stands up they ain't going to win it."

Sunday School Cage Series Resumes Today

St. Matthews of Cumberland and St. Paul's Lutheran of Frostburg will resume their best-of-three series for the Western Maryland Sunday School basketball championship tonight at Beall High School gym at 8 p.m.

St. Matthews, champions of the Cumberland Sunday School League, defeated St. Paul's, Frostburg's titlists, 66 to 49, in the opening match last week in Cumberland.

If a third and deciding game is necessary in event St. Paul's wins, the site and time of the contest will be decided after tonight's contest.

Banquet Scheduled

The Central Lunch Bowling banquet will be held Saturday, April 11, at Ali Ghan City Shrine Club at 7:15 p. m. Those expecting to attend who have not turned in their names may contact Elsie McKee, 5826-W.

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS)—This was at Jamaica and the ancient clocker and we stood along the rail watching the work-outs, and as always we were amazed that he could name every horse he saw, including the new two-year olds.

How could he identify them without colors or numbers. He grunted: "Same way you tell two different people apart. Faces, conformation, markings, way of moving all different. No two alike."

Suddenly he nudged us: "Look at that Skoal. He's getting ready to move." A little later he glanced at his stop watch and whistled.

"Colts' real sharp," he said. "Three panels in 34 flat. Watch him first time out."

(We remembered and last Saturday he romped home in the fifth—a six furlong dash—in 1:11 3/5 and paid $36.10).

We commented that we had seen a young woman training horses at Aqueduct track one day and he grinned: "Yep, know who you mean. Suzanne Zinser. College kid. Trains for the Kono Stable. Knows her stuff, too.

"Looks like the distaff side's taking over, don't it? But we've always had women in racing but not so many as now."

"Years ago Elizabeth Dangerfield used to manage the stud farm for old Sam Riddle and her main care was Man O' War. Never saw any man knew more about hosses than she did.

"Joan Walsh works horses for her dad, Mickey, and Mrs. Harris Brown works them for her husband. Trains 'em, too. It takes plenty of strength and guts to handle some of those hard-headed hosses.

"Liz Whitney used to train 'em and ride 'em before she got so broad in the beam. Mary Hirsch—that's Max's daughter—used to work 'em for Max.

"And there was a Gal—Lila Phillips—used to work 'em for her dad. Believe she's out in Missouri now studying to be a vet.

We commented on the fact that the owners of some of the biggest stables of the turf are women.

"Sure," he agreed. "Why not? They got dough and some of them really know horses. Usually easy to work for, too."

Suddenly he threw back his head and roared. We asked him what he was laughing at and he said:

"Just happened to think about Elizabeth Arden Graham. That woman has had more than 30 different trainers. Won't let any boy whip her horses and she used to come out with some of her beauty salves to rub on the hosses' legs. But she has had some fine stock and her Jet Pilot won the Kentucky Derby a few years ago."

Many women owners will be shooting for the Derby this year including Isabel Sloane, Mrs. Ada Rice, Mrs. C. S. Payson, Vera Bragg and Mrs. E Dupont Weir.

"But," said the ancient, "if Native Dancer stands up they ain't going to win it."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Stock Market will be able to absorb any sudden declaration of peace in the Far East and a lessening of the tension in Europe, Exchange officials declared confidently today.

It demonstrated its resiliency by a slight but significant rise Tuesday after last week's declines in the face of Russian peace overtures. Stocks concerned with National Defense and the rearmament program had dropped as much as $4 a share. In another generation there might have been panic in the making.

But there was no panic, nor do the men who know the market best believe there can be one even if peace rumors are replaced with positive cessation of hostilities and amicable accord.

One of them explained to me that this is true because the only resemblance between the Wall Street of an era of boom and the big bust, and the Wall Street of today, is Gen. G. Washington's statue and Trinity Church's graveyard.

The market collapsed during the term of Mr. Hoover, he pointed out, not because of Mr. Hoover but simply because we were a nation living on credit, extended and overextended to a degree wherein true values were warped as completely out of line as the dreams of splendid cities rising from the undeveloped Florida bogs.

The market failed to take into consideration this over-expansion of credit, and went that fatality one better by over-expanding the over-expansion.

The mob psychology that inflated the market before the crash reacted just as violently when the blow struck. The frantic flight of amateurs and semi-pros who were buying stocks on ten and 15 per cent margin cause the earth to shake.

Today's market is essentially an investment pool rather than a speculative device. The Federal Reserve Board requires a 50 per cent margin from investors. The market, in turn, has not kept up with the devaluation of the dollar. In essence it is perhaps sounder than the dollar, a fact that will enable it to cushion itself against any abrupt change in the volume and nature of government spending.

The sales in the face of the first peace overtures were the most vigorous since the outbreak of the war in Korea. But it is the general consensus in Wall Street that, in a slap-happier day, they might have started an avalanche. Last week they only rippled the surface.

The feeling is that complete peace and vigorous disarmament are next to impossible in the world today. Therefore, we will continue to operate on what amounts to a war economy. Though it has been called different names since March 4, 1933, it is essentially war economy. Millions of new jobs, expanded payrolls, bigger and better luxuries, greater and greater taxes.

The economic era began with a massive public works and leaf-raking of the early days of the New Deal, went into high gear with Lend-Lease, went all out during our part in World War II, kept the pressure up with the Marshall Plan and Point Four programs, and the Korean War and rearmament came along to give new impetus to endless period of emergency.

Administration leaders have issued blunt directives to the effect that there must be no relaxing of our determination to rearm ourselves with the most modern weapons of war, even if the Iron Curtain is suddenly lowered and great flocks of doves, all hearing an olive branch, swarm out of the lands of the enemy. "War" stocks should therefore continue healthy.

The market will "take" peace also, in the opinion of its regulars, because its investors are more intelligent today than they were in the Golden Twenties. There are more of them, they are protected by a series of Federal-imposed and self-imposed checks and balances, and they can no longer be prey to the manipulations of a few ruthless traders who once controlled their investment destinies.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Stock Market will be able to absorb any sudden declaration of peace in the Far East and a lessening of the tension in Europe, Exchange officials declared confidently today.

It demonstrated its resiliency by a slight but significant rise Tuesday after last week's declines in the face of Russian peace overtures. Stocks concerned with National Defense and the rearmament program had dropped as much as $4 a share. In another generation there might have been panic in the making.

But there was no panic, nor do the men who know the market best believe there can be one even if peace rumors are replaced with positive cessation of hostilities and amicable accord.

One of them explained to me that this is true because the only resemblance between the Wall Street of an era of boom and the big bust, and the Wall Street of today, is Gen. G. Washington's statue and Trinity Church's graveyard.

The market collapsed during the term of Mr. Hoover, he pointed out, not because of Mr. Hoover but simply because we were a nation living on credit, extended and overextended to a degree wherein true values were warped as completely out of line as the dreams of splendid cities rising from the undeveloped Florida bogs.

The market failed to take into consideration this over-expansion of credit, and went that fatality one better by over-expanding the over-expansion.

The mob psychology that inflated the market before the crash reacted just as violently when the blow struck. The frantic flight of amateurs and semi-pros who were buying stocks on ten and 15 per cent margin cause the earth to shake.

Today's market is essentially an investment pool rather than a speculative device. The Federal Reserve Board requires a 50 per cent margin from investors. The market, in turn, has not kept up with the devaluation of the dollar. In essence it is perhaps sounder than the dollar, a fact that will enable it to cushion itself against any abrupt change in the volume and nature of government spending.

The sales in the face of the first peace overtures were the most vigorous since the outbreak of the war in Korea. But it is the general consensus in Wall Street that, in a slap-happier day, they might have started an avalanche. Last week they only rippled the surface.

The feeling is that complete peace and vigorous disarmament are next to impossible in the world today. Therefore, we will continue to operate on what amounts to a war economy. Though it has been called different names since March 4, 1933, it is essentially war economy. Millions of new jobs, expanded payrolls, bigger and better luxuries, greater and greater taxes.

The economic era began with a massive public works and leaf-raking of the early days of the New Deal, went into high gear with Lend-Lease, went all out during our part in World War II, kept the pressure up with the Marshall Plan and Point Four programs, and the Korean War and rearmament came along to give new impetus to endless period of emergency.

Administration leaders have issued blunt directives to the effect that there must be no relaxing of our determination to rearm ourselves with the most modern weapons of war, even if the Iron Curtain is suddenly lowered and great flocks of doves, all hearing an olive branch, swarm out of the lands of the enemy. "War" stocks should therefore continue healthy.

The market will "take" peace also, in the opinion of its regulars, because its investors are more intelligent today than they were in the Golden Twenties. There are more of them, they are protected by a series of Federal-imposed and self-imposed checks and balances, and they can no longer be prey to the manipulations of a few ruthless traders who once controlled their investment destinies.

Hardy County Will Vote On School Levy

Special Election Set For April 17

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.— Raymond Dispanet, county superintendent of schools, has released plans for the extension of a three-year levy which will be presented to the voters of Hardy County at a special election April 17.

If the levy is passed by the voters, the Board of Education has outlined the following use of the funds:

Wardensville 12-year school, 334 pupils ($12,500)—To make possible facilities for home economics, improved music program, improved Vo-Ag and shop program, and reduce operating and maintenance cost by enlarging and improving vocational building to house all activities except those in main building. Old buildings would be sold or used to supplement the allotment.

Mathias 12-year School, 319 pupils ($12,500) to make possible facilities for home economics, improved music program, improved Vo-Ag and shop program and improve lunch facilities; by improving and enlarging vocational building.

Moorefield High School, 444 pupils ($12,500)—To make possible facilities for music and other academic classes, and improve gym facilities. Vocational building would be enlarged to provide the extra classroom space.

Sanders 12-Year School, 125 pupils ($10,000)—To provide facilities for home economics, music and other academic classes, as as well as physical education and assembly facilities, by adding an all-purpose room to building.

Moorefield Graded School, 319 pupils ($20,000) — To provide adequate classroom space, physical education, music and other program improvements, as well as to finish necessary repairs. This is to be done by an addition to north end of building which would consist of an all-purpose room and two regular classrooms. This is Hardy County's most serious problem as far as graded schools are concerned.

All other schools, 822 pupils, ($12,500)—to guarantee each one, two, and three-room schools at least $300 per classroom for the improvements most needed. Additional needs are lighting, safety precautions required by the state fire marshall, equipment, teaching aids, grounds improvement, water supply, toilet improvement, further repair, etc.

Equalization ($10,000)—to supplement allotment of any or all schools, according to greatest need.

Masons Planning Meeting Today

FROSTBURG — A special program will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at the regular meeting of Mt. Lodge No. 99, A.F. and A.M.

The entertainment committee, headed by Earl F. Brain, will be in charge. All members are asked to be present.

Square Circle Meets Today

FROSTBURG — The Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the club house.

Game law changes will be discussed and a report will be submitted by Charles Porter, chairman of the game stocking committee. He has been assisted by Dale Arner, game technician, and Joseph Minke, regional game warden, in releasing ring neck pheasants and wild turkeys in this vicinity last week.

Following the business meeting, refreshments will be served. Members of the association have been cooperating with Mrs. Marshall Porter, chairman of the Eckhart Memorial Committee of the Eckhart Homemakers Club, in planting evergreen trees on the Eckhart school yard. The trees were taken from the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. George Walters.

Rosebushes for the landscaping project were furnished by Mrs. Charles Harvey, and barberry hedge plants by Mrs. Markle Robertson. The use of a truck was donated by Mrs. Porter.

Church Group Plans Supper

FROSTBURG — A ham supper, sponsored by the Churchmen's Brotherhood of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, will be served in the church dining room today at 5 until all guests have been served.

This is an annual spring event of the men's organization of the church, although a different menu is served each year.

All benefits derived from these suppers are used for the Church Improvement Fund or for projects undertaken by the Brotherhood.

Recently they built and donated to the church, 12 tables for the use of the Church School and Dining Room. At present the basement beneath the sanctuary of the church is being excavated for additional storage room.

President James Brode has appointed George Ewing, G. Franklin Martens and Robert N. Wilson to the committee in charge of menu and arrangements for the supper, and Leroy Himmelwright in charge of tickets and publicity.

Hardy County Will Vote On School Levy

Special Election Set For April 17

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.— Raymond Dispanet, county superintendent of schools, has released plans for the extension of a three-year levy which will be presented to the voters of Hardy County at a special election April 17.

If the levy is passed by the voters, the Board of Education has outlined the following use of the funds:

Wardensville 12-year school, 334 pupils ($12,500)—To make possible facilities for home economics, improved music program, improved Vo-Ag and shop program, and reduce operating and maintenance cost by enlarging and improving vocational building to house all activities except those in main building. Old buildings would be sold or used to supplement the allotment.

Mathias 12-year School, 319 pupils ($12,500) to make possible facilities for home economics, improved music program, improved Vo-Ag and shop program and improve lunch facilities; by improving and enlarging vocational building.

Moorefield High School, 444 pupils ($12,500)—To make possible facilities for music and other academic classes, and improve gym facilities. Vocational building would be enlarged to provide the extra classroom space.

Sanders 12-Year School, 125 pupils ($10,000)—To provide facilities for home economics, music and other academic classes, as as well as physical education and assembly facilities, by adding an all-purpose room to building.

Moorefield Graded School, 319 pupils ($20,000) — To provide adequate classroom space, physical education, music and other program improvements, as well as to finish necessary repairs. This is to be done by an addition to north end of building which would consist of an all-purpose room and two regular classrooms. This is Hardy County's most serious problem as far as graded schools are concerned.

All other schools, 822 pupils, ($12,500)—to guarantee each one, two, and three-room schools at least $300 per classroom for the improvements most needed. Additional needs are lighting, safety precautions required by the state fire marshall, equipment, teaching aids, grounds improvement, water supply, toilet improvement, further repair, etc.

Equalization ($10,000)—to supplement allotment of any or all schools, according to greatest need.

Masons Planning Meeting Today

FROSTBURG — A special program will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at the regular meeting of Mt. Lodge No. 99, A.F. and A.M.

The entertainment committee, headed by Earl F. Brain, will be in charge. All members are asked to be present.

Square Circle Meets Today

FROSTBURG — The Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the club house.

Game law changes will be discussed and a report will be submitted by Charles Porter, chairman of the game stocking committee. He has been assisted by Dale Arner, game technician, and Joseph Minke, regional game warden, in releasing ring neck pheasants and wild turkeys in this vicinity last week.

Following the business meeting, refreshments will be served. Members of the association have been cooperating with Mrs. Marshall Porter, chairman of the Eckhart Memorial Committee of the Eckhart Homemakers Club, in planting evergreen trees on the Eckhart school yard. The trees were taken from the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. George Walters.

Rosebushes for the landscaping project were furnished by Mrs. Charles Harvey, and barberry hedge plants by Mrs. Markle Robertson. The use of a truck was donated by Mrs. Porter.

Church Group Plans Supper

FROSTBURG — A ham supper, sponsored by the Churchmen's Brotherhood of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, will be served in the church dining room today at 5 until all guests have been served.

This is an annual spring event of the men's organization of the church, although a different menu is served each year.

All benefits derived from these suppers are used for the Church Improvement Fund or for projects undertaken by the Brotherhood.

Recently they built and donated to the church, 12 tables for the use of the Church School and Dining Room. At present the basement beneath the sanctuary of the church is being excavated for additional storage room.

President James Brode has appointed George Ewing, G. Franklin Martens and Robert N. Wilson to the committee in charge of menu and arrangements for the supper, and Leroy Himmelwright in charge of tickets and publicity.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (INS) — The complaint has always been that Tony Martin's magnetism and sex appeal does not come through on the screen.

Well, Joe Pasternak believes no one can ever say that again after "Easy To Love," which Tony is making with Esther Williams. It's the best thing he's ever done and all the charm he has in real life is right there in motion pictures.

So, Joe has bought "Serenade in The Night" for Tony, which will be made next December. It's a musical, and, of course, Tony will sing.

I met Leonard Goldstein in Palm Springs and greeted him with my usual salutation, "What's New?"

Then Leonard told me that his brother, Bob Goldstein, has signed Scott Brady for "They Walk at Dawn." This is to be made in London and Scott leaves over the weekend to start the picture.

An English actress will be selected to co-star with Scott, and I am very glad he has this job. I don't think he has been too happy since he left Universal-International.

I certainly wish Sidney Sheldon luck. He's trying to get Shirley Temple for a Broadway musical version of his Academy winning "The Bachelor and The Bobby-Soxer." Remember Shirley and Cary Grant were so wonderful in the comedy-drama?

Shirley says she is no longer interested in a career. But I doubt if any actress ever really gets show business out of her system, although, of course, Shirley could be the exception.

With Elizabeth Taylor, who is so much younger than Vivien Leigh, in the cast of "Elephant Walk," the story has been changed.

The Hawaiian dancer, Mylee Haulani, who was originally the third side of the love triangle in the plot with Dana Andrews and Vivien, will do only her dance sequences filmed in Ceylon.

Irving Asher tells me he believes it will be a long time before Vivien Leigh is well. She had to take so many sedatives to quiet her on the way back to London that she almost died. The reason Laurence Olivier went on to Rome to finish his vacation is because the doctors told him it would be the worst thing in the world for Vivien to see him.

Attorney Jerry Geisler bowed out of the John Wayne divorce case as of today and no longer represents Chata. She has retained Jerry Rosenthal.

John, himself, told me that he has offered his wife every "reasonable" property settlement and she had turned them all down. Guess Jerry got tired of Chata changing her mind. She is still in St. Joseph's Hospital—but minus nurses.

Marie Windsor is dividing her time between Gig Young and Ed Burnside. She was at the Thistle Inn with Gig a few nights ago.

Joan Blondell's newest romance is Ted Lewis—not the band leader, but a tycoon who owns forty-five department stores. This must mean she and Nicky Darvas are Pfft!

Jane Wyman telephoned to say hello. She finished her picture at Warners, and she and Freddie Karger are going to the Perlbergs over the weekend.

Congratulations to Dr. Mario Ungaro, who has been appointed Italian Consul. He was formerly Vice Consul. There's a plan to build up the Italian Consulate.

Wait until Anna Maria Alberghetti's papa hears that she may have to wear black tights in her next picture. He won't even let her use lipstick.

Ray Ryan, vice-president of the El Mirador Hotel, has been named sheriff of the Kangaroo Court on Circus Day, in Palm Springs which is an annual affair.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Census Shows 11,596 Homes Are Located In Cumberland

Cumberland is a city of 11,596 dwelling units, according to the 1950 report of the U. S. Census of Housing, just released.

The median number of rooms for these homes is 5.2 with 11,348 of the units occupied. For rent or sale and vacant at the time of the survey are 1.2 per cent of the total.

Only 2.1 per cent are occupied by non-white families, the third lowest percentage in the state for cities.

Forty-six per cent are occupied by their owners; 67.1 per cent have central heating plants, and 87.7 per cent have mechanical refrigerators.

Five per cent of the dwelling units in the city have been built since 1940, the survey revealed.

With hot running water, private toilet, and bath and not in a dilapidated condition are 74.9 per cent.

The median number of persons residing in houses here is three persons. With two or more persons per room are 10.5 per cent.

Nearly 40 per cent of the homes are mortgaged while the median value of all the homes being $6,508. Those rented homes contracted for rent brings a median amount of $31.63. Gross rent median is $38.47.

Of the 11,385 occupied homes, 7,715 were built before 1919. From 1920 to 1930 there were 2,265 erected; from 1930 to 1939, there were 815 constructed; from 1940 to 1944, there were 274 and 1945 and later, 315.

There were 7,595, with central heating. Of this total, 4,190 had piped steam or hot water while 3,405 had hot air.

Methodist Men Plan Annual Ladies' Night

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (INS) — The complaint has always been that Tony Martin's magnetism and sex appeal does not come through on the screen.

Well, Joe Pasternak believes no one can ever say that again after "Easy To Love," which Tony is making with Esther Williams. It's the best thing he's ever done and all the charm he has in real life is right there in motion pictures.

So, Joe has bought "Serenade in The Night" for Tony, which will be made next December. It's a musical, and, of course, Tony will sing.

I met Leonard Goldstein in Palm Springs and greeted him with my usual salutation, "What's New?"

Then Leonard told me that his brother, Bob Goldstein, has signed Scott Brady for "They Walk at Dawn." This is to be made in London and Scott leaves over the weekend to start the picture.

An English actress will be selected to co-star with Scott, and I am very glad he has this job. I don't think he has been too happy since he left Universal-International.

I certainly wish Sidney Sheldon luck. He's trying to get Shirley Temple for a Broadway musical version of his Academy winning "The Bachelor and The Bobby-Soxer." Remember Shirley and Cary Grant were so wonderful in the comedy-drama?

Shirley says she is no longer interested in a career. But I doubt if any actress ever really gets show business out of her system, although, of course, Shirley could be the exception.

With Elizabeth Taylor, who is so much younger than Vivien Leigh, in the cast of "Elephant Walk," the story has been changed.

The Hawaiian dancer, Mylee Haulani, who was originally the third side of the love triangle in the plot with Dana Andrews and Vivien, will do only her dance sequences filmed in Ceylon.

Irving Asher tells me he believes it will be a long time before Vivien Leigh is well. She had to take so many sedatives to quiet her on the way back to London that she almost died. The reason Laurence Olivier went on to Rome to finish his vacation is because the doctors told him it would be the worst thing in the world for Vivien to see him.

Attorney Jerry Geisler bowed out of the John Wayne divorce case as of today and no longer represents Chata. She has retained Jerry Rosenthal.

John, himself, told me that he has offered his wife every "reasonable" property settlement and she had turned them all down. Guess Jerry got tired of Chata changing her mind. She is still in St. Joseph's Hospital—but minus nurses.

Joan Blondell's newest romance is Ted Lewis—not the band leader, but a tycoon who owns forty-five department stores. This must mean she and Nicky Darvas are Pfft!

Jane Wyman telephoned to say hello. She finished her picture at Warners, and she and Freddie Karger are going to the Perlbergs over the weekend.

Congratulations to Dr. Mario Ungaro, who has been appointed Italian Consul. He was formerly Vice Consul. There's a plan to build up the Italian Consulate.

Wait until Anna Maria Alberghetti's papa hears that she may have to wear black tights in her next picture. He won't even let her use lipstick.

Ray Ryan, vice-president of the El Mirador Hotel, has been named sheriff of the Kangaroo Court on Circus Day, in Palm Springs which is an annual affair.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Cumberland is a city of 11,596 dwelling units, according to the 1950 report of the U. S. Census of Housing, just released.

The median number of rooms for these homes is 5.2 with 11,348 of the units occupied. For rent or sale and vacant at the time of the survey are 1.2 per cent of the total.

Only 2.1 per cent are occupied by non-white families, the third lowest percentage in the state for cities.

Forty-six per cent are occupied by their owners; 67.1 per cent have central heating plants, and 87.7 per cent have mechanical refrigerators.

Five per cent of the dwelling units in the city have been built since 1940, the survey revealed.

With hot running water, private toilet, and bath and not in a dilapidated condition are 74.9 per cent.

The median number of persons residing in houses here is three persons. With two or more persons per room are 10.5 per cent.

Nearly 40 per cent of the homes are mortgaged while the median value of all the homes being $6,508. Those rented homes contracted for rent brings a median amount of $31.63. Gross rent median is $38.47.

Of the 11,385 occupied homes, 7,715 were built before 1919. From 1920 to 1930 there were 2,265 erected; from 1930 to 1939, there were 815 constructed; from 1940 to 1944, there were 274 and 1945 and later, 315.

There were 7,595, with central heating. Of this total, 4,190 had piped steam or hot water while 3,405 had hot air.

Daily Bridge Lesson

REMEMBER EVERY BID

IT PAYS sometimes to review the entire bidding—as you have a right to do at any time prior to the opening lead—if there is any chance you have forgotten just how it went. For many different possible reasons, it may prove vital, late in the auction, to recall just exactly what some particular player bid, your partner or one of the opponents. Any one of the bids may prove the key to preventing the loss of a basketful of points.

East was smart enough to hold his mouth shut and refrain from doubling that contract, keeping his concealed weapon of five hearts hidden. By means of it, he beat the contract two tricks, when it happened that 7-No Trumps would have been a laydown, with the club K caught in the jaws of South's tenace.

"I was surprised when you laid down your hand and showed only three hearts," said North. "You must have had a pretty good opinion of my ability to play a hand, also of my luck. The No Trump grand slam would have been easy, with the club finesse working. What on earth caused you to prefer hearts?"

"You know I figure you a much better player of the cards than myself," said South. "I chose hearts because I preferred to have you be the declarer."

"Didn't you recall that I was the first one of us to bid No Trumps?" asked North.

"By golly, that's right," ejaculated South. "You did bid 2-No Trumps on your second turn. I had forgotten all about that, and for the moment was under the impression that my Blackwood 4-No Trumps was the first time either of us had called No Trumps."

"It was all my fault," South then concluded. "Hereafter I must try harder to remember every bid anyone made—which I ought to do anyway."

After North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 3-Spades, what should South bid?

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

ONE HAND ALTERS OTHER

WHETHER your hand is a big one or a little one is a question that can not be answered accurately by merely looking at it. You have to consider also what is opposite it, and to either side of it. For instance, a holding of four ace-queens may shrink terrifically if your partner has neither honor strength nor appreciable suit-length. Conversely, one with nothing but a long suit and a couple of secondary honors may grow from insignificance to power if a mighty holding is indicated across the table.

	♠ A Q J 8 ♥ A J 6 ♦ A J 8 ♣ A Q 4
♠ K 6 5 3 ♥ 8 5 ♦ Q 6 5 ♣ J 10 9 5	N W E S	♠ 10 9 4 ♥ Q 2 ♦ K 7 3 2 ♣ 7 6 3 2

3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥

North and South were pretty sad people after the club J lead was followed by South taking all thirteen tricks through the success of the spade finesse. Small slam would have been virtually airtight even if the finesse failed, and would have been an extremely conservative contract.

Why did the pair fail to reach a small slam? Whose fault was it?

Let's look at the situation first from North's standpoint. He had made a thoroughly sound opening bid of 2-No Trumps, on the probabilities. South's 3-Hearts bid was neither definitely encouraging nor discouraging, since you probably never would see the maker of a 2-No Trumps opening pass that. For such a call, South might have a strong hand or a weak one, with just a bit of suit-length to indicate he feared a No Trump contract, but could do his share at the suit. But his second bid was a definite disclaimer of any honor strength. He might have only five hearts to the Q, or perhaps six of lower rank. North therefore dropped it.

The failure to reach slam was definitely South's fault. To show he had something of value, he should have bid 6-hearts on his second turn, or at least five, which invitation would have been carried to six by North. Those two kings and the six-card length made South's hand a big one opposite what North had shown.

	♠ 6 3 ♥ A K Q J 10 4 3 ♦ 10 7 2 ♣ 6

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Following North's 2-Spades, East's 3-Clubs, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Diamonds, what would you consider the soundest bidding the rest of the way?

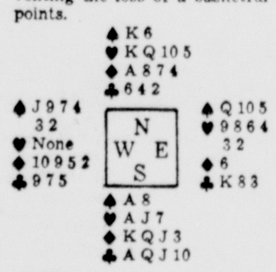
Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

REMEMBER EVERY BID

IT PAYS sometimes to review the entire bidding—as you have a right to do at any time prior to the opening lead—if there is any chance you have forgotten just how it went. For many different possible reasons, it may prove vital, late in the auction, to recall just exactly what some particular player bid, your partner or one of the opponents. Any one of the bids may prove the key to preventing the loss of a basketful of points.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

6 ♥	Pass	7 ♥

East was smart enough to hold his mouth shut and refrain from doubling that contract, keeping his concealed weapon of five hearts hidden. By means of it, he beat the contract two tricks, when it happened that 7-No Trumps would have been a laydown, with the club K caught in the jaws of South's tenace.

"I was surprised when you laid down your hand and showed only three hearts," said North. "You must have had a pretty good opinion of my ability to play a hand, also of my luck. The No Trump grand slam would have been easy, with the club finesse working. What on earth caused you to prefer hearts?"

"You know I figure you a much better player of the cards than myself," said South. "I chose hearts because I preferred to have you be the declarer."

"Didn't you recall that I was the first one of us to bid No Trumps?" asked North.

"By golly, that's right," ejaculated South. "You did bid 2-No Trumps on your second turn. I had forgotten all about that, and for the moment was under the impression that my Blackwood 4-No Trumps was the first time either of us had called No Trumps."

"It was all my fault," South then concluded. "Hereafter I must try harder to remember every bid anyone made—which I ought to do anyway."

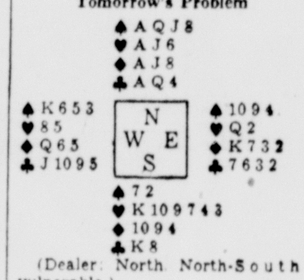
Tomorrow's Problem



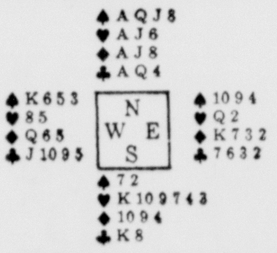
(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

After North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 3-Spades, what should South bid?

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

ONE HAND ALTERS OTHER

WHETHER your hand is a big one or a little one is a question that can not be answered accurately by merely looking at it. You have to consider also what is opposite it, and to either side of it. For instance, a holding of four ace-queens may shrink terrifically if your partner has neither honor strength nor appreciable suit-length. Conversely, one with nothing but a long suit and a couple of secondary honors may grow from insignificance to power if a mighty holding is indicated across the table.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
2 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥

North and South were pretty sad people after the club J lead was followed by South taking all thirteen tricks through the success of the spade finesse. Small slam would have been virtually airtight even if the finesse failed, and would have been an extremely conservative contract.

Why did the pair fail to reach a small slam? Whose fault was it?

Let's look at the situation first from North's standpoint. He had made a thoroughly sound opening bid of 2-No Trumps, on the probabilities. South's 3-Hearts bid was neither definitely encouraging nor discouraging, since you probably never would see the maker of a 2-No Trumps opening pass that. For such a call, South might have a strong hand or a weak one, with just a bit of suit-length to indicate he feared a No Trump contract, but could do his share at the suit. But his second bid was a definite disclaimer of any honor strength. He might have only five hearts to the Q, or perhaps six of lower rank. North therefore dropped it.

The failure to reach slam was definitely South's fault. To show he had something of value, he should have bid 6-hearts on his second turn, or at least five, which invitation would have been carried to six by North. Those two kings and the six-card length made South's hand a big one opposite what North had shown.

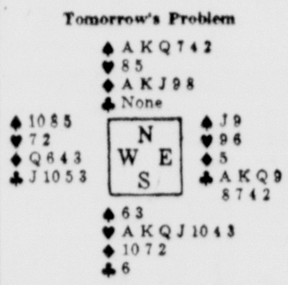
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Following North's 2-Spades, East's 3-Clubs, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Diamonds, what would you consider the soundest bidding the rest of the way?

600 Feet Of Road Will Be Raised To Aid Flood Work

The E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago will begin in the next week to raise a section of Route 40 from the Narrows Bridge to the Esso Bulk Plant in the Narrows.

At one spot the highway will be raised over six feet, according to Rex E. Dexter, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers.

This will be done to bring the road to the same height as the dike constructed in Wills Creek as part of the paving of the creek bed's channel.

One-Way Traffic

The contractor will do one side at a time, with traffic being one-way. The existing paving will be removed and the highway filled in with compacted material until it is in alignment with the top of the dike. The paving will be replaced and the road finished in accordance with State Roads Commission specifications.

The affected stretch of Route 40 will go from the center of the bridge west 600 feet to a point opposite the bulk plant.

Relocating Sewer

Dexter explained that when the contractor is ready to pour the concrete, Wills Creek rises over the dikes constructed around the footer and delays the work. The extension will take 85 cubic yards of concrete.

A 12-inch sanitary sewer is being relocated on the west side of the creek with the new piping being placed under the Western Maryland Railway tracks.

The contractor will drive a row of steel sheet piling along Wills Creek below City Junction Bridge for protection to North Mechanic Street property owners during channel paving work. These will be removed when the paving is completed.

At the beginning of 1951 a total of 6,500 electric trolley coaches was being operated on 42 United States transit systems.

CITY OF CUMBERLAND
LICENSE NOTICE

CITY LICENSES ARE DUE MAY 1, 1953

Any person, persons, firm or corporation doing business without such license as required by City Ordinances No. 1814 and No. 1866 is subject to a fine of $5.00 to $100.00.

Among those required to take out City of Cumberland Licenses are those engaged in the conduct of the following businesses, occupations or operations:

For advertising a retail sale of any goods, wares or merchandise immediately imported while said sale is being conducted and advertised as "removal sale", "fire sale", "inventory", "closing-out sale", "reduction of stock sale", "damaged goods sale", "salvage sale", "bankrupt sale", or "receivership sale", or any other sales similar in character; Distributors of handbills for commercial purposes; To set up a temporary place of business for the sale of any goods, wares or merchandise, either wholesale or retail; To operate any open-air Commercial parking lot; To operate any shooting gallery; To engage in the business of pawnbroker; To buy and/or sell second-hand goods; To buy and/or sell scrap metals, including the purchase of second-hand motor vehicles and the wrecking thereof, and rubber; To act as a clairvoyant or palmist, fortune teller, phrenologist or similar business and make a charge for the same, or to sell books pertaining to any of said things and demonstrate the application thereof; To operate any sound truck; To operate any hotel which is UNLICENSED UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT PERTAINING TO INTOXICATING BEVERAGES; To set up for public operation for the entertainment, skill or amusement of the player, any pinball machine or similar device operated by the insertion of a coin therein and not vending any moneys, wares or merchandise; For transient or itinerant businesses or occupations; and selling from a wagon or vehicle at retail and/or wholesale fresh fruits, vegetables or other farm produce.

POOL ROOM LICENSES shall be applied for on or before April 15, 1953 as provided in Ordinance No. 1916 of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland. This Ordinance carries a penalty of $25.00 to $100.00 for operating a Pool Room without having first obtained said license.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—With very little fanfare, the Stock Market advanced today for the second straight session.

The swing ahead represented a fairly good recovery from the bottom of the sharp tumble the market took when the Communists first proposed a prisoner of war exchange a week and a half ago.

The combined gain for the past two days, however, doesn't equal the severe loss suffered Monday, the worst day of the current decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 80 cents and closed at $110.20. The gain of the previous day was 70 cents, but on Monday the loss came to $2.60, heaviest since the week the Korean War started in June of 1950.

The industrial component of the average was up $1.00, the railroads were up 50 cents, and utilities up 70 cents.

The market was narrower than yesterday with 1,186 individual issues on the list against 1,205 on Tuesday. But the number of plus signs at 725 was the best in around six weeks. There were only 218 minus signs. Ten new highs for the year were scored during the session and 42 new lows were recorded.

Volume came to 1,860,000 shares, compared with two and a half million shares traded yesterday and better than three million shares Monday.

Pepsi-Cola topped the list of 10 most active issues up ¼ at 13¾ with 38,800 shares traded. Other soft drink issues were lightly traded but they all advanced including Coca Cola up 1½ at 117½, Canada Dry up ⅜ at 12⅜, Dr. Pepper up ¼ at 12¼, and Hires up ¼ at 11¼.

Pepsi was followed in the most active list by Pacific Western Oil up 2⅝ at 42½, Panhandle Oil unchanged at 9¼, Southern Pacific up ⅞ at 45⅝ and Libby, McNeil & Libby up ¼ at 9⅜.

Among other gainers were Southern Railway up 1⅛ at 85⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) ¼ at 70⅞, Warner Bros. 1 at 16⅜, Johnsmanville 1¼ at 71, American Telephone ⅝ at 155⅝, Western Union 1⅛ at 41⅛ (the company estimated earnings this year are running about 75 per cent ahead of a year ago), Patino Mines 1½ at 8⅜, Union Carbide ½ at 67½, Westinghouse Electric ⅞ at 45½, General Electric ⅞ at 69⅛, American Tobacco 1 at 70½, U. S. Steel ½ at 39⅛, General Motors 1⅜ at 62, Chrysler ¾ at 80⅝, Willys-Overland ¼ at 15, Boeing ⅝ at 40⅞, and Radio Corp. ½ at 26½.

The bond market followed a steady course, awaiting a treasury announcement of its financing plans. It came shortly after the close of securities markets.

The government said it expects to raise about one billion dollars of new money by offering a 3¼ per cent 30-year bond which is fully marketable on April 13.

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland will meet in the City Hall, Cumberland, Thursday evening, April 9, 1953, at 8:00 P. M., to hear the following appeal:

Graham Gray, who has made application to occupy premises situate at Rear 132 Polk Street for the manufacture of hair tonic, said premises being situate in Residential "C" Zoning District.

At the same time and place, any person may appear and testify to the use of the said premises or object to the issuance of said occupancy permit.

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—With very little fanfare, the Stock Market advanced today for the second straight session.

The swing ahead represented a fairly good recovery from the bottom of the sharp tumble the market took when the Communists first proposed a prisoner of war exchange a week and a half ago.

The combined gain for the past two days, however, doesn't equal the severe loss suffered Monday, the worst day of the current decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 80 cents and closed at $110.20. The gain of the previous day was 70 cents, but on Monday the loss came to $2.60, heaviest since the week the Korean War started in June of 1950.

The industrial component of the average was up $1.00, the railroads were up 50 cents, and utilities up 70 cents.

The market was narrower than yesterday with 1,186 individual issues on the list against 1,205 on Tuesday. But the number of plus signs at 725 was the best in around six weeks. There were only 218 minus signs. Ten new highs for the year were scored during the session and 42 new lows were recorded.

Volume came to 1,860,000 shares, compared with two and a half million shares traded yesterday and better than three million shares Monday.

Pepsi-Cola topped the list of 10 most active issues up ¼ at 13¾ with 38,800 shares traded. Other soft drink issues were lightly traded but they all advanced including Coca Cola up 1½ at 117½, Canada Dry up ⅜ at 12⅜, Dr. Pepper up ¼ at 12¼, and Hires up ¼ at 11¼.

Pepsi was followed in the most active list by Pacific Western Oil up 2⅝ at 42½, Panhandle Oil unchanged at 9¼, Southern Pacific up ⅞ at 45⅝ and Libby, McNeil & Libby up ¼ at 9⅜.

Among other gainers were Southern Railway up 1⅛ at 85⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) ¼ at 70⅞, Warner Bros. 1 at 16⅜, Johnsmanville 1¼ at 71, American Telephone ⅝ at 155⅝, Western Union 1⅛ at 41⅛ (the company estimated earnings this year are running about 75 per cent ahead of a year ago), Patino Mines 1½ at 8⅜, Union Carbide ½ at 67½, Westinghouse Electric ⅞ at 45½, General Electric ⅞ at 69⅛, American Tobacco 1 at 70½, U. S. Steel ½ at 39⅛, General Motors 1⅜ at 62, Chrysler ¾ at 80⅝, Willys-Overland ¼ at 15, Boeing ⅝ at 40⅞, and Radio Corp. ½ at 26½.

The bond market followed a steady course, awaiting a treasury announcement of its financing plans. It came shortly after the close of securities markets.

The government said it expects to raise about one billion dollars of new money by offering a 3¼ per cent 30-year bond which is fully marketable on April 13.

Guard Companies To Bivouac For Annual Firing

Will Set Up Field Camp Near Pinto

Headquarters and C Companies, of Cumberland, and D Company, of Frostburg, Maryland National Guard, will bivouac at the area units' firing range near Pinto the weekends of April 25 and 26 and May 2 and 3.

The purpose of the two overnight bivouacs is the Guardsmen's annual field firing. Members of the three local units will fire to qualify for three ratings in handling the .30 caliber M-1 rifle, the carbine rifle and the pistol.

Guardsmen will fire to meet qualifications for medals of Expert, Sharpshooter and Marksman. They are required to fire every year to meet qualifications.

Extra Pay

In addition the State of Maryland will issue special pay to guardsmen qualifying for the medals. Pay allotted is 20 per cent of base pay additional for Expert, 15 per cent for Sharpshooter and 10 per cent for Marksman.

Firing the bivouac will be under the supervision of Col. Randolph Milholland, regimental commander, and his staff, and Major Robert C. Matlick, battalion commander, and his staff.

Camping will operate under strict field conditions, and a field mess kitchen will be set up along with tents. Mess will be served on a battalion level.

Firing will take place at the new firing range constructed last year by area Guardsmen on a field near Barton's Dairy and the Allegany Beagle Club near Pinto. Both organizations donated the land to the Guard units for use as a firing range and camping.

New Enlistments

Guard officials said the range meets every military regulation for safety and compares with ranges of its type in military posts such as those used at Fort Meade and Camp Lee, Va.

Capt. Ralph Ballin will be physician during the weekends, and each unit will have with them their unit first aid men.

Officials announced yesterday that five men enlisted in the local units this week.

They are John Edward Roby, 306 Crawford Street, who was enlisted as a Staff Sergeant, a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict; and Steven Eugene Thompson, 501 Springdale Street; John Edward Yost, Jr., Bedford, Pa.; Ernest Leroy Davis, Jr., Oldtown, and Melvin Vernon VanMeter, Oldtown, all enlisted as privates.

Welcomed To City

Salvation Army Workers Will Assume Duties Here

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Two workers of the Salvation Army have been transferred here and will take charge of the South Cumberland Corps on Virginia Avenue.

Lt. Harry Powell, 26, a resident of Salisbury, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, will direct religious and recreational activities in South Cumberland.

He will be assisted by C. L. Starkey, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Both men arrived in Cumberland last night and were briefed by Captain Biggs.

Will Assist Biggs

The transfer was made through Division Headquarters in Baltimore. Captain Biggs said he will continue to be in charge of Community Chest affairs and other public relation policy in the city and will be assisted by the two men.

Lt. Powell, who comes here from Parkersburg, where he was assistant to Capt. Burl D. Wyatt for 10 months as Young Peoples Officer, graduated from Southern Training College in Atlanta, Ga. This is his second appointment and in May he will complete his probationary period.

He has been affiliated with the Salvation Army for the past 17 years and while in Salisbury where he graduated from high school, he served as secretary of the Young People's Legion and did other office work.

World War II Vet

During World War II, Lt. Powell served with the Medical Corps in the U. S. Army and saw service in the Philippine Islands. He is a son of Mrs. Ida Powell of Salisbury.

Mr. Starkey, 25, a native of Clarksburg, has been affiliated with the Salvation Army since 1939 in that city and since 1949 has worked as a soldier in the Corps.

For four months he was in charge of Chestnut Street Outpost, and prior to coming here he worked at the Citadel in Clarksburg as a bandsman and custodian and was in charge of transients.

Welcome Dinner Set

He attended school in Clarksburg and at present is taking a correspondence course from the American School in Chicago. His future plans are to enter the Southern Training College in Atlanta and complete the nine-month course there. Although he is not a veteran of World War II, Starkey served in the U. S. Coast Guard for about four months in 1948.

He is a son of Mrs. G. H. Corbin, Kent, Ohio, and the late Jessie L. Starkey, of Clarksburg. Captain Biggs, last night said a "Welcome Meeting" will be held Sunday evening at 7:45 in South Cumberland where the two men will reside.

Grand Jurors To Hear Last Witnesses Today

The Grand Jury for the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court is scheduled to hear a final eight witnesses and inspect the County Jail and Court House today before submitting its report to the court.

Meanwhile, an indictment charging Richard Pendlebury, 29-year-old war veteran now living in Lonaconing, with assault and battery in the wounding of a city police officer's son, has been returned by the Grand Jury and place on the court's open docket.

The pellets, they reported, wounded Larry Pfeiffer, three-year-old son of Officer and Mrs. George Pfeiffer, who was playing on the floor of the apartment upstairs. The child was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment.

Pendlebury has been free on bond since shortly after the incident.

Weather

One of the loveliest spring days this year went into the record books yesterday as most Cumberlanders happily took off their topcoats. Officially, the high was a pleasant 66 and the low was 40 at Constitution Park. At 8 p.m. the temperature stood at 56. The humidity at 6 p.m. was 66 per cent. Today will not be quite as nice if the weather forecast holds true. It calls for rather cloudy and mild, followed by scattered showers in the afternoon or night.

Kiddy Reported Good

Pfc. Paul O. Kiddy, 20, of Nikep, who suffered two broken arms in a highway mishap Tuesday afternoon near Barton on Route 36, is reported in "good" condition at Miners Hospital, Frostburg. The youth, who was twice-wounded in action in Korea, had recently returned to the United States and was home on a 30-day furlough.

Collins Heads Optimist Club

Robert O. Collins was elected new president of the Optimist Club of Cumberland last night at a meeting in Central YMCA. He succeeds Sidney A. Staggers.

Other officers elected were:

Paul S. Bixler, Jr., vice president in charge of publicity; Carl R. Amtower, vice president in charge of program; Frank H. Kaplon, vice president in charge of boys work, and Charles M. See, vice president in charge of membership and attendance.

Homer C. Brooks, sergeant-at-arms, and Earl M. Nonnenmann, William J. Chappell, James E. Honeycutt, Donald W. Mason, Francis A. Warnick and A. Richard Shoff, elected to the board of governors.

Also last night, different groups of the club gave brief reports.

Public School Children Return To Classes Today

Their six-day Easter vacation now over, Allegany County's public school pupils will report for classes this morning.

As they return they face a final nine weeks of school before the summer vacation starts Friday, June 12. They will have no weekday holidays in these last weeks of school. Memorial Day, generally the last holiday while school is still in session, falls on Saturday this year.

Potomac Valley Butterfat And Milk Production Higher

Volume of milk and butterfat producted by cows in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association in March showed an upswing from the first two months of 1953 but the percentage of butterfat was off slightly.

Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller, supervisors for the association, reported yesterday that for the 857 cows in 29 herds tested last month, the average production was 693 pounds of milk and 28 pounds of butterfat. In February these figures were 606 pounds and 24.7 pounds. In January they were recorded at 642 pounds and 26.4 pounds.

Percentage-wise, the butterfat figure has gone down slightly each month this year. In January it was 4.11 per cent, in February it was lowered to 4.08 and last month moved down a notch to 4.05.

The association's butterfat champion last month was Spot, a grade Guernsey owned by Lloyd Nave, Bedford Valley, Pa., which produced 84 pounds of butterfat in 1,370 pounds of milk. Second place sent to No. 19, another grade Guernsey belonging to A. E. and D. W. Light, Pinto, with 79 pounds of butterfat in 1,640 pounds of milk. Third was Ruby, a registered Holstein belonging to Lester Raines, Baltimore Pike, with 78 pounds of butterfat in 2,160 pounds of milk.

Twelve cows were on the honor list of 10 biggest butterfat producers because three were tied for tenth place with 68 pounds.

Raines had four of his cows among the top 12 and the Lights had two. Other dairymen with big butterfat producers last month was John T. Mason, Cresaptown; E. R. Street, R. A. Oster, Bedford Valley, Pa.; Ernest A. Light, Pinto, two cows, and R. E. Carskaden, Burlington, W. Va.

$265,000 Sought In Tragic Crash

Attorneys interested in the 21 civil suits totaling $265,000, which grew out of Allegany County's worst highway accident in history, yesterday discussed with Associate Judge George Henderson the question of consolidating some of these suits for expediting the trials.

No decision was reached but the lawyers will discuss further among themselves the possibility of consolidation. The attorneys plan to bring the suits to trial in mid-June

Five Men Killed

These damage suits resulted from the tragic accident last August 31 on McMullen Highway near the Pinto Road intersection in which five young men from the Tri-Towns died. Killed were Timothy M. Gilmore, Westernport; Charles Lee Kalbaugh, Piedmont, W. Va.; Earl Glenn Kalbaugh, Westernport; Richard Daniel Moran, Westernport, and Richard Allen Michael, Westernport.

Injured were James Thompson, Piedmont, who was riding in the car with the other five men, and Miss Joretta Proudfoot, Rowlesburg, W. Va., who was sitting in a parked car.

There are four different defendants in these suits but not all of the actions name the same defendants. The defendants include Lewis Howard Allwine, Highland Park, N. J., who had been driving the parked car struck in the accident; Lewis Thomas Allwine, also of Highland Park, N.J., owner of the car his son had been driving; James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard Moran, owner of the car in which the Tri-Towns men were riding, and Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore, who was driving Moran's car.

Attorney's Confer

Attorneys who conferred with Judge Henderson about the consolidation included Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., representing plaintiffs, and William C. Walsh, C. William Gilchrist and William J. Gunter, representing defendants.

The attorneys reported that Miss Proudfoot in January married the younger Allwine, who is one of the defendants in the $25,000 suit she has brought.

Promoters Of Route 40 Meet Tonight

Area businessmen will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in LaVale Fire Hall to continue plans for the organization of a group to promote tourist travel over U. S. Route 40.

Two weeks ago, the first meeting was held at the Cumberland Brewing Company's social room and a tentative organization was set up and a steering committee named.

Since that time the committee has evolved a plan of organization for a permanent corporation, along with a program of activity. Numerous business people along Route 40 east and west of Cumberland have been contacted and widespread interest indicated.

Officers of the temporary group said indications are that tonight's attendance should be even larger than the 50 or 60 who attended the initial session. They are confident the program as outlined at committee sessions is a good one and believe area businessmen along Route 40 as well as in neighboring sections of the area will support the plan.

Efforts are to be made to agree on a constitution and by-laws, to incorporate the association, select permanent officers and inaugurate a widespread program of publicity, promotion and advertising.

The meeting tonight is open to all interested persons.

Work Begins On Industrial Dam

Preliminary work toward construction of a dam across the Potomac River, one of the phases of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project, is now underway in Riverside Park, just off Greene Street.

Some of the concrete park benches have already been removed by city workrs in preparation for work by the contractor, E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago.

The Albrecht Company recently was notified by the Corps of Army Engineers that it was low bidder on the project. The approach to the dam, on which the Cumberland-Ridgeley Bridge will be built, will go through the park.

The bridge which will replace Blue Bridge now leading into Ridgeley will aid in alleviating a traffic problem between the two cities.

Trio Released After Paying For Fowl

Three persons arrested Tuesday night for the theft of chickens and two turkeys, were released yesterday after they made restitution to the owner, according to police.

Authorities said the trio gave the owner $20 in payment for the fowl.

State To Use Mobile Labs In Air Pollution Studies

Two mobile laboratory trailers to aid in the work of determining air pollution in the counties of Maryland have been purchased by the State Health Department.

Designed by the Division of Industrial Health and Air Pollution, one is a 30-foot laboratory trailer equipped with apparatus and reagents for making field tests. It has a 30-gallon water tank with sink and drain connections, carries five gallons of distilled water for laboratory purposes and has facilities for using 110-volt electric current and bottled gas.

The other trailer houses an automatic sulphur dioxide continuous recorder and a motor generator for supplying necessary electric current.

The new equipment will be used to make immediate analyses of air contaminants and to keep a continuous record of the concentration of certain pollutants, according to Dr. William Reindollar, chief of the health division. Dr. Reindollar conducted a state-wide survey of air pollution control and its problems at the request of the Governor's Committee on Noxious Fumes in 1950.

"Heavy concentrations of soot and dust descending on an area darken paint on homes, soil wash hung on lines and in general depreciate property. But these emanations, disseminated by the stacks of factories and from other sources not only constitute economic nuisances but may also be health hazards. The division receives many complaints daily from people living in industrial areas who say the gaseous substances nauseate them, irritate their respiratory systems, or in other ways make them feel ill," Dr. Reindollar stated.

But air pollution offers many problems, the doctor continued. The source of the pollution, the weather, and whether certain substances are a health hazard are but a few of the problems facing the division in its work to free the air of pollution.

Along with industrial air pollution control the division is striving to protect the health of workers in more than 1,500 industries in the state.

Representatives make visits to industrial establishments to make occupational disease surveys and environmental studies to evaluate and improve health conditions for the workers, Reindollar pointed out.

"The new equipment will be a big help," he added.

A couple of years ago, people attending the air show at Municipal Airport saw among the numerous exhibits, a peculiar barrel-shaped wingless aircraft, made by a designer in Hagerstown. The gadget, for that is what it appeared to many to be, was and is known as a channel wing airplane.

Yesterday, the Cumberland Lions Club had as guest speaker, the designer of this ship. Willard R. Custer of Hagerstown, who spoke of the progress being made with his development and outlined the principal of operation and plans for manufacturing the plane.

May Be Invited Here

As a result of his visit here, a group of businessmen, lawyers and interested citizens last night and yesterday afternoon, discussed quite seriously, the possibility of inviting and interesting Custer to manufacture his planes in Cumberland. The Industrial Promotion Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has been contacted and a proposal is to be presented to Custer immediately.

Custer told the Lions Club yesterday that he has organized the Channel Wing Corporation, with headquarters at Hagerstown, to begin manufacture of the planes. He is president of the corporation.

Many aviation enthusiasts, familiar with the channel wing plane and the idea behind it, believe that the design may make possible one of the most revolutionary advances in aviation since the Wright brothers began to fly a half century ago. His idea in theory in aerodynamics will work, despite the fact that top aeronautical engineers tried to discourage him by saying the idea was contrary to the laws of flight.

Two models Custer built despite his critics have logged a total of 600 miles. The first was flown in Hagerstown in 1949 at the Hagerstown Municipal Airport.

Idea During Storm

Custer told the Lions here that he first got the idea for his channel wings more than a quarter century ago during a severe storm. He said he had gone into a barn for shelter, and during the storm, the roof of the barn was suddenly lifted by the wind, carried into the air and blown away.

Having been interested in aviation, and being mechanically inclined, he began studying why the roof was lifted and what factors in nature would make such a thing possible. "The barn didn't move like a plane does in take-off," he

Rec Department Gets First Bid For Picnic Kit

The City Recreation Department has hailed as a sure sign of spring its first request for a picnic kit.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said the department considers its picnic kit service one of the outstanding parts of its program.

The department furnishes free, to any organized group of the city, all equipment needed for picnic activities.

Available are equipment for softball, badminton, horseshoes, volley ball, tennis and croquet. Rope is also available for a tug of war and sacks and similar equipment is on hand for popular picnic games.

A picnic activities booklet, provided free with each kit, includes complete plans for picnic activities and rules on active games, races and relays.

Pence said each kit is prepared by the department after the group planning the picnic fills out a list furnished by the department.

The department keeps enough equipment on hand to make up about eight kits at a time. Pence suggested that requests be made as early as possible, since all of the equipment was out on many weekends last year.

There is no charged for the use of the picnic equipment, but groups are asked to replace any pieces which are lost or broken.

Last year, over 100 picnic kits were loaned to groups.

News In Brief

The executive board of the Parent-Teacher Association of Johnson Heights School will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

The Municipal Airport Commission will meet in the mayor's office at the City Hall at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 21.

Man Held Under $2,500 In Theft

A 38-year-old Ridgeley man was ordered held under $2,500 for action of the Grand Jury yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of robbery.

Police listed him as John H. Miller, who was taken to Allegany County Jail yesterday afternoon.

Authorities said Miller gave himself up by walking into City Police Station after Hugh Boyer, about 30, also of Ridgeley, swore out a warrant against Miller.

Boyer told police Miller and a companion, Sunny Biggs, of Ridgeley, beat him up and took his "bottle" and wallet during a drinking party near the old C&O Canal in back of a store Friday.

Authorities said Boyer came to Police Headquarters Friday and appeared as if he had been in a fight. He had lacerations of the head and jaw.

CAP Holds Meeting

The local Civil Air Patrol held its regular business meeting at the Cumberland airport last night at 7:30 with Capt. Warren Mullenax, commander, in charge. The next session will be held Tuesday, April 14.

Two Celanese Engineers Get 25-Year Pins

John Deffenbaugh, John Thomas Honored

Two Celanese Corporation engineers were honored Monday after completion of 25 years of service at the Amcelle plant and each received gold wrist watches from the plant manager at the ceremonies.

Receiving the honors were John Thomas, Frostburg, and John C. Deffenbaugh of Mt. Savage.

Thomas, who has been a tinsmith in the general workshops for almost 12 years, worked as a helper and apprentice in the sheet metal shops for 12 years prior to that.

His favorite pastime is bowling and he attended the American Bowling Congress National Tournament in Chicago, Ill., recently, participating in the tournament as a member of Workman's Restaurant team. He also is an ardent baseball fan.

Thomas is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 245, Cumberland, and the Frostburg Loyal Order of Moose.

Deffenbaugh has been a machinist in the Spinning Engineering Division for his entire employment at Amcelle plant.

He learned his trade as a millwright at the Union Mining Company where he worked for over five years.

Deffenbaugh is vice president of the Mt. Savage Baseball Association which includes Little League, Hot Stove League and Bi-State League and participates actively as an umpire in the Hot Stove circuit.

He is married and the father of four children.

Both employees were honored by the plant engineer who awarded them gold five-star Celanese service emblems and engraved 25-year certificates.

Road Drainage Program Begins Its Second Year

Flow Of Sewage Being Corrected

A systematic drive by state and county authorities to halt the flow of house drainage upon highways of Allegany County went into its second year this month.

The campaign was started last spring as the County Health Department, the State Roads Commission and the Board of Allegany County Commissioners attacked the problems resulting from the flow of sewage from homes bordering the highways.

263 Complaints Listed

Last year, 263 complaints listed by the SRC were corrected through cooperation of the three agencies according to J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian.

The SRC, through George B. Hale, resident engineer, recently cited to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, 150 homes where house drainage creates health or traffic safety hazards.

Hale pointed out that in some cases the drainage flows onto the road, into ditches or culverts or upon shoulders of the road.

In winter, the flow creates icy spots which are traffic hazards and in summer soft shoulders. At all times, the untreated home drainage is a health hazard to road workers and all who use the road.

Court Orders Issued

Dowling said the first court orders have already been issued in the 1953 drive and said the campaign will be speeded up as spring advances.

The complaints were listed from homes bordering U. S. Route 40 and State Routes 35, 36 and 654.

Dowling said correction in many cases can be made through the installation of adequate drainage fields in existing septic tank systems.

All Clear Stacks Reported At Local Terminal Meeting

Clear stacks were reported in all of the 230 locomotive observations made by the Smoke Abatement Office in the Cumberland terminal last month.

Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, made 217 observations on the Baltimore and Ohio and 13 Western Maryland locomotives.

The report was made Tuesday at a Cumberland Terminal meeting held in City Hall with F. A. Murphy, B. and O. road foreman of engines, acting as chairman.

B. and O. officials reported that within 60 days, the Cumberland Division expects to complete the dieselization of freight motive power, with steam used only for helpers, locals and a few passenger runs.

In response to an observation made at the Queen City Station, B. and O. officials said they are changing to another type of coal in an effort to halt smoke complaints from the station. No report was received from a questionnaire sent to the Bolt and Forge Shop concerning a stationary boiler there.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Gladys Mae Gordon vs. Benjamin H. Gordon and Nellie Shroyer vs. Robert Shroyer.

Permit Referred

The Building Engineer yesterday referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals the application of Graham Gray, Midland, to manufacture hair tonic in a building at the rear of 132 Polk Street.

Guard Companies To Bivouac For Annual Firing

Will Set Up Field Camp Near Pinto

Headquarters and C Companies, of Cumberland, and D Company, of Frostburg, Maryland National Guard, will bivouac at the area units' firing range near Pinto the weekends of April 25 and 26 and May 2 and 3.

The purpose of the two overnight bivouacs is the Guardsmen's annual field firing. Members of the three local units will fire to qualify for three ratings in handling the .30 caliber M-1 rifle, the carbine rifle and the pistol.

Guardsmen will fire to meet qualifications for medals of Expert, Sharpshooter and Marksman. They are required to fire every year to meet qualifications.

Extra Pay

In addition the State of Maryland will issue special pay to guardsmen qualifying for the medals. Pay allotted is 20 per cent of base pay additional for Expert, 15 per cent for Sharpshooter and 10 per cent for Marksman.

Firing the bivouac will be under the supervision of Col. Randolph Milholland, regimental commander, and his staff, and Major Robert C. Matlick, battalion commander, and his staff.

Camping will operate under strict field conditions, and a field mess kitchen will be set up along with tents. Mess will be served on a battalion level.

Firing will take place at the new firing range constructed last year by area Guardsmen on a field near Barton's Dairy and the Allegany Beagle Club near Pinto. Both organizations donated the land to the Guard units for use as a firing range and camping.

New Enlistments

Guard officials said the range meets every military regulation for safety and compares with ranges of its type in military posts such as those used at Fort Meade and Camp Lee, Va.

Capt. Ralph Ballin will be physician during the weekends, and each unit will have with them their unit first aid men.

Officials announced yesterday that five men enlisted in the local units this week.

They are John Edward Roby, 306 Crawford Street, who was enlisted as a Staff Sergeant, a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict; and Steven Eugene Thompson, 501 Springdale Street; John Edward Yost, Jr., Bedford, Pa.; Ernest Leroy Davis, Jr., Oldtown, and Melvin Vernon VanMeter, Oldtown, all enlisted as privates.

Welcomed To City

Salvation Army Workers Will Assume Duties Here

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Two workers of the Salvation Army have been transferred here and will take charge of the South Cumberland Corps on Virginia Avenue.

Lt. Harry Powell, 26, a resident of Salisbury, according to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, will direct religious and recreational activities in South Cumberland.

He will be assisted by C. L. Starkey, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Both men arrived in Cumberland last night and were briefed by Captain Biggs.

Will Assist Biggs

The transfer was made through Division Headquarters in Baltimore. Captain Biggs said he will continue to be in charge of Community Chest affairs and other public relation policy in the city and will be assisted by the two men.

Lt. Powell, who comes here from Parkersburg, where he was assistant to Capt. Burl D. Wyatt for 10 months as Young Peoples Officer, graduated from Southern Training College in Atlanta, Ga. This is his second appointment and in May he will complete his probationary period.

He has been affiliated with the Salvation Army for the past 17 years and while in Salisbury where he graduated from high school, he served as secretary of the Young People's Legion and did other office work.

World War II Vet

During World War II, Lt. Powell served with the Medical Corps in the U. S. Army and saw service in the Philippine Islands. He is a son of Mrs. Ida Powell of Salisbury.

Mr. Starkey, 25, a native of Clarksburg, has been affiliated with the Salvation Army since 1939 in that city and since 1949 has worked as a soldier in the Corps.

For four months he was in charge of Chestnut Street Outpost, and prior to coming here he worked at the Citadel in Clarksburg as a bandsman and custodian and was in charge of transients.

Welcome Dinner Set

He attended school in Clarksburg and at present is taking a correspondence course from the American School in Chicago. His future plans are to enter the Southern Training College in Atlanta and complete the nine-month course there. Although he is not a veteran of World War II, Starkey served in the U. S. Coast Guard for about four months in 1948.

He is a son of Mrs. G. H. Corbin, Kent, Ohio, and the late Jessie L. Starkey, of Clarksburg. Captain Biggs, last night said a "Welcome Meeting" will be held Sunday evening at 7:45 in South Cumberland where the two men will reside.

Grand Jurors To Hear Last Witnesses Today

The Grand Jury for the April term of Allegany County Circuit Court is scheduled to hear a final eight witnesses and inspect the County Jail and Court House today before submitting its report to the court.

Meanwhile, an indictment charging Richard Pendlebury, 29-year-old war veteran now living in Lonaconing, with assault and battery in the wounding of a city police officer's son, has been returned by the Grand Jury and place on the court's open docket.

The pellets, they reported, wounded Larry Pfeiffer, three-year-old son of Officer and Mrs. George Pfeiffer, who was playing on the floor of the apartment upstairs. The child was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment.

Pendlebury has been free on bond since shortly after the incident.

Collins Heads Optimist Club

Robert O. Collins was elected new president of the Optimist Club of Cumberland last night at a meeting in Central YMCA. He succeeds Sidney A. Staggers.

Other officers elected were:

Paul S. Bixler, Jr., vice president in charge of publicity; Carl R. Amtower, vice president in charge of program; Frank H. Kaplon, vice president in charge of boys work, and Charles M. See, vice president in charge of membership and attendance.

Homer C. Brooks, sergeant-at-arms, and Earl M. Nonnenmann, William J. Chappell, James E. Honeycutt, Donald W. Mason, Francis A. Warnick and A. Richard Shoff, elected to the board of governors.

Also last night, different groups of the club gave brief reports.

Public School Children Return To Classes Today

Their six-day Easter vacation now over, Allegany County's public school pupils will report for classes this morning.

As they return they face a final nine weeks of school before the summer vacation starts Friday, June 12. They will have no weekday holidays in these last weeks of school. Memorial Day, generally the last holiday while school is still in session, falls on Saturday this year.

Weather

One of the loveliest spring days this year went into the record books yesterday as most Cumberlanders happily took off their topcoats. Officially, the high was a pleasant 66 and the low was 40 at Constitution Park. At 8 p.m. the temperature stood at 56. The humidity at 6 p.m. was 66 per cent. Today will not be quite as nice if the weather forecast holds true. It calls for rather cloudy and mild, followed by scattered showers in the afternoon or night.

UNOFFICIAL DOWNTOWN TEMPERATURES

Kiddy Reported Good

Pfc. Paul O. Kiddy, 20, of Nikep, who suffered two broken arms in a highway mishap Tuesday afternoon near Barton on Route 36, is reported in "good" condition at Miners Hospital, Frostburg. The youth, who was twice-wounded in action in Korea, had recently returned to the United States and was home on a 30-day furlough.

Potomac Valley Butterfat And Milk Production Higher

Volume of milk and butterfat producted by cows in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association in March showed an upswing from the first two months of 1953 but the percentage of butterfat was off slightly.

Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller, supervisors for the association, reported yesterday that for the 857 cows in 29 herds tested last month, the average production was 693 pounds of milk and 28 pounds of butterfat. In February these figures were 606 pounds and 24.7 pounds. In January they were recorded at 642 pounds and 26.4 pounds.

Percentage-wise, the butterfat figure has gone down slightly each month this year. In January it was 4.11 per cent, in February it was lowered to 4.08 and last month moved down a notch to 4.05.

The association's butterfat champion last month was Spot, a grade Guernsey owned by Lloyd Nave, Bedford Valley, Pa., which produced 84 pounds of butterfat in 1,370 pounds of milk. Second place sent to No. 19, another grade Guernsey belonging to A. E. and D. W. Light, Pinto, with 79 pounds of butterfat in 1,640 pounds of milk. Third was Ruby, a registered Holstein belonging to Lester Raines, Baltimore Pike, with 78 pounds of butterfat in 2,160 pounds of milk.

Twelve cows were on the honor list of 10 biggest butterfat producers because three were tied for tenth place with 68 pounds.

Raines had four of his cows among the top 12 and the Lights had two. Other dairymen with big butterfat producers last month was John T. Mason, Cresaptown; E. R. Street, R. A. Oster, Bedford Valley, Pa.; Ernest A. Light, Pinto, two cows, and R. E. Carskaden, Burlington, W. Va.

Work Begins On Industrial Dam

Some of the concrete park benches have already been removed by city workrs in preparation for work by the contractor, E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago.

The Albrecht Company recently was notified by the Corps of Army Engineers that it was low bidder on the project. The approach to the dam, on which the Cumberland-Ridgeley Bridge will be built, will go through the park.

The bridge which will replace Blue Bridge now leading into Ridgeley will aid in alleviating a traffic problem between the two cities.

Trio Released After Paying For Fowl

Three persons arrested Tuesday night for the theft of chickens and two turkeys, were released yesterday after they made restitution to the owner, according to police.

Authorities said the trio gave the owner $20 in payment for the fowl.

$265,000 Sought In Tragic Crash

Attorneys interested in the 21 civil suits totaling $265,000, which grew out of Allegany County's worst highway accident in history, yesterday discussed with Associate Judge George Henderson the question of consolidating some of these suits for expediting the trials.

No decision was reached but the lawyers will discuss further among themselves the possibility of consolidation. The attorneys plan to bring the suits to trial in mid-June

Five Men Killed

These damage suits resulted from the tragic accident last August 31 on McMullen Highway near the Pinto Road intersection in which five young men from the Tri-Towns died. Killed were Timothy M. Gilmore, Westernport; Charles Lee Kalbaugh, Piedmont, W. Va.; Earl Glenn Kalbaugh, Westernport; Richard Daniel Moran, Westernport, and Richard Allen Michael, Westernport.

Injured were James Thompson, Piedmont, who was riding in the car with the other five men, and Miss Joretta Proudfoot, Rowlesburg, W. Va., who was sitting in a parked car.

There are four different defendants in these suits but not all of the actions name the same defendants. The defendants include Lewis Howard Allwine, Highland Park, N. J., who had been driving the parked car struck in the accident; Lewis Thomas Allwine, also of Highland Park, N.J., owner of the car his son had been driving; James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard Moran, owner of the car in which the Tri-Towns men were riding, and Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore, who was driving Moran's car.

Attorney's Confer

Attorneys who conferred with Judge Henderson about the consolidation included Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., representing plaintiffs, and William C. Walsh, C. William Gilchrist and William J. Gunter, representing defendants.

The attorneys reported that Miss Proudfoot in January married the younger Allwine, who is one of the defendants in the $25,000 suit she has brought.

Promoters Of Route 40 Meet Tonight

Area businessmen will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in LaVale Fire Hall to continue plans for the organization of a group to promote tourist travel over U. S. Route 40.

Two weeks ago, the first meeting was held at the Cumberland Brewing Company's social room and a tentative organization was set up and a steering committee named.

Since that time the committee has evolved a plan of organization for a permanent corporation, along with a program of activity. Numerous business people along Route 40 east and west of Cumberland have been contacted and widespread interest indicated.

Officers of the temporary group said indications are that tonight's attendance should be even larger than the 50 or 60 who attended the initial session. They are confident the program as outlined at committee sessions is a good one and believe area businessmen along Route 40 as well as in neighboring sections of the area will support the plan.

Efforts are to be made to agree on a constitution and by-laws, to incorporate the association, select permanent officers and inaugurate a widespread program of publicity, promotion and advertising.

The meeting tonight is open to all interested persons.

State To Use Mobile Labs In Air Pollution Studies

Two mobile laboratory trailers to aid in the work of determining air pollution in the counties of Maryland have been purchased by the State Health Department.

Designed by the Division of Industrial Health and Air Pollution, one is a 30-foot laboratory trailer equipped with apparatus and reagents for making field tests. It has a 30-gallon water tank with sink and drain connections, carries five gallons of distilled water for laboratory purposes and has facilities for using 110-volt electric current and bottled gas.

The other trailer houses an automatic sulphur dioxide continuous recorder and a motor generator for supplying necessary electric current.

The new equipment will be used to make immediate analyses of air contaminants and to keep a continuous record of the concentration of certain pollutants, according to Dr. William Reindollar, chief of the health division. Dr. Reindollar conducted a state-wide survey of air pollution control and its problems at the request of the Governor's Committee on Noxious Fumes in 1950.

"Heavy concentrations of soot and dust descending on an area darken paint on homes, soil wash hung on lines and in general depreciate property. But these emanations, disseminated by the stacks of factories and from other sources not only constitute economic nuisances but may also be health hazards. The division receives many complaints daily from people living in industrial areas who say the gaseous substances nauseate them, irritate their respiratory systems, or in other ways make them feel ill," Dr. Reindollar stated.

But air pollution offers many problems, the doctor continued. The source of the pollution, the weather, and whether certain substances are a health hazard are but a few of the problems facing the division in its work to free the air of pollution.

Along with industrial air pollution control the division is striving to protect the health of workers in more than 1,500 industries in the state.

Representatives make visits to industrial establishments to make occupational disease surveys and environmental studies to evaluate and improve health conditions for the workers, Reindollar pointed out.

"The new equipment will be a big help," he added.

The report was made Tuesday at a Cumberland Terminal meeting held in City Hall with F. A. Murphy, B. and O. road foreman of engines, acting as chairman.

B. and O. officials reported that within 60 days, the Cumberland Division expects to complete the dieselization of freight motive power, with steam used only for helpers, locals and a few passenger runs.

In response to an observation made at the Queen City Station, B. and O. officials said they are changing to another type of coal in an effort to halt smoke complaints from the station. No report was received from a questionnaire sent to the Bolt and Forge Shop concerning a stationary boiler there.
